ORPHANS' CHIEF HOLDS POST

E. E. WEBB STANDS PAT WHEN FAIRMOUNT BOARD CALLS FOR RESIGNATION

Declaring he Had Been Advised by Governor Donahey to "Return and Continue my Good Work," Man Pardoned in Canton Flogging Case Declines to Heed Request to Quit His Position.

OFFICER IS UNDER CIVIL SERVICE REGULATIONS; MUST FILE CHARGES

Two Trustees, Who Submitted Their Resignations Last Week, Reconsider Their Action and Announce They Will Continue as Members, at Request of Commissioners of Columbiana and Stark Counties.

Declaring that he had been advised by Governor Donahey to "return and continue my good work," E. E. Webb, superintendent of the Fairmount Children's home at Alliance, yesterday, refused to heed the unanimous request of the commissioners of Columbiana and Stark counties and the board of trustees of the institution for his resignation.

The joint meeting of the commissioners, held at the home, was called for the purpose of acting on the resignations of four members of the board of trustees, who quit as an aftermath of Governor Donahey's action in pardoning Webb from a 60-day workhouse sentence imposed upon him for his part in the flogging of a Canton man several months ago.

"In granting me a pardon, the governor urged me to return to the home, continue my good work and sin no more," Webb is said to have told the commissioners at their conference with the trustees. "I am acting upon his advice and refuse to resign."

Neither Webb nor his wife, who is matron at the home, would make any statement following the meeting.

Charges Unlikely To Be Filed.

Because of the death of Charles Y. Kay, of Alliance, chairman of the board of trustees, it is not likely that charges will be filed against Webb, at this time to force his removal, the Commissioners stated. As superintendent of the home, Webb is employed under civil service regulations and cannot be removed against his own wishes unless found guilty of incompetency or malfeasance in office.

At the request of the commissioners of the two counties, two of the trustees who submitted their resignations last week, reconsidered their actions and announced they would continue as members of the board for the present at least. They are F. W. Weidemayer, Leetonia, and Jacob Graze, Massillon.

The board at its morning session, Thursday selected H. J. Fraser, East Palestine to suceed Joseph Crist, Homeworth, who is said to have resigned because of ill health, and G. H. Cassidy, Canton as successor to W. C. Schick, Canton, whose resignation has been in the hands of the board for several months. A successor to Mr. Kay will not be named until after his

Jinx Day is Not Unlucky For Man In Murder Trial

WOOSTER, Ohio, Feb. 13.—Friday, the thirteenth, was not an unlucky day for Joseph Marone, 25, for a verdict read in common pleas court at 9 A. M. found him not guilty of the murder of Edwin L. Vetter last August.

Vetter's body was found along a lonely road.

Fred Perrenod testified in the trial that he was sitting in an automobile nearby, with a young woman, and saw the crime committed. He identified Marone as one of the two men who killed Vetter.

D. W. JOHNSTON DIES IN WEST

Former Restauranteur Succumbs in Tucson, Arizona.

David W. Johnston, aged about 60, former East Liverpool restauranteur and latter identified with the William Erlanger Co., died yesterday in Tucson, Arizona, where he had gone in hopes of benefiting his health.

Mr. Johnston left here 10 years ago, going to Toledo, where he was associated with a traction company. For many years he was active in civic and labor movements here.

He leaves his wife, who was with him in Arizona, and two sisters, Mrs. J. Harmon Allison, of Chester, and Mrs. Wallace McElroy, of Youngstown.

The body will be brought to the home of a brother in law, M. J. O'Shea, of West Fifth street. Arrangements for the funeral, however, have not been completed.

OEDENBURG, Germany, Feb. 13—The town story-teller, the children's friend and the man who kept Oedenburg's streets as cleanly swept as the proverbial pin, is dead. Plans were made today to erect a monument to his memory.

But, oddly, although almost everybody in Oedenburg knew the Street Sweeper and heard his stories very few could tell his name, and the newspapers in chronicling his death did not give it.

He asked no fee but the pleasure of his listeners. His folk lore is being compiled from those who heard it, to be published as "Tales of the Street Sweeper."

FLOOD DANGER PASSES; RIVER FALLING AFTER 28.9-FOOT CREST

WATER IN CELLARS

Lowlands in Northside, Pittsburgh, are Inundated.

Reaching a crest of 28.9 feet at U. S. Government Lock No. 8, just below here, at 3 o'clock this morning, the Ohio river, which has been threatening a flood stage, is receding.

After remaining stationary a few hours, the water began falling. At 9 A. M., the stage was 28.6 feet, while it was receding at the rate one-twentieth of an inch an hour.

The danger mark is 35 feet.

There was no damage in the East Liverpool district.

Allegheny River Falling.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 13.—After rising to the 21.9 foot stage, the Allegheny river here remained stationary until midnight, and started to fall this morning, according to the local weather bureau.

Low lying sections in the Northside are flooded and water is entering many cellars. Work at the Baltimore & Ohio railroad siding along the Allegheny river is practically stopped.

The flood stage in this scetion is 22 feet. R. C. McCullough, superintnedent of locks and dams on the Allegheny and Ohio rivers, said the flood stage would not be reached on the Ohio river.

Cold Weather Welcomed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Cold weather was welcomed today by people in districts where floods are reaching over six eastern states, and menacing river districts in New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hempshire. A promised extension of the sharp drop in temperature held hope of relief from the high water stages.

In upper New York state, melting snows and the steady downpour which preceded the sharp return to winter weather last night have piled up huge property losses. Ice jams further aggravated the floods.

Schenectady streets along the Mohawk river front were flooded and trolley traffic to Saratoga was halted by a water stage of 14 feet above normal.

Streets in Albany also were covered with water.

In the remote country sections, farmers' families were marooned by the swollen rivers and row boats were being brought to their relief.

"Careless Little Bride" Will Face Charge of Bigamy

BENNINGTON, Vt., Feb. 13.—An officer from Camden, N. J., arrived here today with extradition papers for Mrs. Harry R. Clinton, 26, called by the police "the careless little bride."

She forgot all about the fourth husband when she married her fifth, she told the authorities.

"But I'll never marry another man as long as I live', she added.

"The careless little bride" is said by police to have confessed to marrying these men:

George O. Brown, Springfield, Mass., divorced.

Benjamin Hamlin, Patchogue, N. Y., divorced.

Fred Kniskern, Schoharie, N. Y., the man she forgot.

Harry R. Clinton, Camden, N. J.

The officer from New Jersey said she was indicted there for bigamy.

Sheriff Thomas Bailey of Midland county said Badgsley admitted waylaying the girl as she returned home from school and dragging her into the woods where she was killed.

The body was hidden behind a stump in the second growth of cut overlands. Searching parties had started out when she failed to return home from school.

129 ARE KILLED IN MINE BLAST

DORTMUND, Germany, Feb. 13.—Total deaths from German's worst mine disaster were placed at 129 this afternoon. This included bodies removed and eight dead miners still in the tunnels.

Chancellor Luther viewed the mine wreckage today and visited families of the victims. Luther cut short his vacation yesterday and hurried here to take charge of rescue work.

Flags were flying at half mast here and in many other cities of Germany as Dortmound counted its dead.

So far as known the accident was caused by a spark from an engine exploding "firedamp," a gas which collects in mines. The detonations shook the town like peals of thunder. All protective walls in the tunnels and shafts were said to have been thrown down, thus trapping the men.

Ohio Barge Line Proposal Inquiry Board is Named

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Halleck W. Seamon, a banker of Clinto, Iowa, and Wilmer M. Jacoby, secretary of the Pittsburgh flood commission, have been appointed members of the inland waterways commission to investigate extension of a barge line to the Ohio and upper Mississippi rivers, it was announced at the War department today.

NOME EPIDEMIC REPORTED ABATED

Skeptical Regarding Birmingham, Ala., Prisoner's Story That he Murdered Woman and Shoveled Her Body in Furnace.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13.—County and police officials here today were disinclined to believe that solution of the mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. C. V. Sheatsley, wife of a local clergyman, whose charred remains were found in the basement furnace at the Sheatsley home November 17, last, is imminent.

Police officials who aided County Prosecutor King in his probe of the Sheatsley case were openly skeptical concerning the alleged confession of the man, detained at Birmingham, Ala., that he killed a woman and forced her body into the furnace in the basement of her home. While awaiting additional information from the Birmingham police, officials in the county prosecutor's office here declared they have nothing which would indicate that the Birmingham prisoner had anything to do with Mrs. Sheatsley's death.

Rev. Dr. Sheatsley said he would be very much interested in developments incident to the Birmingham arrest. While police officials expressed the opinion that the Birmingham prisoner is demented, they joined with Prosecutor King's office in asserting that careful consideration will be given to any official information they may receive from Birmingham.

May Be Victim of Amnesia.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 13—An unidentified man who declares he "remembers having murdered a preacher's wife and shoveled her body into a furnace," was held by police here today.

The man apparently about 30 years old, and well dressed, walked into police headquarters and requested that officers aid him in "finding himself."

He did not know his name nor where he was, he declared, but did have a hazy recollection of having burned a preacher's wife in a furnace.

"Something happened in the kitchen where the woman and I were," he told police. "I remember dragging a

CIRCUS TIGER KILLS GIRL IN MANILA TENT

PANIC FOLLOWS

Detective Kills Beast As it Leaps Into Midst of Crowd.

MANILA, Feb. 13.—Crashing through the steel bars that separated it from the girl performer who was putting the animal through its tricks, a circus tiger at a Manila carnival show this afternoon killed the young woman.

A quick minded Filipino detective in the audience shot and killed the blood-maddened jungle beast just as it was leaping from the stage on which it had ended teh girl's life into the midst of the crowded seats encircling the ringside.

So quickly did the killing occur that circus employees had no opportunity to come to the girl's rescue.

The shot felling the tiger as it hurtled through the air toward the audience quelled the panic which occurred.

Eddie Rickenbacker Ridicules Use of Anti-aircraft Guns

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Claims by general staff officers that anti-aircraft guns could properly portect the United States against enemy flyers were ridiculed today by witnesses appearing before the house committee investigating military aeronautics.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, premier American ace of the A. E. F. who was officially credited with 26 enemy planes, told the committee this morning that the "chief pastime" of American flyers in the World war was going aloft and permitting the "Archies" to shoot at them.

MUSSOLINI SENDS FASCIST MESSAGE

ROME, Feb. 13.—Fascism has won a great battle, but has not yet won "the war" was the message which went to black-shirt followers today from their premier and leader, Benito Mussolini.

His message was delivered at a meeting of the grand council of Fascismo, where the extremist leader Fariniacci was chosen secretary of the party.

65-FOOT DEPTH OF CORE DRILL KILLS HOPE OF RESCUE SQUAD

FIND NO TUNNEL

Friday, Thirteenth, Brings Burden of Ill Luck.

BY C. W. HARRIS

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 13.—Friends in the "life or death" shaft to rescue Floyd Collins from Sand cave shortly before 11 o'clock this morning sent word to doctors and nurses in the Red Cross tent "to be ready for anything."

The air was electric with expectancy but there was no formal word as to what was coming.

Telephone lines from Sand cave to Cave City buzzed and Lieut. Gov. H. H. Denhardt was called from his lunch and hurried by automobile to the cave.

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 13.—There is no short cut to Floyd Collins.

Long hours of drilling and of digging throughout the night disclosed today that no fissure will expedite the removel of the entombed cave explorer.

When the core drill, 15 feet from where the shaft was being sunk, reached 65 feet, a tunnel was disclosed. But the drill test in the bottom of the shaft revealed no such tunnel.

Workers Not Discouraged.

This means that tunnel drilled through hard lime-stone will have to be cut to the point where the test disclosed the fissure, so that it might be used as a starting point from which side-drifting will begin for the cavern where the entombed Floyd lies either dead or alive.

This will consume at least 48 hours.

"We are not discouraged by the drill test", H. T. Carmichael, director of the operations said, "Although it was a disappointment to us that no crevice was found similar to the one which the drill showed when we made the previous test about 15 feet southwest of the shaft. The results of this second test means that we will have to cut laterally in one and possible several directions when we get down to the level at which Collins is believed to be.

"Although it will be harder to dig

John McHenry, and his wife, Minnie, of 1902 Church street, were recovering in the City hospital today from minor injuries suffered shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when their automobile was struck by a C. & P. switching engine on the Horn switch at the foot of Jefferson street.

They were scratched, bruised and are suffering from shock, but sustained no broken bones. At the hospital they were attended by Dr. W. A. Hobbs.

McHenry, driving down the hill, failed to notice the approach of the engine which was backing down the grade with a box car. The body of the automobile, a sedan, was torn loose from the chassis by the force of the impact, the machine being a total wreck. McHenry and his wife were dragged from the wreckage by witnesses.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Woman's Eternal Hope.

It seems to be woman's nature to hope for the best in her husband even when experience has taught her that he is utterly worthless. An expression of regret and a promise to do better in the future has kept many a woman from the divorce courts, but she finds her life no brighter because of the empty words.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My husband and I separated two years ago. I sued for a divorce and then my husband came to me with promises to be different and persuaded me to withdraw my case. We have two boys; one is four and the other six years of age. I have always had the boys. I have a flat and he has a flat on the same street about two blocks away. Our trouble was over another woman. She is living with her husband and has three children, two in high school. She goes around telling people that he is going to get a divorce now that the two years are up and then they will be married. I suppose she figures that when he gets one her husband will get one too. What should I do? Keep on taking care of the boys while he runs around with her? Should I wait and see if he sues? I don't know what to do. I can see him go to her house and also see him come out.

DESERTED WIFE AND MOTHER.

As long as your husband has not kept his promise to be different and continues to see the other woman, apply again for a divorce. You have given him two years in which to prove himself worthy of you and the boys, and instead of doing so he has only shown you that family ties mean nothing to him. This time do not weaken and take him back only to be hurt against by his disloyty. I doubt if he will sue you. Take the matter in your own hands and don't wait to see.

Longing for Sympathy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman 36 years old. My husband does not seem to care very much for me any more. We have been married nine years and he was very good to me until about a year ago. I am sick most of the time but try to make my home happy. I never go any place and always try to have his meals ready when he comes in. It seems as if he chooses some one else for his company. I am not jealous and never throw such a thing up to him, but when he comes in he never asks me how I am or talks to me. It is more than I can stand for I love him. Please advise me what to do.

SNOW BALL.

Don't let yourself get hurt when your husband fails to inquire about the kind of day you have put in or the doctor's last report of your condition. Also refrain from mentioning the subject of your health to him. In case he should ask, be as cheerful and hopeful as possible, giving promise of better days ahead. It would be better for you to get away from home than to stay at home all the time to keep things up and have meals on time. You need to be refreshed by meeting people and attending amusements. If your husband will take you to a theatre or entertainment, go even if you are sick afterward. In the long run you will be better for the change. As it is your life is very monotonous and you have nothing to offer your husband in the way of conversation when he returns home. My advice isn't very consoling, but it is the only thing I can say.

Lonesome for Old Times.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 20 and away at school. I find it very hard to mingle with boys here and I always feel out of place in their presence. Before I came away I went "steady." I don't want to forget the boy at home, but I would like to be able to have good times like other college girls. I don't feel happy in the presence of boys. Please advise me how to overcome this awkward feeling. LONESOME SAL.

Don't shrink within yourself merely because it would be easier than to attend social functions. Force yourself to be alert and interested. At first it may be hard, but as time goes on you will feel less and less awkward and will make friends. I do not mean that you should do as the crowd does if that would be lowering your standards of right. You can be a good sport without being cheap. I am sure that all you need is practice in mingling.

Was She a Fool?

To satisfy her parents, Evelyn became engaged to Eugene. But she was not happy. In her eyes, Eugene was too perfect, too gentle and gravely correct. The ideal lover she dreamed of had in him something of the savage. She pictured him as big, virile, masterful, brave. Then in the black, frozen wastes of Alaska, a devil, disguised as Evelyn's ideal of a "man", came into her life. Followed a drama of elemental passion, fierce hate and fiercer love that was to test Eugene's manhood to the limit and try Evelyn's very soul. The outcome is as thrilling as it is unexpected. Evelyn tells the story under the title of "The Primitive Lover." Read it in True Story Magazine for March.

Surgeons, Physicians, Dentists Use Wonderful New Antiseptic

We are calling the attention of the good people of East Liverpool and vicinity of Kojene, the most powerful, non-poisonous, non-alcoholic, non-irritating Antiseptic known.

In this newspaper we will continue to tell the people, and especially the ailing people, to whom Kojene will prove a blessing, just exactly what physical ills it will help, and in spite of our enthusiasm for this wonderful antiseptic will stick to the truth in every statement we make.

We will not exaggerate—although some of the things we write may seem exaggerated.

Nothing equals Kojene for irrigation of the antrum; for Pyorrhea and Gingivitus; for Stomatitis, Trench Mouth, pus pockets and all cases of infection.

Kojene, so we will tell more people who need it, is four times as powerful as an antiseptic than Carbolic Acid. It is much more powerful than poisonous bichloride of mercury, and will not burn or even irritate the tenderest membrane.

We will tell the readers of this paper of its wonderful and quickly effective action in Tonsilitis and sore throat; of how completely it drives out the offensive mucus of catarrh and thoroughly cleans the entire nasal tract.

We will tell them of its remarkable success in the treatment of cankers in the mouth and how quickly it succeeds when used for Eczeme, itching skin, ulcers, boils and skin eruptions.

And last but by no means least, we will tell them that as a germ destroying mouth wash it is as far ahead of the highly flavored and bubbling kind as daylight is to candlelight and has no nasty, disagreeable taste.

It is seventy-five times as powerful as the weak kinds whose popularity seems to lie in their weakness and the ignorance of those who use them.

A sixty cent bottle (6 ounces) of Kojene, will make one-half gallon of a stronger, better and more efficient mouth wash than the high priced doubtful ones you buy ready made.

Medical men like to join in any effort to drive menacing poisons from the home and give their support to any great any worthy preparation that destroys pernicious germs and helps humanity—that is just what Kojene does.

In six ounce bottles at Carnahan's Drug Store, Jesse D. Holloway and Mathews Cut Rate Store and every progressive druggist in America. 60c with the understanding that money will be returned if any purchaser is dissatisfied. Complete and simple directions for treating various ailments with each bottle.

New regular size lingette bloomers in henna, peach, mais, navy, black and American Beauty. Sizes 27 and 29. Priced at $1.00.

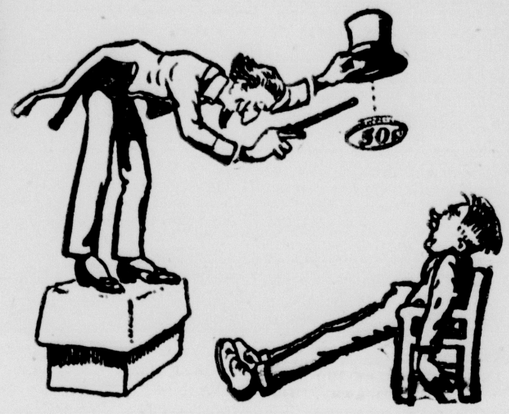
WASTED TAXES



Only fifty cents of the dollar you pay in taxes goes for schools, roads and other public improvements. The rest is waste and "gravy for the boys."

Governor Vic Donahey of Ohio says the taxpayer's dollar is never more than fifty per cent. potent—because of politics.

"It is hard to secure the enactment of any law that has no jobs attached and has nothing to recommend it except its merits," he asserts.

Because the voters liked his program of economy, Governor Donahey, a Democrat, was re-elected by 176,000 last November at the same time Ohio went for the Republican President by 700,000.

He has written an article for THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN that bristles with his fight against wasted taxes—waste that is rampant everywhere. Read Fifty-Cent Tax Dollars, in the February 14th issue now on sale.

Sin of Home Missions

Competition in religion makes the country church the sore spot in American religious life. Too many churches, or no church at all—this is the story in thousands of communities. Why? Dr. Charles J. His article, The Sin of the Home Missions, in the February 14th issue of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN, is brutally frank—but frankly true.

Out of Debt

The United States government contemplates the full payment of the present public debt by 1967. Refunding plans are made with that end in view. It means carrying a big interest burden and at the same time paying off an average of $500,000,000 a year on the principal.

It is reassuring to know that the huge war debt is going to be wiped out eventually. But 42 years seem a long time. It might be shortened, with good luck, particularly by the full payment of American loans to allied countries. But that is hardly to be expected.

The saving fact is that such a burden, equalized over a long period of years, should grow lighter with the normal increase of national wealth. It's the first few years that are the hardest.

It should not be forgotten, however, that this plan is based on the expectation of peace. Another war, any time within those 42 years, would spoil everything and probably pile up a new debt far bigger than the old.

Risk or Safety

Even the driest government documents sometimes contain something that the public seek their fortune in fields of a highly spec- issued by the Canadian federal department of mines offers sound advice to persons menaced by the "get-rich-quick bug."

"In its early phases," says the report, "the mining industry is an extremely hazardous venture; in fact, mining in general is regarded as risky, and it is not an industry in which trust money should be placed. Prospectors and miners are inherently optimistic, and it is the element of risk that gives zest to their pursuits.

"The prospector may spend many of the best years of his life in the search for the elusive metal without striking anything of value. A thousand a mine of importance. Thus the gru -staking of even the most conscientious prospector is in itself a mat- claims are staked for every one that develops into ter of great ris'k."

The man whose spirit of adventure makes the game worth playing even if he loses in the end, the man who can afford to work and wait years for results, and the man who can afford to be one of the 999 who lose if he happens not to be the lucky thousandth, may see ktheir fortune in fields of a highly speculative and uncertain nature. Everybody else should stick to the slower but safer methods of getting ahead in worldly wealth.

Decorous Prosperity

Business conditions continue to improve steadily, though slowly.

This is morally a dull time of the year in many lines. Yet there is a persistent increase of industrial output, with a strengthening of prices, and car-loadings are at a high level. Evidently goods are being made, moved and sold in greater volume than for many months. The improvement is not uniform, yet it spreads pretty well through the industries and through the country.

Agriculture, naturally, is more cheerful than it has been for years.

A banker speaks of the improvement as "decorous." It is an odd but felicitous term. "Decorous" means "fitting" or "appropriate." That is what the country needs and wants. Experience in these latter hectic years shows that decorous prosperity, which knows what it is doing and stays within reasonable bounds, is far better than a rough-house boom.

Delinquent Mothers

A woman supervisor of physical education who has been handling girls for 16 years finds that dancing, moving pictures, jazz, joy-rides and other emotional forms of present-day life are "robbing girls of their childhood and producing prematurely adult women who are over-stimulated and under-nourished.

Moreover, she insists it is mostly the fault of the mothers.

She sent out recently more than 400 letters to parents of high school girls, asking them to co-operate in seeing that their children had proper sleep, exercise and food. At the bottom of every letter she wrote, "We are very much interested in your daughter and welcome a conference at any time."

How many mothers accepted that invitation and came in for a conference? "Not one!" says the supervisor. "There was not a single telephone call or a single letter of acknowledgment."

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

MOTOR TRAFFIC NOISE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Does the opulent gentleman who signs the hotel register with a flourish demand nowadays, as he once did, an outside front room, not too high up—not above the third or fourth floor? He does not.

He asks for an inside room, as far back from the street as possible, and as near the sky as he can get without camping on the roof, stipulating only that the room be so situated that it will be light and afford ample ventilation.

There is a reason for this, of course, and if this were a cross-word puzzle it would be set forth that the reason is a five-letter word that explains why city folks are troubled with insomnia, and no one would have to look in the dictionary or rack his brain to get the word—noise.

And it's mainly motor traffic noise that has put the inside and rear rooms of hotels on the preferred list. The opulent gentleman who is accustomed to getting what he wants has learned that if he wants to sleep, or even be able to hear himself think, in his hotel room he must be as far as possible from the turmoil of the street. He must get away from the pumping whir of the self-starters, the roar of the engines, the back-fire explosions, the grinding of grears, the shrieking of brakes, the honking of horns and all the other noises that feature motor traffic.

It is no solution of the problem to build new hotels outside the congested districts. The modern caravansary with its thousands of rooms that will house the population of a small city takes congestion and traffic with it wherever it goes. Experts say there is no escaping it—the world of today is necessarily a noisy one and people must become inured to noise. Even the suggestion that hotels occupy only the upper portions of skyscraping structures, giving over the first eight or ten floors to business and office purposes, is dismissed as impracticable.

A CLUB PROBLEM, ALSO

City clubs are finding the noise problem affects them, too. Take the Cosmo club of Washington by way of illustration. The Cosmos is a sedate, dignified institution. Its personnel is made up largely of authors, scientists, artists, professors and the like, and the club atmosphere is fundamentally and distinctively subdued. It is said that the colored doorman had to produce a college degree before he could get his job, so it is readily comprehended what it takes to get one past him as a guest, to say nothing of what the requirements for membership must be.

Also there is the familiar story of the incident in a club lounge. Four members sat before the fireplace immersed in the silence of perfect fellowship. An hour passed. One member yawned and consulted his watch. The second looked at him inquiringly and he murmured gently, "Almost 9 o'clock." The third pulled out his timepiece and consulted it. "Only eight-fifty," he observed. Whereupon the fourth member arose and said, "I'm going to quit this club; it's getting too damned controversial and noisy."

That may have happened at the Cosmos, and again it may not. Anyhow the Cosmos is essentially a quiet place.

The club occupies the famous Dolly Madison house and adjacent properties at the northeast corner of Lafayette square, and for many years the location was regarded as an ideal one in every respect. It was in the heart of the city, but still well out of the congested sections and comparatively little traffic passed that way. Members living in the club who were able to get front rooms overlooking the park counted themselves extremely fortunate, and it was said of them that some died but none moved out.

Now, however, all downtown Washington is congested, there is a maximum of motor traffic everywhere and at all hours, and the Cosmos' corner has become one of the noisiest in the city. Members who occupied those desirable front rooms are now asking to be moved to the extreme rear of the club house, as far as possible from the street.

BUILD FACING BACKWARDS

Frank J. Warne, a well known economist, who lived in one of those front rooms for ten years, says the traffic noise finally got him. "I had to move or give up sleep entirely, and I preferred to move. I'm back on the alley now. I haven't much in the way of a view, but I am able to catch up on my sleep a little."

Having had the traffic noise problem brought home forcibly to him, Mr. Warne has given it some little thought, and he predicts that the not far distant future will see it solved, in part, at least, by a radical change in city building. Houses will be built facing backwards. What is now the front will be made the rear. Front yards will become back yards, and vice versa.

Garages will be built in the front, where, it is argued, they should be logically—as close to the street as possible, and easy of access and egress. Kitchens and storerooms, and such, will likewise be on the street end of dwellings, and the living apartments and sleeping quarters will be well in the rear. What are now the back yards will be given over to lawns, trees, shrubbery and flowers that now adorn front yards.

It is also suggested that there will be more group building—eight or 12 or 16 houses built in a hollow square, all fronting on an inner court which will be parked and beautified, affording a playground for children that will be at once attractive and safe. The garages, kitchens, etc., of such houses would all be on the street ends.

"People must get away from street noises or in a few generations this will be a world of nervous wrecks," says Mr. Warne. "This is a more serious matter than most of us realize now. Speed and noise will get anybody eventually, and the automobile gives us both to an alarming degree. What is it the physician says nine times out of ten when the human machine breaks down or gets out of kilter? 'You need rest and quiet,' is the almost invariable prescription, and I'm inclined to believe that the 'quiet' is the more important part of the prescription."

Motor traffic noise is by no means purely an urban problem. The automobile is ubiquitous, and it makes itself heard along country roads almost as much as along city streets, especially if those roads are main-traveled highways. People who are building in the country are becoming aware of this, and are learning to keep away from the roads, particularly near hills that are at all steep.

An army officer who is building a fine suburban home near Washington passed a wonderful hillcrest location to choose a site seemingly far less desirable and a friend questioned his judgment.

"Go over by that hillside," said the officer, "and see how many automobiles and trucks make the grade without shifting gears and doing everything else that can be done to get noise out of a motor, and then reflect that that road has a steady stream of traffic, almost day and night."

The friend did not have to try the experiment. He saw the point and was convinced at once.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—All Good Americans may not come to Paris when they die unless more burying grounds can be provided. Paris has a grim problem to solve—that of putting away her dead. She has to provide places for more than 40,000 interments a year and space is lacking. Land is already scarce and the absorption of precious ground for cemeteries cannot go on indefinitely. Ivry, Bayeux and Montparnasse have no more places to dispose of, but a plot of 100 hectares at Thiais, north of Paris, has been established to replace them.

An alternative solution is suggested in the resumption by the city after a period of 75 years of the 100-year burial plot concessions which have been abandoned. Out of 15,500 plots leased for more than 75 years in Pere Lachaise cemetery, 52 per cent have been abandoned. And statistics show that out of 166,683 perpetual concessions existing in the 19 burial grounds of Paris, 60 per cent are abandoned after 100 years. The depressing pictures of neglected graves could well be dispensed with.

To die is almost as dear as to live in the City of Light. Burial plots with perpetual care are extremely expensive and within reach of only the very wealthy or very thrifty. A bit of ground just large enough for one body costs much more than the average frugal family can save up. Luckily enough, it can be as deep as one wants, so the family is piled one on top of the other until all are under the sod.

A new American invasion is threatening France, and this time not of the usual spectacled tourists, but delicious little crayfish which have long made good eating on this side of the water. The old kind seems to be dying out, but this new and presumably harder species has been discovered in the waters of the Cher, near the little town of Vierzon. Professor Leger, of Grenoble, thinks that this new one is an American genus, probably the survival of some brought a long time ago from America when an attempt was made to acclimate them in French streams and rivers.

No pay, no enter—tramps in the future will be out of luck if they try to get a taxi ride without paying for it. A bill has just been tabled in the chamber of deputies which is intended for the protection of cab drivers. Until now anyone could jump into a cab and at the end of the journey announce that he had no money to pay for his ride and be none the worse off for it. The chauffeur was the only fellow who suffered. This new law makes swindles of this kind an offense and now persons without the price must either walk or be fined and jailed afterward. This legislation was much needed, it seems, for an increasingly large number of people are making a habit of taxi "fare dadging."

Small cigars threaten to take the place of cigarets for fair Parisiennes, according to the Intransigeant. In fashionable restaurants the waiters now serve the coffee, and without waiting to be asked pass around the box of cigars to feminine clients. They are usually very small ones, like those favored by the women of the northern countries, and of several brands, for every woman has her choice and insists upon getting it. The head attendant of a dining car on the Paris-Boulogne boat train, says that French women are fast taking up the English woman's hibit of smoking and that often the whole smoking compartment will be filled with fair ones, every one of them puffing.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

Sign in another bookshop says Michael Arlen's name is Dikran Kouyoumdjian. No wonder he changed it. Those tiny mustaches continue to sprout. New York needs a Bigger and Better Mustache League. Wonder if a bearded man sleeps with his beard inside or outside the covers.

A place where visitors may rent valets by the day. If I ever have one I'm going to call him Wilkins. High voltage ladies. Who weep over a cabaret mother song. Then pick your pocket. Arthur McKeogh, the magazine editor. Blackthorn cane. And yellow gloves.

That block of shady hotels in the Forties. Where life ambles crab-wise from nothing to nothing. Husks of beauty living on husks. All bluggy and stagnant. A group of Russian midgets seeing the town. They appear aloof and debonaire.

Messenger boys with gayly rocked tambourine caps. A barbershop advertises: "The world's fastest shave—and no conversation." The world is growing too hurried. A woman with a strangely lovely face and walking unsteadily.

The large and sedate man milliner. Who moves with such ponderous suavity. And probably is thinking of artificial flowers and tufts of silk. Bicycles for rent. Whatever became of the silhouette craze? Might as well blame it on the radio.

Nothing so dismal as a deserted stage. Green property crates. Banged-up trunks. And always a cat. A lone jolting cab following a white hearse. That is life—tossing and drifting to the grave. A flicker lit room with an old man playing a violin. A cafe flaunts a sign: "Soft Drinks with a Kick." Here's to loose moments! Ta! Ta!

They tell of a rather foppish young cinema actor who was engaged for a bull fight scene on one of the Long Island movie lots. There was a real bull and the script called for a moment when the beast was to corner the actor so that he must sprint for an especially build shield. The actor showed great timidity the moment the bull was let loose. The director was patient for a time but finally became firm. "Show some courage," he megaphoned.

"But what will I do if the bull gets too close?" shouted the actor.

"Moo like a cow and maybe it will kiss you," replied the director.

Perhaps—if one cared for punning, or do you?—one might call this movie actor a Manhattador.

A policeman stepped into a garage in the automobile district just as a violent explosion took place. He was knocked down and his hair and mustache singed. When he went back to the station to report he was asked what happened. He seemed dubious.

"Perhaps it was spontaneous combustion," said the desk lieutenant.

"That's it," said the cop. "I was there and saw it spontaine."

There is a man of my acquaintance who held the same job steadily for 20 years. Then he decided on a change. That was two years ago and he has had 14 different jobs since then, and each one worse than the preceding one. There's some sort of a moral somewhere, but don't know exactly what it is.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE POWER OF OPIUM

Makers of ammunition, whose prosperity depends on war, have been credited with starting various international rows. And, according to Mo. Towala, representing Finland in the league of nations, the makers of arms and munitions are still stirring up trouble.

He demands that the league investigate, in connection with the opium traffic, the shipment of arms into the far east.

Most interesting is the charge declared by Lord Robert Cecil to be sound, that drug addicts are not alone back of China's traffic in opium.

Munitions men urge and finance the Chinese popy culture and opium traffic that the Chinese may have money to pay for the weapons they buy to blow off each other's heads.

That the fighting and the sale of weapons may continue not only the opium traffic, but the ambitions of the various Chinese brigand leaders are encouraged and financed.

That's a nice picture of civilization. Christian nations using one part of their money to send missionaries to China and another part of their money to stimulate the deadly opium traffic, that the heathen may be able to purchase weapons to kill each other.

IT STUPIFIES MEN, MAKES WAR

Christians, however, have no monopoly of the profitable trade. Figures supplied by the league of nations show that of all weapons shipped into China in two years Japan supplied 50 per cent.

Japan's motives are not necessarily as means or mercenary, as those of other nations.

Japan is now the great power of Asia, and the only Asiatic world power recognized as such by other nations.

The Chinese are as intelligent as the Japanese, and nearly 10 times as numerous with natural wealth a hundred times greater than that of Japan. If they were united under sane leadership the Chinese would control Asia and Japan would have as much against China as Connecticut would have against the rest of the United States.

Japan is interested, therefore, in not having China too peaceful. Fighting in China means peace of mind in Japan.

The attitude of the Japanese prince regent, looking at the Chinese bandit leaders cutting each other's throats is like that of Louis XI watching his nobles killing each other. "The longer they fight the stronger they make me, as king of France." However, China is in no hurry.

THE OLDEST ALLIGATOR

The intelligent colored caretaker of the alligators on Mr. Reddington's alligator farm at Anastasia island says, pointing to the oldest alligator, covered with green moss, "that alligator is 900 years old. But they live to be 1,800 years old, yes, sir; that's the amount of time an alligator has got to do everything that he's got to do. I'd stir him up for you and let you see him bite a piece out of this stick, but he's taken to biting pieces out of the fence lately and I have to mend it."

That old alligator was biting things 450 years before Columbus came to this alligator country. China had established a civilization 5,000 years before that date. She may wake up one of these days, if prodded too much and bite pieces out of the fence that Japan and western Europe are building around her.

ENGLAND'S WORRY

England's worry is about putting Europe back on a business basis, with all countries trading and England getting her share. While working at every task to insure her own safety, including the building of flying machines that will go five miles in one minute, England seeks to end the hatred and fear that separate France and Germany.

France lives in constant dread of German attack and Germany lives for the opportunity to wreak her bitter hatred on France. British statesmen feel there can be no such thing as permanent peace or normal conditions in Europe, while that lasts.

While this country was going through its violent fit of war sentimentality, distributing promises and billions abroad, the European plan was to have Uncle Sam guarantee France against German attack, pledging himself to send men and money to back up the guarantee on 24 hours notice.

But since that time Woodrow Wilson has passed on to his reward, and this nation has at least partially recovered its senses. France and England realize that there is not going to be any United States guaranteeing of anything in Europe, or any shipping of American soldiers to Europe for many years to come. Now the question confronting England is, how France can be made to fell safe so that she will allow Europe to get back to a business basis without any definite British guarantee.

While statesmen puzzle their brains, the answer to their question may be found in the high-powered airships that France and England are building. Gigantic armies and navies that cost hundreds of millions a year and necessary in old-style wars, are necessary no longer.

Her 4,000 airships mean more to France in the way of safety than a million of her bravest men in the old-fashioned army. France can say to any nation, "Strike at me, and I shall destroy every one of your big cities within the week." And she could make good the threat.

And the cost of maintaining 4,000 airships is less than the upkeep of one single army corps.

This country should build and maintain 10,000 fighting airplanes, useful in peace, paying their way if intelligently used. The total cost, under the worst conditions, would be less than that of four battleships, and such an air fleet would mean safety.

Italian newspapers discuss the war debts at least frankly. A Roman newspaper, "The National Idea," says that inter-allied war debts simply don't exist. England will not dare insist on payment, knowing the debts ought not to be paid, since without France and Italy the Germans would have conquered England.

And Italy, of course, should not pay any war debts. For without Italy's neutrality in the beginning, and her active help later, Germany would undoubtedly have beaten France, England and Belgium. That last statement is true. Italy's position in regard to the war debts is the strongest.

When, however, European nations suggest, as they all do, that they saved the United States from destruction at the hands of Germany and that they, therefore, ought not to pay what they owe the United States the story is different. The Germans, who could not even cross the channel to England, had about as much chance of invading this country as we should have of invading the planet Mars.

Now the flying machine, deadly gases and explosives have been perfected, now that Asia is only 60 hours and Paris only 20 hours by air from Washington, the story is different. Without an adequate air fleet this country is as defenseless as the Ruhr when France marched in, Germany and the United States are today the two countries without defense and that's dangerous for a nation as rich and tempting as this.

SEEK CRIMINAL IN DEATH QUIZ

O. S. U. Dean Says Poisoning Was Work of Murderer.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13—Ohio State University authorities are convinced that the deaths of two students from strychnine poisoning and the narrow escape of four other students were due to the work of a deliberate criminal, Dr. E. F. McCampbell, dean of the O. S. U. college of medicine, said today at noon. Dr. McCampbell is in charge of the renewed investigation into the poison mystery.

Dr. McCampbell refused to reveal the plans university authorities have la'd for their inquiry. He said he feared that such announcement would defeat their purpose.

Police Prosecutor Chester announced today he will issue his report covering the police investigation of the case Saturday. It will be filed with Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of the University, and Chief of Police French.

It is understood that university officials propose to question upper classmen of the college of pharmacy. As part of the investigation, Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of the university, who is expected to take an active part in the probe, will address a mass meeting of pharmacy students Saturday afternoon when he is expected to appeal for aid in solving the mystery.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—Commercial failures in 1924 numbered 20,615 concerns and 757 banks, the Federal Reserve board announced today.

Liabilities involved totalled $543,-24,559, exclusive of banks, whose capital stock and surplus aggregated $46,642,000. Some of the banks will open without loss to creditors or are already reorganized.

Liabilities of commercial failures were slightly above the total for 1923, according to the board, and considerably higher than the level for years prior to 1920. In 1922 there were 23,676 commercial failures with $626,-896,000 liabilities, while 18,625 firms collapsed in 1921 with record liabilities of $627,402,000.

through limestone than through muck, it will be much easier in regard to the timbering and will save us considerable time'.

Ordered to Leave Pit

At 9:40 o'clock this morning everyone was ordered to leave the pit by Carmichael. The import of the order has not yet been determined. There still remains the possibility that a minor cavern may exist under another part of the shaft, but this, it was said, will be relatively unimportant so far as expediting digging is concerned.

The strong draft continues to be felt at the bottom and is believed to come from small fissures similar to those already encountered.

Friday the thirteenth brought its burden. Five deluges of earth were thrown on the shaft workers during the night and a fresh timbering crew this morning met similar conditions.

The weather continues cold.

Picks Strike Huge Boulders.

In the pit and shaft, men in mud-caked overalls worked grimly, silently. And among them strode "Dig and Dump" Carmichael fanning the flickering hope, cajoling here, rebuking there, that the work might go on and on and on.

The cold has brought an additional threat against the morale of the camp. The lower cliff, which only a few days ago radiated the heat of a summer-like sun, now mothers icicles hanging like huge stalachtites, some 14 inches in length. The creaking, complaining derrick is covered with a sheeting of glittering ice. Ice coats the timbers in the shaft and even the moisture in the limestone ledges at its bottom has been frozen.

Picks in the shaft today began striking large loose boulders and jutting rocks, hanging loosely among their fellows. It is the type of area which has been described as forming much of the passage to where Collins lies. Below this in the shaft is known to be a limestone ledge and there remains the hope that this ledge may form the roof of Collin's prison.

Military Court in Session.

At Cave City the military inquiry, sitting to hear testimony regarding the Sand Cave district, went into its fourth day's session. No list of witnesses had been announced and it was regarded as likely the session would be only a continuance of the automatic testimony of hill folk crowded into the record through the persistent questioning of the five officer-lawyers who compose the court.

That the shaft is the only feasible method of rescuing Collins, that the work of the troops here has been a matter for general commendation and that an acetylene torch could not have been used in effecting a rescue are the things the state of Kentucky is attempting to prove through its inquiry.

Lieut. Gov. H. H. Denhardt, presiding, said the court would continue sessions over Saturday at least.

Newspapermen Await Word

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 13—The flare of star-shells, the whine of radio, the staccato clik of morse, and buzz of telephones—these will carry to a waiting world the message "Floyd Collins lives," or "Floyd Collins is dead."

Be it night or day when the workers in the shaft reach the Sand Cave prisoner, nearly 100 newspapermen gathered here from all parts of the country have arranged to flash news from Sand Cave. Telegraph wires, linking Cave City with the news centers of the country, have been installed in the little Dixie hotel here. And in that hotel one group of reporters will await the word from their co-workers at Sand Cave nine miles away over the rutty rock-filled roads.

If Collins is found at night, a green star shell will emblazon its message of death in the sky. White will be the color of life.

One newspaper will crack out the news in Continental code by radio to its office 100 miles away.

In addition to this, airships, huge locusts in the fields nearby, awaiting the news when pictorial records of Collins' release from the shaft made by corps of photographers, is entrusted to their pilots for deliverance within a few hours to the nation's metropolitan dailies.

woman down some stairs into a cellar and throwing her, feet first, into a burning furnace, closing the door and walking back through the kitchen and into an alley.

Recalling the unsolved murder of Mrs. J. L. Sheatsley, wife of a Columbus, Ohio, minister, whose charred body was found in the furnace of the Sheatsley home, officers immediately communicated with Columbus authorities. It was remembered that officers investigating the Sheatsley murder had been told of an unidentified stranger having been seen loitering in the neighborhood of the parsonage.

Physicians who examined the man declared he apparently is a victim of Amnesia, but scouted his story of having thrown a woman into a furnace as a fabrication of a diseased mind.

Weidemayer's Statement.

"We didn't resign because Governor Donahey pardoned Webb," declared Weidemayer at yesterday's session of the commissioners. "We quit because we didn't think Webb was a suitable man for the job and felt as though the trustees were being made the 'goat' of the whole proceedings."

"However, inasmuch as Mr. Webb has refused to quit, we will stay on the job, temporarily at least, to see how things will work out.'

The commissioners of the two counties made an inspection of the home in connection with their meeting. The Stark county board was the first to arrive at the institution and had just completed a visit to the cattle barn when the Columbiana county delegation put in appearance.

"We must have harmony to make a success out of this institution," said Ned Perkins, a member of the Stark county board of commissioners as the meeting ended.

"We're here to make this the best institution of its kind in the state of Ohio," declared Webb. "We've been in the service for 29 years, you know."

Four Men In Flogging Case.

The commissioners expressed sympathy over the death of Mr. Kay. "We've lost a valued member of the board—one who had the interests of the institution at heart, just as we had," one member asserted.

Supt. Webb, his son and two other men were arrested several months ago, after they are alleged to have taken a Canton man to the country back of Canton and horsewhipped him for his friendliness toward the younger Webb's wife.

Workhouse sentences and fines were given Superintendent Webb and his son. Friends of the elder Webb immediately circulated a petition, asking that the governor pardon the home superintendent. Governor Donahey sent a personal representative to Alliance to make a thorough investigation and after his report was filed, pardoned Webb, telling him to "go and sin no more." Webb continued in charge of the children's home while the charges against him was pending in the courts.

Senate to Confirm Duffy Appointment At Session Monday

Reappointment of Thomas J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, former president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, as a member of the state industrial commission, probably will be confirmed by the Ohio senate on Monday.

Republican members of the senate, at a caucus session yesterday afternoon, voted favorably on the confirmation of Duffy, who is now chairman of the board. The senate rules committee will report Duffy's name when the legislature reconvenes Monday. Three members of the senate opposed confirmation in caucus and will be permitted to vote nay upon roll call.

Duffy has been a member of the commission for 12 years, being named for the first term during the administration of Governor Harmon. He was reappointed by Governors Cox and Harmon.

SENATE FORCES AGAINST WARREN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—A careful check by administration leaders of the senate disclosed today that Charles B. Warren of Detroit, can not be confirmed as attorney general by the present senate, and that it is close enough to be doubtful whether his confirmation can be obtained in the new senate which convenes in special session on March 4.

The anti-Warren forces, who oppose his elevation to the attorney generalship because of his connection with sugar interests, claim to have 51 votes against confirmation in this seate, and to have nearly as many in the new senate.

Independent pools support the claims of the anti-Warren element in so far as the present senate is concerned, but in the new senate the issue appears doubtfully close, with confirmation or rejection hinging upon two or three votes either way.

Joseph Seep Co. Boosts Price of Oil Per Barrel

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 13.—The Joseph Seep company, purchasing agents for the Standard Oil company here, today announced increases of 25 cents a barrel in Cabell, Somerset Medium and Somerset Light and 10 cents a barrel in Ragland Oil.

The new prices are: Cabell, $2.20; Somerset Medium, $2.30; Somerset Light, $2.45, and Ragland, $1.30 a barrel.

Later in the day, the agency announced Corning grade oil would be advanced 30 cents to $2.25 a barrel. There will be no additional increases today, the agency stated.

Prices in other grades were unchanged.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Love at first sight is the best, asserted Doctor Charles Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university in a statement in the Harvard alumni bulletin today.

"It seems to me," he wrote, "that most happy marriages begin in some such way as that, in a sudden emotion which takes by surprise the person who feels it. Doubtless love also grows gradually between friends of long standing, but oftener in women than in men. Most of the unhappy marriages I have known about have taken place for social or pecuniary reasons, without love on the part of one or the other of the pair."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Under the stimulus of another general advance of crude oil prices since the closing of the market Wednesday, the oil stocks led a moderate rally in the early trading today. Prices of representative issues like Standard of New Jersey, Marland, California Petroleum, gained a point or more at the opening and trading in the oil stocks was the most conspicuous of this period.

A decline of about 1,000 barrels a day in crude oil production last week was reported by the American institute of petroleum. Large purchasers of crude oil pushed prices 10 to 40 cent a barrel, making the best grade of Mid Continental crude, $2.23 a barrel .This was apparently what the traders in oil stocks were waiting for and the oils were featured by them at the opening and afterwards. Skelly oil and independent oil and gas were the leaders in the forward movemnt in the low priced shares. Cosden, Pan Americans, Phillips, Shell Union, California, Pete and Pure ol were in good demand. General Petroleum was also a leader reaching new high ground at 54½.

Wheat snapped back from four to 9 cents a bushel in the Chicago and Winnipeg markets, following the debacle of the two pre-holiday sessions. Steel reports were favorable. Money was in good supply at call, at 3½ per cent.

Cast Iron Pipe took a secondary position in the specialty stock market. The price dropped ten points to 210 at the opening and declined on light selling at 206 for a drop of 44 points from Wednesday's high and advancing to 218. American Can was strong and active, reaching a new high for this year at 175¼, a gain of four points from Wednesday's close.

St. Paul stocks were under pressure in the second hour, the common declining to 13¾ and the preferred to 22½, near the low of the year. Selling was due to nervousness with respect to the 1925 bond maturity, the traffic reports of this road since the turn of the year being very favorable. Other rails were steady but not very active.

American Sumatra Tobacco, Cuban American Sugar, the shipping stocks and a few of the motors were in good form and sold fractionally higher. Profit-taking appeared in some of the industrial shares in the second hour and the market turned heavy.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

Wouldn't Exchange With Millionaire

"After five years of suffering with stomach trouble I think I know all about it. But thanks to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, I am enjoying good health again. I know of a millionaire who is very bad with stomach trouble, but he won't take any patent medicine. In his present condition I wouldn't exchange with him." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and Druggists Everywhere.

Syracuse Suffers.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Scores of families today were rescued from their homes in the flooded sections of Syracuse, where suffering and hardship is being experienced as the result of the sudden overflowing of Heads on creek.

The relief work is being carried on by firemen and fellow townsmen of the flood victims. A coating of ice covers the flood waters immersing a large section of the village.

Boats, rafts, ladders are being used to take people from houses, where they were marooned without heat and with their food supply running low.

First Salt Made in 1791.

Louisiana has for years been a source of salt in the United States, the first crude refining having been done on a small scale in 1791 from the salt water springs in that state. The Indians found their salt in this way, however, long before the advent of the white man. In 1812 a more successful method was worked out. In 1862, under the direction of pioneer troops of the Confederate army, rock salt was discovered at Avery Island, just fifteen feet beneath the surface of the ground.

GLORIA STARS IN 'LOVE STORY'

Gloria Swanson, in her latest Paramount picture, "Her Love Story," which is the attraction at the Ceramic theatre tonight, furnishes ample evidence that Kipling knew what he was talking about when he said: "The Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin." Only in Gloria's case it isn't a Colonel's lady but a Queen who shows us that under the thin veneer of royalty she is just a woman.

It may be somewhat of a shock to a good many ordinary folks to learn life isn't all a bed of roses even to a Queen. Of course, she lives in a beautiful place, she wears stunning clothes worth a king's ransom, she is surrounded by numerous servants who are ready to fulfill her slightest wish, but all these material luxuries mean nothing when she is separated from the one she loves.

"Her true Love Story," is based upon Mary Roberts Rinehart's absorbing story, "Her Majesty, the Queen," adapted to the screen by Frank Tuttle. Gloria has the role of a princess who secretly marries a brave young captain of the King's guards. Ter father disregards this marriage which was performed by a gypsy and forces her to marry the King. A son is born to her—the son of her guardsman-lover. She confesses to the King that the child is not his. The result is that she is banished, and the King proclaims the boy as his own.

How her overwhelming love for her boy leads to greater sacrifices, her desperate struggle for happiness with the one man whom she has never ceased to love and the final thrilling and satisfying ending are grippingly portrayed in a series of tense dramatic situations that tug at the heartstrings.

Never has Gloria looked more beautiful or played her part with greater sympathy, sincereity and understanding. And that goes for the entire supporting cast which includes Ian Keith, George Fawcett, Mario Majeroni and many others. Allan Dwan has given the screenplay an extravagant production that is a delight to the eye. Such entertainment as "Her Love Story" affords is mighty rare and should not be missed.

Library Plan Successful.

BUCYRUS, Feb.—The barrel placed in front of the Bucyrus public library in which patrons might, without embarassment, drop library books long overdue, has proven to be such a success that it will be retained in its present position another week it was announced. During the past year, the library loaned 30,442 books, an increase of 1,412 over the preceding year, it was said.

What Did That Meal Cost?

Several dollars—not counting your time and labor—and it might have been ruined, all because of heavy bread or a soggy cake. You may have saved a fraction of a cent by using an unreliable baking powder—but you took the chance of ruining your baking—making a failure of your meal. Do you call that economy?

CALUMET

will make a success of any meal because it always produces perfect bakings—and that's what counts in the success or failure of a meal. No other baking powder is any better—regardless of the price you pay—none is any more economical in use; for Calumet has far greater leavening strength—it goes farther—lasts longer. The last spoonful is as good as the first. Millions of housewives use Calumet—so do the leading hotels, big railroads, renowned restaurants and good bakers.

START WORK ON RAILROAD "Y"

Tools and Supplies Begin to Arrive at Yellow Creek.

With the arrival at Yellow Creek of the first consignment of tools, equipment and materials of various kinds, the first actual steps toward the construction of the Pennsylvania Railroad "Y," which will connect the river road line to the main line, were taken this week, according to rail officials here.

The construction on the new railroad connection will be done by the H. E. Culbertson Construction Co., of Clevelend, whose represenatives have already arrived on the site of the work.

A small building erected on the northern end of the "Y," a short distance out on the main line, is the first actual physical sign of the improvement propect, which will link the main line with the river road and eliminate the necessity of a change over in the Wellsville yards.

The small organization of workers now on the job will be augmented constantly as the work progresses.

A new right of way has been acquired by the company which will circle the western side of the Jefferson county children's home.

Jefferson county has deeded to the Pennsylvania railroad a new right of way and in return the railroad company trades to the county two and 601-1000 acres, gives the county $17,500 and agrees to build a new 20-foot macadam road to replace the road which will be vacated.

The present road is located on the plot which the county transferred to the railroad company and over which the new tracks will pass.

Severe weather, it is declared, has held up activities to a great extent up until the present time. Once well under way, however, the Culbertson company expects to rush the project as consistently as possible.

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Plans for the 1925 Redpath Chautauqua in this city have been tentatively announced by officers of the Wellsville Kiwanis club under whose auspices the institution will appear here.

Dates are still under consideration by the club committee.

Headline events of the 1925 Redpath chautauqua will include the comedy success, "Adam and Eve," with a cast of New York players; a lecture by Ruth Bryan Owen on "Modern Arabian Knights;" Gounod's celebrated grand opera, "Faust," as produced by Milton Aborn; Jess Pugh, humorist, and Charles H. Brough, former governor of Arkansas.

A distinct departure from previous chautauqua offerings is a melody program by the Jackson Jubilee Singers—seven in number—under the direction of Robert Jackson of Western University of Kansas City. Another unusual specialty will be an illustrated discussion of landscape gardening by Edward A. Marshall of Chicago.

Extensive plans are being made for junior chautauquas. In addition to the organization of Junior Town, there will be a children's specialty on the closing afternoon, and the National Federation of Music Clubs will co-operate in the organization of a junior music club.

Chautauqua dates and further program information will be released by the local committee within the next few weeks.

Wellsville merchants have been generous in their offerings of prizes. The list follows: first—a fountain pen from the "Book Store;" second—No. 2 Brownie camera from C. N. Brannan's; third—pair of roller skates from the Cope hardware store; fourth—silver pencil from M. R. Shingler, jeweler; fifth—two-pound box Shoot's chocolates, from Young's confectionery.

Other children who assist in the campaign will receive movie passes to the Liberty theatre.

The committee expresses the hope that everyone will wear a red heart tomorrow, helping to insure the success of the campaign. Children will solicit the residences and downtown districts. Children between the ages of 10 and 14 are invited to help. All are asked to meet the leaders at headquarters as soon after 9 o'clock as possible.

The funds to be collected are to be devoted to the Ohio branch of the Maud Bellington Booth prison work. The work of the Volunters of America is supported by voluntary contributions entirely.

"Buy a Red Heart" is the slogan.

CROWDS ATTEND REVIVAL MEETS

Consistently large attendances, marked interest and effective sermons are outstanding features of the special revival meetings under way in the First Christian church, in charge of the pastor, Rev. Thomas B. Shearer.

Last night Rev. Shearer spoke on the subject, "God's Eternal Purpose as Revealed to Us Through the Word of God."

Two visiting church delegations attended last evening's services, one from the First Christian church in East Liverpool and the other from the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ in the East End, East Liverpool.

Rev. Shearer announced that the services will continue throughout next week, with meetings each evening save Saturday. His sermon subject for the next few days are listed as follows: tonight—"What Church Should I Join?" Sunday evening—"Our Refuge;" Monday—"Divine Healing."

MINGO PASSERS HERE SATURDAY

Zimmerman's Basketeers Prepare to Meet Old Rivals.

Coach Carl Zimmerman's high school basketeers are billed to take on an old athletic rival—Mingo Junction—Saturday night on the local court, instead of tonight, according to announcement today by school authorities.

The game will be the only contest for the Orange and Black five during the present week, according to the schedule, the next event being billed for February 21 at Shadyside.

The clash with the Mingo passers tomorrow will be the first of two engagements between the two teams. The second match is, at the present time, listed as the wind-up event on the card, March 27, at Mingo.

Coach Zimmerman will probably start C. Dickey and H. Dickey at forwards, Weekley on center, and Shea and Scholl or Pignatore at guards, although the definite selections will not be made until game time.

A clock made entirely of straw is on exhibition in Munich and is keeping good time.

How long the body had lain along the tracks was not determined. The remains were brought to the Arner funeral home, where they will be held for relatives who are now being sought.

The dead man, it is said, had been with the construction firm for a long time and was looked upon as a reliable workman and was not addicted to drink. No marks of violence were found on the body.

RURAL SECTIONS LACK PHYSICIANS

A survey of twenty-eight counties of West Virginia, recently made by State Health Commissioner Henshaw, shows the appalling lack of physicians in the rural sections of the state and reveals that the average age of doctors in the country communities is considerably more than fifty years. It further shows that the doctors are grouped, in most counties, in the larger towns, leaving the rest of the county a long way from medical aid. The survey stresses one of the state's greatest health problems; that of adequately protecting the health of the people in the country.

YOUTHS BLAMED FOR ROBBERIES

The petty robberies and recent hold-ups in Lisbon has given rise to the thought that all of these offenses have been committed by the same crowd of young men.

The trio that held up William McCord, a driver for the Burnett Taxi service, secured but 50 cents, while the attempt to hold up a machine at the east end of the Canton bridge in Lisbon Tuesday night failed to get the robbers anything.

It is the opinion of some of the members of the Lisbon village council that two officers should be on duty instead of one, as is now the case. It has been proposed by some councilmen to have an officer to go on duty at 12 o'clock noon and work until in the night, and the another go on duty at 6 o'clock at night, remaining until 6 o'clock in the morning.

RUSH CONTINUES FOR DOG LICENSES

Deputy County Auditor Randall Hamilton had issued 1,389 dog licenses for the year at the close of office hours last night.

"It seems that owners of dogs are more prompt in taking out licenses than they were a few years ago, and it is well that they are," Mr. Hamilton said. "Dozens of arrests were made last year of people who failed to take out a dog license, and within a few weeks there will be a swing around the circuit to see who has failed to pay this year. We're not going to coax people to pay their dog license fee—the law does not require that. It's a case of pay for the license or have charges filed against those who fail to obey the law."

COAL MINE FIRE DAMAGES HOMES

The Beaver Coal & Clay company, operating near Coleman on the Erie railroad, northwest of Lisbon, has been notified by the county board of health, and through County Sanitary Officer Comer Lewis, to extinguish the fire that has been burning for about a week in refuse slate banks near the mine.

This sulphur fire has caused paint to peel from frame houses in the northwestern part of Lisbon. The company has put a number of men at work to extinguish the smouldering fire.

End of O'Connell Case Is Near

Landis Will Render Final Decision At Conference Sunday

Commissioner's Attitude Forecast as One of Tolerance and Clemency; Believes Ex-player Has Had Enough.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The skeleton in baseball's family closet will be tenderly laid to rest within the next 48 hours and thereafter will rattle no more. Judge Landis will officiate at the obsequies and they will be simple, affecting and final. He will arrive in this city on Sunday morning, and at the brief conference with the district attorney a decision will be reached as to whether Jimmy O'Connell shall be punished further for his part in the affair or permitted to go his future way unmolested.

Landis' attitude has been forecost as one of tolerence and clemency toward O'Connell, whose loss in honor has been deemed sufficient to cover his offense. If Landis says the word, the skeleton will have rattled its last.

As matters stand, the district attorney has let it be known that he will be guided by Landis in his future actions, if any. He stands ready to indict O'Connell before the grand jury and prosecute his extradition from California. But Landis will not say the word because the man he is after is not Jimmy O'Connell.

He is an unnamed and unidentified somebody who was so much smarter than O'Connell that he covered his trail perfectly, leaving James holding the well known bag. It seems unlikely that the man in question, if he exists at all, will ever be apprehended.

With the start of another season there will hardly be a headstone to mark the scandal's dishonored grave, unless Cozy Dolan revives the issue temporarily with a civil suit for reinstatement. I am pleased to doubt that he will.

Dolan, however, will make formal application to Landis for reinstatement but it is almost certain that he will be greeted with a refusal as flat as a tailor's iron. The district attorney did not give Cozy the clean bill of health he granted to Young, Frisch and Kelly, but contented himself with the rather pointed inference that Dolan's conduct during the first investigation had laid him open to a suspicion of guilt, which had not been removed in the meantime.

The judge, therefore, would have no reason to copper his own bet. It was his decision that Dolan was guilty and the judge is not one to admit an error while the official scorer happens to be scoring the play as a clean hit.

U. P. Quintet Winner Over Christians

First M. E. Passers Down Penn. Ave. M. E. Crew.

The First United Presbyterian passers of the Sunday school league did the unexpected last night, defeating the Christians on the M. P. court by the score of 36 to 32.

The game was a hang-over from the first half of the season having been postponed from an early date. Their victory gives the U. P's a tie for sixth place in the first half standing.

The First M. E. five downed the Penn Ave. M. E. quintet by the count of 44 to 18 while the U. P. lads were winning from the Christians.

Although the Presbyterians got away to a lead with field goals by Berg and Dickey, they failed to hold it, the Chistians being out in front, 8 to 7 when the quarter ended.

The lead changed hands again in the second period. The Presbyterians located the hoops and held a three-point margin when the half ended. The count was 20 to 17.

The Christians came back lustily in the third period and rolled up a seven-point lead before they were headed. But Berg, Dickey and Roberts began a bombardment of the enemy baskets which enabled them to tie the score and then to pass the Christians. The Presbyterians were ahead by the count of 28 to 27 at the end of the period. The Presbyterians held to their advantage in the final period and added a few points by way of good measure. Dickey and Berg were the leading scorers for the winners, contributing 31 of their team's points. Owens, Howard and Kilmer starred for the Christians.

The Methodist Episcopal passers had a comparatively easy evening with their East End opponents, clinching the contest in the first half when the count stood 31 to 10.

The East Enders played better basketball in the third period, scoring eight points and holding their opponents scoreless.

In the final stanza the down-town crew again flashed some of the basketball they displayed in the opening half, making 13 points while the Penn Avenue lads were at a standstill.

Bromby, Dorsey, Cunningham and Karns were the leading performers for the victors while McKim, Rose and Cook stood out for the East End quint.

Invitational Golf Tourney In Fifth City

Clevelanders Sponsor Plan to Attract Noted Players.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13.—Plans for a Cleveland invitational golf tournament of such proportions as to attract national attention are practically certain of success, according to the opinion of promoters.

The project has met with the approval of officers of the Cleveland District Golf association. The big feature of the tournament is to be a trophy, valued at $500, which will be put up for perpetual competition.

At the beginning those in charge of the tournament will confine their efforts simply to arousing enthusiasm in the region of the Great Lakes. A drag net of this proportion will include such well known golfers as Chick Evans, Bob Gardner, Dexter Cummings, Albert Seckel, Art Sweet, Burton Mudge, R. E. Knepper, Ira Couch and Capt. E. F. Carter of Chicago; W. Hamilton Gardner of Buffalo; H. R. Johnston, Minnesota and western amateur champion; Harold Weber of Toledo; W. L. Thompson of Toronto; James L. Standish, jr., of Detroit; Joe M. Wells of East Liverpool; R. L. Wintringer of Steubenville, and, of course, the leading players of the Cleveland district.

It is not the intention of the promoters of the classic to restrict the field to stars. Plans call for five flights, which will take in all those who have any license to enter tournament play. Later, stars from the east, south and far west will be urged to make Cleveland one of their stopping points. Clevelanders hope to make their fixture rival such invitation tournaments as are held annually at many other places.

Detrick's Mt. Union Cagers are Favored To Beat Case Squad

ALLIANCE, Feb. 13. — Mount Union cage men engage Case Saturday night in Cleveland. With six straight wins and no defeat to the Purple's credit the Cleveland quintet has the worst of the prospects.

Coach Detrick's men, however, are not taking the clash lightly. They are working especially on field goal shooting, in which they made rather a poor showing in the Tuesday game with Kenyon.

Most of the Mount Union's games have been on the home floor so far. Of the remaining five scheduled, only one—Oberlin—will be in Alliance.

Slattery to Meet Delaney Tonight In Garden Arena

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Another sell-out was in prospect for Madison Square Garden tonight when Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., who knocked out victories over Paul Berlenbach and Tiger Flowers, will meet Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, in a return bout of six rounds. Slattery "took" Delaney the last time out, and the consensus today was that he would repeat, the distance being ideally suited to his great speed.

Delaney confined his attention to trying for a knockout in the first bout, but has trained for speed on this occasion in the execution of reversing the decision.

Buckeye Five Faces Second Half of Card

Minnesota and Michigan are Next Foes on Schedule.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13.—Starting the second half of their Big Ten campaign after a lay-off of nearly two weeks, Ohio State's basketeers will attempt to take two big bites in three days on their own court. Tomorrow night they will entertain Minnesota and on Monday night Michigan's quintet is due here.

The Buckeyes defeated the Gophers at Minneapolis on Feb. 2. But they have a score to settle with the Wolverines since the Michiganders are the only Conference quintet so far to upset the Ohioans' applecart. The Minnesota game will be the first here since January 24 when Northwestern was defeated.

At the half way mark of the 1925 Conference campaign the Buckeyes are in second place with a record of five victories and a single defeat. In their non-Conference engagements they have been successful in three out of four, losing only to Princeton, undefeated in the eastern intercollegiate league, by a slender margin.

Including the two contests to be played in the next three days the Ohioans have six games on their basket schedule. Four of these are at home and two will be played elsewhere.

Since their return from the long trip to Minnesota, Coach Olsen has given his hopefuls a respite from intensive training. As a result of the let-up, the Buckeyes hope to start the last lap of the campaign with renewed vigor.

But the Ohio Staters are not taking anything for granted. They remember, somewhat to their sorrow, that it was a defeat at the hands of Minnesota a year ago that cost the Buckeyes a tie for first place in the Big Ten standing in the closing days of the season. Minnesota previously had been beaten here.

Capacity crowds for both the Minnesota and Michigan games are in prospect. And there is even a possibility that one or the other, or even both occasions may see a new Conference basketball attendance mark established. The "S. R. O." sign has been ready for the past 24 hours to hang out at a moment's notice.

Nurmi and Ritola Shatter Records In Buffalo Meet

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Paavo Nurmi shattered three world records—not merely broke them by fractions of seconds, but shattered them by many full seconds in his special event of a meet staged last night by the 106th Field Artillery Athletic association.

The records were the 2,000 yard mark, which he reduced from 5:00 4-5 to 4:53 3-5 seconds, the 2,000 meter mark which he cut from 5:33 to 5:22 2-5 and the mile and a quarter mark which he dragged from 5:30 1-5 to 5:23 3-5, six and two fifths seconds faster than it had ever been run before.

But a short half hour after Nurmi's great run, Willie Ritola, his greatest rival and a countryman, broke all marks for the two miles, running the distance in 9:03 4-5, shattering the time made by Nurmi only last Saturday at th Wilso games in Brooklyn by the wide margin of four and one fifth seconds.

Tex Rickard Denies Guarantee to Champ For go With Wills

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Tex Rickard today denied a report that he had made Jack Dempsey a flat offer of $750,000 to meet Harry Wills in a heavyweight championship bout next summer.

"I would be crazy to make such an offer," Rickard declared. "If Dempsey boxes for me, it will be on a percentage basis. Jack Kearns and the champion understand this perfectly."

Last Night's Fights

"Y" Basketball Games.

The "Y" Industrial Basketball league contests are scheduled for tonight: day at the Wilso games in Brooklyn Hall China (first game at 7:30).

Worse Than Lewis

But why pick on Lewis? We have seen worse wrestlers than Lewis who should have been thrown out of the ring the first time they appeared in it.

Highs Tackle E. Palestine On Saturday

Face Hard Game Following Clash Tonight With New Philly.

Although the greater part of their attention is centered on the clash tonight with New Philadelphio high on the local school court, Coach O. V. Boone's cagers are not forgetting their engagement for Saturday night which will take them to East Palestine for their only game of the season with the North countains.

A feeling of intense rivalry exists between the two schools and the contest will likely be productive of more thrills than might be expected at first glance.

A mix-up in scheduling last spring, when dates offered by the locals were at first not approved by the East Palestine school is said to have made the north countias even more determined than might have been anticipated ordinarily. Consequently the Blue and White is preparing for a warm battle.

Both the girls' and the boys' teams will be in action tonight here, with New Philadelphia high school the opponent.

Five Yank Players Starting Today for St. Petersburg, Fla.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Trail blazers for the main detachment of players, who, later, will go to St. Petersburg, Fla., a party of five Yankee ball tossers will leave today to join Babe Ruth for the annual boiling out at Hot Springs. The party will include Everett Scott, Wally Schang, Sam Jones, Steve O'Neill and Urban Shocker. The last two named were added to the roster during the off season. O'Neill being obtained from Boston and Shocker from St. Louis.

Uhle and Shaute on Way to Hot Springs To Start Training

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13.—Pitchers George Uhle and Joe Shaute of the Cleveland pitching staff, accompanied by Coach Jack McAllister, were on their way to Hot Springs today for a preliminary workout. They will be joined there by pitchers Jim Edwards, Sherrod Smith, Ben Karr, Garland Buckeye and catcher Allie Walters.

Bike Riders Thrill Fans.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—More thrills were furnished bike fans at the six-day bicycle race during the night when the American team of Reggie McNamara and Bobby Walthour lapped the field and took undisputed possession of first place. The team of Stockelynch and Goosens is one lap behind, while the other teams are from two to five laps in the rear. The racing during the night was the wildest this week, jams followed each other with such frequency that the nerves of the fans were on edge continually.

Second Race.

BEN FRANKLIN—Richard wouldn't have been poor of he bet in this one. A hot tip from the almanac.

DYNAMITE—Will need it to avoid being left at the post.

Third Race.

Third Race.

VENUS—Particularly appealing to students of form.

PETER PAUL—Promising long shot. Said to be direct descendant of the nag that won for Paul Revere.

Hits Extra Bases

The batting average of Cotton Tierney for last season does not indicate much batting strength. The infielder just traded to the Dodgers by the Braves hit but .259. However, the slugging averages, figured on total bases hit for, give him a much sweeter average of .31.

Many of these extra base wallops came at opportune moments, when hits meant something besides fatter batting averages. So Tierney really adds some real batting strength to the Brooklyn team.

Bank on Cooper

Cubs give Wilbur Cooper a nice raise in pay when he signs his 1925 contract. They must figure the cooper'll make 'em barrels of money.

Babe Ruth says the Yankees have a better ball club than the Senators. Huggins has strengthened the club. Yank fans have reason to believe that the new material will make its presence felt. But what will help the Yanks and the other clubs most in their efforts to dislodge the American League champions will be a non-combatant, Mr. Psychology.

The Senators will be playing next season under the strain of being champions. Last year they had nothing to lose and everything to gain. They were in the chase to turn back the Yanks.

Wedded 60 Years, Urges Hard Work For Happiness

CHICAGO, Feb. — "There's no excuse for so many unhappy marriages! If our young people would try harder they could get along. Plenty of hard work will save the modern home." This is the philosophy of Mrs. August Juers, who celebrated her marriage anniversary 60 years ago.

Famous Families In Sport.

Families in sport are quite common. The O'Neill's, the Delehanty's, the Sewells, the Highs and many others have drawn much attention in their day. In these cases however, the athletic prowess has been confined to the male members of the families.

We present today the Tunney family, heretofore represented solely by Gene, light heavyweight fighter, but now boasting also Miss Marge Tunney, his sister.

Miss Tunney isn't following her husky brother's footsteps, however. She goes in for basketball and other sports in which girls and women find more appeal. She is a star now of a New York girl's basketball squad and is winning much attention in the east.

IDA L. RAMSEY WINS DEGREE

East End Girl Awarded Honor at Aberdeen, Wash.

Miss Ida L. Ramsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Ramsey, 1009 High street, teacher in the high school at Aberdeen, Washington, has been awarded a master of arts degree at the University of Washington, Eugene, Wash., according to word received by her parents.

Miss Ramsey took the examination for the degree conducted by nine members of the university faculty, the test lasting three hours. She submitted a thesis, "The Farm Bloc, 1919 to 1924," as part of the examination and secured five credits, although she sought but four. She is also a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, where she received her bachelor of arts degree before going to Washington.

REVIVAL MEETS CLOSE SUNDAY

A large crowd attended the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church last night, when Rev. J. L. Culp, gave a forceful talk on the bible question, "How Can We Neglect So Great Salvation." R. J. Cox, singing evangelist had charge of the singing and was assisted by the junior choir and church orchestra, Miss Dorothy Beatty was pianist.

Tonight Rev. Culp has chosen for his subject, "The Church of God." There will be no services tomorrow evening.

Three services are planned for Sunday, with Sunday school in the morning, at 9:45, preaching at 11, and services at 7:30, the concluding services of the campaign.

Snow White Horses Very Rare.

Snow white horses are very rare animals. This was demonstrated when an Italian commission visited the leading farms in Hungary in an effort to obtain six snow white horses to draw the Pope's carriage in the 1925 Holy Year celebration. Count Esterhazy's farm finally was selected to produce the six horses. There were many animals inspected, which on first sight seemed to be pure white, but in each case some dark speck was detected in the coat. Count Esterhazy was the only one who owned snow white horses.

11,000 Words on Postcard.

Minature penmanship records are being dug from the archives as a result of the feat just accomplished by Professor Nicola Durson of Rome, who has written 11,000 words containing 54,280 letters, on a post card sent to Queen Elena as a New Year's greeting. On the post card Professor Durso has transcribed the history of Montenegro, several love songs, anecdotes and poems, the life of the Petrovich family and a description of the marriage of the king and queen of Italy. The entire work was done without the aid of a magnifying glass.

Pains Stopped for millions in this way

Remember this when you feel a pain. Millions have learned how to stop it at once. For 65 years they have done so by rubbing with St. Jacob's Oil.

All the pains allied with rheumatism, with soreness, backache or lameness. And chest colds are checked at the start.

Just rub the sore spot with St. Jacobs Oil. It causes counter irritation. Or it relieves the congestion by bringing the blood to the surface. Then the pain is ended, and you can wait in comfort while Nature Cures.

Now there are several ways offer to do this. But remember that St. Jacobs Oil has for 65 years stood the test. It has proved itself to millions. Nobody has ever found anything better, and nobody ever will.

Don't wait until the pain starts. Keep St. Jacobs Oil on hand. It may save nights of suffering. Rub the sore spot as soon as a pain appears, or a chest cold. Get relief at once. Think what protection this means to you, and the cost is only 35 cents.

His Sound Filter Separates Noises

An acoustic filter that permits only certain sounds to pass through it, has been invented by Dr. G. W. Stewart of the University of Iowa. It is said to be a long awaited improvement for phonographs, telephones, automobile mufflers, radio loud speakers and like appliances.

Weds Stepmother, Repents.

Charles Johnson, 53, of East Orange, N. J., married his stepmother after his wife died some months ago, but repented his bargain. She brought him into court, charging non-support, and the judge ruled he should pay her $10 weekly or go to jail. Johnson told the court: "I'm guilty of anything, your honor, provided I get rid of her."

83-YEAR-OLD LONDON AUCTIONEER SOLD KING CHARLES' BLOODY VEST

LONDON, Feb.—Claiming to be the oldest auctioneer in the world, Henry J. Stephens is still carrying on his work as head of a big London auctioneer's office, despite his eight-three years.

During his sixty-two years' service as an auctioneer Stephens has sold practically everything salable, including some of the weirdest things ever offered from an auctioneer's rostrum.

Among these was the blood-stained vest taken from the body of King Charles I, after his execution; eggs of the prehistoric great auk, stuffed human skulls and bodies, Paul Kruger's hat, and all kinds of weird insects and animals.

Stephens is still vigorous, and he can strike as hard a bargain today as in his earlier years. He works six hours a day and spends the rest of his time gardening and carpentering.

Jamaica has plenty of them, and shipped 12,500,000 bunches of bananas within the last year.

German Lawmakers Poorly Paid.

Members of the German Reichstag, or parliament, get paid what is equivalent to $140 a month in American money. This is one-fourth of the salary of a cabinet minister. On the other hand, a member of the Reichstag enjoys free travel on the railroads throughout the republic, and in a first-class compartment.

UNUSUAL CHARGE AGAINST WOMAN

Mrs. Tenio Legario, 26 years old, was arrested yesterday in Weirton on complaint of a store proprietor who claimed that the woman entered his place of business and proceeded to take charge of the place. The woman, it is alleged, had acted in a like manner in other stores.

Questioned by the police she attributed her strange actions to the hypnotic power her Spanish husband wields over her. Weirton authorities will have her examined by physicians to test her sanity.

Beauty Spot Origin Sought.

The origin of the custom among women of decorating the face or back with a black courtplaster design, called the "beauty spot," is being sought by European beauty experts as a means of enriching the history of the beauty parlor. The Dutch claim the honor of having originated the idea nearly five centuries ago when plasters were put on the head to cure headache. Women quickly saw the advantage of using a dark patch to contrast with a fair skin, while others used it to hide a blemish in an artistic fashion. These patches were cut in many artistic shapes.

BEAUTY NEEDS INSIDE HELP

Earle's Hypo-Cod Eliminates the Cause of Thin Bodies and Pale Sallow Complexions.

The glorious beauty of the rose is hidden in the cold black earth—in the roots of the bush. They must be nourished if the rose is to bloom in all its beauty. So is it with human systems. Thin, pale, worn-out, sallow women need a stimulant for the source of all health and beauty — the blood, heart, stomach and nerves. Earle's Hypo-Cod is rich in Cod Liver Oil, the greatest of all known system stimulants. By eliminating its terrible fishy taste in Hypo-Cod, medical science has made it as easy to take as rare wine or as pleasant-tasting cordial.

Earle's Hypo-Cod also contains other proven health and body builders which create appetite, put on flesh and give a glow of real health to the cheeks. It can be had at all good drug stores in liquid or tablet form at $1.00 per bottle. Heartily recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews Cut Rate, Economy Drug Store, Bulger's Pharmacy, Gamble's Drug Store, McCutcheon's Pharmacy and Huff's Drug Store in Chester.

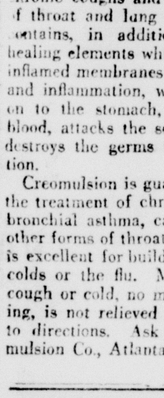
Young Ohio Elopers Arrested; Freed by Judge and Warned

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. — John Salus and Mildred Dumsek, 14, of Girard, O., on an order by Judge Edwin O. Lewis, in quarter sessions court, were released from custody and permitted to complete their elopement to this city to be married.

Salus lived on a farm adjoining the girl's father's home in Ohio. They came to this city on January 12 to be married. When they applied for a marriage license, however, and the girl's age was revealed, the license was refused. Later in the day they were eating in a restaurant when a waitress, who had overheard their conversation and noted the youthfulness of the girl, called a policeman, and they were arrested.

COLDS

Break a Cold Right Up with "Pape's Cold Compound"



Take two tablets every three hours until three doses are taken. The first dose always gives relief. The second and third doses completely break up the cold. Pleasant and safe to take. Contains no quinine or opiates. Millions use "Pape's Cold Compound." Price, 35 cents. Druggists guarantee it.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Chinese Justice Unique

Chinese justice in modern times is as odd as in the days of Confucius. Recently, a large number of prisoners, including murderers, robbers and those convicted of arson, were freed because the prisons in which they had been detained, were found insanitary and overcrowded. Another instance was instructions to a troop of soldiers to apprehend four bandit soldiers, failure of which on the part of the soldiers thus detailed, was to mean execution of the troop's commander.

GARDNER HOME WILL OPEN AS BOSTON MUSEUM

Art Loving Public Will Benefit From Fenway Court.

TAXES ARE LOST

Charge Fee During Week; No Admission on Sunday.

BOSTON—Boston's art loving public will derive a great benefit from the addition of Fenway Court, the sumptuous home of the late Mrs. John Gardner, containing many masterpieces of art of ancient and modern times, to the city's various art museums.

The opening of this beautiful Venetian palace, located in splendid surroundings in the Back Bay fens and considered the most famous and beautiful private art palace in the country, was brought about recently by Mayor Curley, following a conference with the special administrators of the estate.

Forthwith the buildings and their contents will be exempt from taxation, a loss to the city of more than $7,000, but in the opinion of the Mayor Curley a great gain in educational and inspirational advantages to the public and lovers of the rare and beautiful.

The museum will open its doors soon. Several slight changes will be made about the buildings to provide for the large number who will visit the estate. The construction of cloak rooms and the like will be made, but no great structural change that will tend to mar the beauty of the buildings.

During week days a small fee will be charged, but on Sunday admission will be free. In the charging of the week day fee the executors of the estate are but following the injunction of Mrs. Gardner, who expressed the opinion that a small admission fee would produce the greatest good for the community in that something paid for was more appreciated. When living Mrs. Gardner occasionally opened her home to the public and charged a fee.

The paintings, furniture, sculpture and other bric-a-brac were accumulated years ago by the Gardners at an estimated cost of over $1,000,000. At present, however, the works are appraised at $8,000,000.

Fogs Cause Worry.

NEW LIFE IS PUT INTO EVERY ORGAN OF A MAN'S BODY

LEO P. SINGER

Mr. Leo P. Singer, operator of an electric crane at the plant of the Sharpville, Pa., furnace, is a happy man. He has reason to rejoice, from the fact that, where a few weeks ago his condition was such that he had cause to complain, he is, today, according to his statement, enjoying the best of health. Mr. Singer resides on Mercer Ave.

He complained of a general rundown condition, nerves shattered, and he looked around for something which he thought might "brace him up." He ran into Ka-di-ok, the most wonderful herbal tonic and system builder of the present day. He got well acquainted with Ka-di-ok, and today, he and Ka-di-ok are mighty good friends.

It was through hearing good reports from people who had used Ka-di-ok that he secured the introduction. Right from the start, according to Mr. Singer's statement to a Ka-di-ok representative, Ka-di-ok began working on him. There were no-upper-cuts, side-swings, short-arm jabs or punches, no nauseating doses, no knock-out drops; simply a pleasant, soothing method Ka-di-ok usually has of meeting ailing folks and making them feel better.

After becoming thoroughly acquainted with Ka-di-ok, Mr. Singer voiced his sentiments in these few terse words:

"The results I received from Ka-di-ok were the very best. It filled me full of pep and put new life into every organ of my body. I now feel fine."

And the beautiful part of it is, the results usually achieved by Ka-di-ok are lasting. Buy a bottle, read what is claimed for it on the label, and act accordingly. Meet Ka-di-ok; he's a real friend.

Ka-di-ok is sold and recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews' Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 W. Sixth Street.

"POOR MUSICIAN, PADEREWSKI," OFFERED JOB IN SWITZERLAND

GENEVA, Jan.—All Switzerland is laughing at a joke played upon the dance committee of a smal village in the Canton of Vaud.

The committee was unable to obtain a pianist for the village's annual New Year's ball, and, this fact becoming known, a practical joker wrote to the committee saying that "theer is a man named Paderewiski, who plays the piano and is out of work, and he would like a job this winter. He lives at Morges, near Lausanne."

It seems strange that Paderewski should have been unknown to the committee, but the fact remains that it immediately wrote to him offering him a small sum, plus refreshments, for his services.

The famous pianist, entering into the joke, wrote a charming letter in reply "sincerely regretting that he was unable to accept the flattering invitation."

Retires From Office.

BUCYRUS, Feb.—Mrs. James B. Gormley, for 20 years president and a charter member for 51 years of the Women's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church, has, due to her own choice, been succeeded as president by Mrs. S. W. Young. Mrs. Gormly was designated president emeritus of the society.

Building Castles.

MIDDLEPORT, Feb.—A number of Meigs countians claim that they will profit heavily financially, if the claims of the Edwards family to valuable real estate in New York City is sustained. Several people here claim direct descent from the original owner of the land.

Alimony Taxed Wife Faces Prison Term; Ex-husband in Want

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Feb.—Mrs. Frank Meiser, the only woman whom Iowa courts have ever decreed should pay her divorced husband alimony, was married in Chicago two months after she was divorced. Her husband, minus the $1,500-a-year alimony he had been receiving, is sleeping nights in police headquarters, a homeless man. Mrs. Meiser was married to G. P. Givens, a roomer in her hotel at the time of her divorce.

If the bride returns to Iowa she will face a term in jail for remarrying without the consent of the court. She tried to obtain this consent before going to Chicago, but the court refused to grant it.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

"She's afraid of every man, Clarice, particularly if he looks big and strong. I think it was some big brutal-looking man who took her from Crisomby Lakes. It's not safe for her to see your father now—it might bring on one of those fearful attacks. Some way, you and I must get her to the hospital, and I suggested a plan to your father, but it all depends on your skill. You can go in and lie down on my bed and seem as unconscious as when she first saw you. With her, impressions fade very quickly, but she still remembers you. I can bring her in and she want to nurse you, as she did before. Then you can get better and she will be happy over it. You can spend most of the day with her and your own tact will tell you how to act and what to say to her—nothing that seems to distress her. Talk to her about her canary—she loves it. This evening you can feel much better and you can tell her that you are going clear into the city to stay; and you can ask her, in my presence, whether she will come and take care of you if you should be ill again, and I shall say that we will both of us come right away, if you need us. Then, as soon as your father has made arrangements, I shall get a message that you need us and I'll say that we will go early in the morning, in a carriage with horses—she is not afraid of horses—she loves animals. We will take the canary with us and start early in the morning, while it's dark. In that way we shall avoid her being frightened by automobiles and pedestrians. Your father will get a carriage and a woman driver and we will get to the hospital before people are about. You will be there in bed and she will begin to nurse you. Then a nurse will appear—you will be supposed to be staying at her house—she will be the lady of the house. You can get better then, and, without her knowing it, she will have a nurse and you can stay with your mother. They will know at the hospital how to manage after that. Can you do it?"

"Indeed I will. And you thought of all that! I'll do anything you tell me."

"Madame Navarre says you can act—do it now, to the best of your ability."

"I will." A fleck of color showed in Clarice's cheeks. "I asked father, and he told me to ask you—will you tell Mr. Rossiter that—that he thought all wrong about father? Father said he didn't mind Mr. Rossiter's knowing about mamma. It's just that I want him to know. I'm going to stay with mamma always, but I want him to know."

"So she has made her sacrifice, too!" Karesia thought. "She thinks she is going to give up her career. But even in her trouble, she doesn't forget the man she loves."

Karesia wanted to say, "You know, Rand and I are only friends now, there is nothing between us," but she did not. It would be apparent enough to Clarice in time. "I will, Clarice," she promised. "Rand will think well of you for what you are doing. Everyone will, when they know."

XXXVIII

Karesia Kaime's double house was empty; no Mary Bliss, empty silence next door, no Takimoto moving about the place, no Clarice whirring her car into action in the garage below, no Dascome striding along the gallery, then his ring sounding through her house. A great emptiness after days of stir and anxiety.

They had taken Elaine Dascome away early in the morning of the second day after Karesia had made her discovery. Her plan had succeeded, Clarice had played her part well, and the drive to the hospital had been accomplished without any mishap to Elaine, though most of the time she had clung to Karesia in terror. The strangeness of it all had distressed her; the occasional automobiles that had whirred by them in the darkness had frightened her, and the huge building into which Karesia had taken her was bewildering. They had climbed so many stairs and had walked along such long halls. Karesia had told her that this was a large house in which "the pretty girl" was staying; if Karesia had told her that it was a hospital, Elaine would not have understood, but she knew the meaning of "doctor;" a doctor was one of her terrors, and Karesia had been careful not to suggest anything of that kind. The presence of the canary was a great help; in her anxiety over the tiny bird, Elaine had forgotten some of her fear.

Karesia had acquainted herself beforehand with the side entrance and the side stairway and the exact location of the big sunny room which Dascome had secured, and when, finally, the canary cage under one arm and Elaine clinging to the other, she came into the room and saw her charge go directly to the bed on which Clarice lay, Karesia felt ready to collapse. The perspiration of strain and anxiety had stood in drops on her forehead and the palms of her hands had been moist. It had been a terrible undertaking; she had been responsible for the plan. She had been too terribly anxious to think of the strangeness of it, she with her arms about Dascome's wife, soothing and talking to her throughout that long drive, and Elaine's pitiful clinging to her. little child-woman had an immense faith in Karesia Kaime; Clairce needed her care and protection, but Karesia was the great protector of them all, of Clarice, of the canary, and of herself. And now they were safely here.

Karesia had found a spot for the canary cage, and then a chair for herself, and through a mist she had heard Elaine's whisper, "I think she is very ill again—she doesn't wake up. I think I had better bathe her face."

"Yes," Karesia had said, looking at her through the mist. "Do whatever you think will be good for her. Then I'll find the nice woman who is taking care of her and bring her here."

Karesia had found her way through the fog and out into the hall. Then she had felt better; she had never fainted in her life, but she had been near to it. She had been on such a strain these last few days.

The nurse was out there and evidently she had been carefully instructed. "I saw you coming with her and kept out of the way. Is everything all right?" she had asked.

MOST BRITISH DIVORCES OCCUR IN FAMILIES WITH FEW CHILDREN

LONDON, Jan. — Of 2,834 divorce suits brought in Great Britain last year 1,166 of the couples concerned were childless, according to statistics recently issued here.

Supporting the argument that childless marriages are more often than not the cause of unhappiness in the home, the statistics show that there were 896 divorce cases brought in which there was one child, 444 cases in which the parties had two children and 310 cases in which there were three to six children. There were only thirteen cases in which the parties had over six children.

The statistics also show that most divorces are brought after from five to ten years. There were only sixteen suits brought where the parties had been married under one year and only 321 after twenty years.

English Women Seeking Divorce Under New Law

LONDON, Feb. — More and more English women are now petitioning for divorces as the result of recent legislation placing wives and husbands on an equal plane as regards divorce.

Of 597 suits for divorce brought during one court term recently no fewer than 403 of them were brought by the wife.

Much Gold Used in Arts

Annually, there is about $80,000,000 worth of gold used in arts. It goes into jewelry, gilding, as fillings for teeth and in similar work in the fine and liberal arts. Some of them ost skilled workers of any crafts are employed for this work and great precaution has to be taken to account for the material, in some instances the drains of the workers' washrooms being so perfect that gold dust washed from their hands can be reclaimed. This alone amounts to many thousands of dollars in a year.

Mrs. Stokes Appears With Mother at Trial of Former Husband

BOY MURDERERS ARE SENTENCED TO HANG ON FRIDAY, FEB. 13

BUTLER, Ga., an.—Willie Jones and Gervais Bloodworth are in custody of Sheriff R. A. McGriffin, here awaiting death on the gallows, Friday, February 13.

The boys walked through the gallows pen, unconcernedly, on their way to the court house, where Judge W. J. H. Searcy, of Griffin, Ga., sentenced them to hang on "hoodoo" day. They showed no emotion as the death sentence was imposed.

The youths—they are hardly more than children—were convicted of murdering and robbing Howard F. Underwood, a prosperous neighbor, on December 3, 1923.

Desperate efforts have been made to save their lives. Once, when an injunction prevented their execution, the novel plea was set up that being alive on the day set for their death, they could never thereafter be legally executed. The courts brushed aside all these technicalities.

If we'd think about posterity as much as we do about prosperity, succeeding generations would be born healthier and wealthier.

Twelfth Night, a King Idea

Since the days of King Alfred, Twelfth Night (the twelfth night after Christmas), January 6, has been celebrated as a holiday and while it was originally, like Christmas, sacred, it has become a time for frolicking and costume merrymaking. It was supposed to commemorate the visit of the Magi to the manger of Christ. A cake is usually cut and the man finding a bean in his piece is made King and the girl who finds a pea in her slice, is hailed Queen of the party.

Eel grass, a variety of seaweed that grows in Newfoundland, is being used as a substitute for horsehair or feathers in stuffing cushions, mattresses and other upholstered articles.

Taking Insects Unawares.

Insects which spread disease to humans and crops, or otherwise are pests, will be killed in a new way by the U. S. Department of Agriculture whose chemistry experts are concocting bait which contains the odors most attractive to the insects, but into which have been fused poisons deadly to them. The chemists are extracting the scents from the insects' favorite foods and these will then be made synthetically in the laboratory. Boll Weevils have already been fought in this way, the poison being used with cotton bolls.

With Amazing Speed It Stops That Tough Hang On Cough That Racks Your Whole Body

For simple coughs any simple sweet sugary cough syrup will probably do.

But when you want to throw out of your system one of those old timers, that simply won't be conquered, but lingers on and on causing sleepless nights and days of torment then you've just got to have a real cough medicine.

Then you must ask your druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion for the harder and tougher and tighter they come the more joy Bronchuline gets in knocking them out.

Bronchuline isn't a cheap cough conqueror, mind you, for first raters are never cheap. But if you are one of the unlucky ones that a persistent, health destroying cough is pushing towards the grave, get a bottle today and notice how the first dose takes right hold and soothes the terrible soreness.

Often three or four doses bring blessed relief and half a bottle forces the most stubborn cough into submission.

"A bottle of magic" one old man calls Bronchuline Emulsion. He was all worn out and ready to give up when a friend brought him the good news about Bronchuline.

Don't let a cough hang on—it's dangerous company—Get rid of it quick. Ask Jesse D. Holloway and Carnahan's drug stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., or any up to the times druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion. It's a good medicine to have around the house because it contains no chloroform or dope and often two or three doses will stop any ordinary cough.

Making Rural Life More Attractive to Farm Daughters Is Her Work

The object of the clubs is to improve homemaking practices and give farm girls a more wholesome and intelligent view of rural community life.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTERS GOING THRU COLLEGE ON SIX-CENT MEALS

BOSTON.—Ruth Anna Diveley, 16; her mother, Mrs. Anna Diveley, and her sister, Mary Browning Diveley, are bound to go through college and win their degrees.

"Ma" Diveley, the mother, is an energetic, gray-haired, little old lady who is studying hard in Boston University for a master's degree, having won her B. S. in the early eighties from Washington college in Tennessee.

Her two daughters are equally determined to complete their college courses.

The family came here from Winfield, Kansas, and have figured that to get through college it will be necessary for them to live on meals that will cost them no more than six cents apiece. Although $1.50 per week for food may not be a record for the low cost of living for an individual, it approaches an irreducible minimum.

Line Fence Taxes Pass.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Feb.—Absence of "line fence" taxes from the current Belmont county tax collection is assigned by County Auditor Finley to the development of the community spirit and to elimination of factional disputes, credit for which is given the Farm Bureau and the Grange.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"Hellenism Has Played Vital Part in Christianity's Progress," Says Greek Minister.

Charalambous Simopoulos, the Greek minister to the United States, addressing the Washington Classical Club recently, said the strength of Hellenism throughout the ages had been due to the fact that Greece has always been not merely a country but also, and above all, an "idea."

"The advent of Christianity," he said, "found no other civilization as well prepared to receive the teachings of our Lord, as the Hellenic civilization. Hellenism, with the teachings of Socrates and Plato, had foreseen that a new world was about to be born and shortly after our Lord had spoken, Hellenism realized that the teachings of Jesus Christ were destined to bring a world wide transformation and without the slightest hesitation offered its help.

"Without Hellenism the propogation of Christianity would have been a much more difficult task. Without the advent of Christianity the Greek people would never have survived. Christianity used the civilized organizations which had been established by Hellenism in the ancient institutions which were dying. Christian institutions rapidly began to flourish.

"Greece had been reborn in allying herself with Philip and Alexander, and now she allied herself with Christianity which was teaching the most noble ideals. Hellenism, through its language, dominated the Near East, and thus controlled its organization.

"At this time Constantine the Great appeared and realized the fact that the ancient world was in its last agony, that a new world was ready to succeed that that this new world was beginning to prosper in the Near East. Then he abandoned Rome and founded a new capital on the shores of the Bosphorus, which since that time has borne his name and which became the seat of Christian Hellenism."

The medieval age of Hellenism produced a line of kings and created a new civilization. The byzantine court was one of the most brilliant in the medieval age. Greek churchmen, orators, generals and artists illuminated all this period of the Greek Empire and the Church of St. Sofia, the Church of the Wisdom of God, is the result of Greek genius equally with the Parthenon at Athens."

The "long Turkish night," the speaker called the period which followed the fall of Constantinople, which heeled up through the dissensions between the Christians of the East and of the West during the crusades tracing the path of the Byzantine Empire.

"Hellenism fell but was not lost under the barbarian yoke," he declared, "as even when falling it rendered its greatest service to humanity. The small number of the elite among the Greeks who had escaped the massacre were scattered throughout Europe, especially in nearby Italy, carrying with them their manuscripts, their science, their philosophy. They were received in the different Italian courts and greatly contributed to the Italian renaissance, propagating the Greek language, Greek works and classics of which they were the pious guardians.

"Those who remained in what now became the Turkish empire gathered themselves around the chief of their church. Under the terror of the Turkish yoke they jealously maintained the religion and language of their ancient traditions and above all the sentiment of their nationality. At the heart of the oppressor they developed themselves as a state within a state. The Patriarch, supreme head of the church, was also the head of the nation aided by a devoted clergy in all of the provinces. This was the dawn of Modern Hellenism which has grown out of such unprecedented slavery."

In Germany the "new rich" continue to buy jewelry, undeterred by the fifteen per cent luxury tax.

ORPHANS' CHIEF HOLDS POST

E. E. WEBB STANDS PAT WHEN FAIRMOUNT BOARD CALLS FOR RESIGNATION

Declaring he Had Been Advised by Governor Donahey to "Return and Continue my Good Work," Man Pardoned in Canton Flogging Case Declines to Heed Request to Quit His Position.

OFFICER IS UNDER CIVIL SERVICE REGULATIONS; MUST FILE CHARGES

Two Trustees, Who Submitted Their Resignations Last Week, Reconsider Their Action and Announce They Will Continue as Members, at Request of Commissioners of Columbiana and Stark Counties.

Declaring that he had been advised by Governor Donahey to "return and continue my good work," E. E. Webb, superintendent of the Fairmount Children's home at Alliance, yesterday, refused to heed the unanimous request of the commissioners of Columbiana and Stark counties and the board of trustees of the institution for his resignation.

The joint meeting of the commissioners, held at the home, was called for the purpose of acting on the resignations of four members of the board of trustees, who quit as an aftermath of Governor Donahey's action in pardoning Webb from a 60-day workhouse sentence imposed upon him for his part in the flogging of a Canton man several months ago.

"In granting me a pardon, the governor urged me to return to the home, continue my good work and sin no more," Webb is said to have told the commissioners at their conference with the trustees. "I am acting upon his advice and refuse to resign."

Neither Webb nor his wife, who is matron at the home, would make any statement following the meeting.

Charges Unlikely To Be Filed.

Because of the death of Charles Y. Kay, of Alliance, chairman of the board of trustees, it is not likely that charges will be filed against Webb, at this time to force his removal, the Commissioners stated. As superintendent of the home, Webb is employed under civil service regulations and cannot be removed against his own wishes unless found guilty of incompetency or malfeasance in office.

At the request of the commissioners of the two counties, two of the trustees who submitted their resignations last week, reconsidered their actions and announced they would continue as members of the board for the present at least. They are F. W. Weidemayer, Leetonia, and Jacob Graze, Massilon.

The board at its morning session, Thursday selected H. J. Fraser, East Palestine to suceed Joseph Crist, Homeworth, who is said to have resigned because of ill health, and G. H. Cassidy, Canton as successor to W. C. Schick, Canton, whose resignation has been in the hands of the board for several months. A successor to Mr. Kay will not be named until after his

WOOSTER, Ohio, Feb. 13.—Friday, the thirteenth, was not an unlucky day for Joseph Marone, 25, for a verdict read in common pleas court at 9 A. M. found him not guilty of the murder of Edwin L. Vetter last August.

Vetter's body was found along a lonely road.

Fred Perrenod testified in the trial that he was sitting in an automobile nearby, with a young woman, and saw the crime committed. He identified Marone as one of the two men who killed Vetter.

D. W. JOHNSTON DIES IN WEST

Former Restauranteur Succumbs in Tucson, Arizona.

David W. Johnston, aged about 60, former East Liverpool restauranteur and latter identified with the William Erlanger Co., died yesterday in Tucson, Arizona, where he had gone in hopes of benefiting his health.

Mr. Johnston left here 10 years ago, going to Toledo, where he was associated with a traction company. For many years he was active in civic and labor movements here.

He leaves his wife, who was with him in Arizona, and two sisters, Mrs. J. Harmon Allison, of Chester, and Mrs. Wallace McElroy, of Youngstown.

The body will be brought to the home of a brother in law, M. J. O'Shea, of West Fifth street. Arrangements for the funeral, however, have not been completed.

OEDENBURG, Germany, Feb. 13—The town story-teller, the children's friend and the man who kept Oedenburg's streets as cleanly swept as the proverbial pin, is dead. Plans were made today to erect a monument to his memory.

But, oddly, although almost everybody in Oedenburg knew the Street Sweeper and heard his stories very few could tell his name, and the newspapers in chronicling his death did not give it.

He asked no fee but the pleasure of his listeners. His folk lore is being compiled from those who heard it, to be published as "Tales of the Street Sweeper."

WATER IN CELLARS

Lowlands in Northside, Pittsburgh, are Inundated.

Reaching a crest of 28.9 feet at U. S. Government Lock No. 8, just below here, at 3 o'clock this morning, the Ohio river, which has been threatening a flood stage, is receding.

After remaining stationary a few hours, the water began falling. At 9 A. M., the stage was 28.6 feet, while it was receding at the rate one-twentieth of an inch an hour.

The danger mark is 35 feet.

There was no damage in the East Liverpool district.

Allegheny River Falling.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 13.—After rising to the 21.9 foot stage, the Allegheny river here remained stationary until midnight, and started to fall this morning, according to the local weather bureau.

Low lying sections in the Northside are flooded and water is entering many cellars. Work at the Baltimore & Ohio railroad siding along the Allegheny river is practically stopped.

The flood stage in this scetion is 22 feet. R. C. McCullough, superintnedent of locks and dams on the Allegheny and Ohio rivers, said the flood stage would not be reached on the Ohio river.

Cold Weather Welcomed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Cold weather was welcomed today by people in districts where floods are reaching over six eastern states, and menacing river districts in New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hempshire. A promised extension of the sharp drop in temperature held hope of relief from the high water stages.

In upper New York state, melting snows and the steady downpour which preceded the sharp return to winter weather last night have piled up huge property losses. Ice jams further aggravated the floods.

Schenectady streets along the Mohawk river front were flooded and trolley traffic to Saratoga was halted by a water stage of 14 feet above normal.

Streets in Albany also were covered with water.

In the remote country sections, farmers' families were marooned by the swollen rivers and row boats were being brought to their relief.

GIRL IS SLAIN; FARMER IS HELD

MIDLAND, Mich., Feb. 13—Victor Badgsley, 29, a farmer was held at the county jail in Bay City today as the slayer of Margaret Todd, 11, whose body was found last night in the woods north of Coleman, ich., near here. The child's throat had been cut.

Sheriff Thomas Bailey of Midland county said Badgsley admitted waylaying the girl as she returned home from school and dragging her into the woods where she was killed.

The body was hidden behind a stump in the second growth of cut overlands. Searching parties had started out when she failed to return home from school.

"Careless Little Bride" Will Face Charge of Bigamy

BENNINGTON, Vt., Feb. 13.—An officer from Camden, N. J., arrived here today with extradition papers for Mrs. Harry R. Clinton, 26, called by the police "the careless little bride."

She forgot all about the fourth husband when she married her fifth, she told the authorities.

"But I'll never marry another man as long as I live', she added.

"The careless little bride" is said by police to have confessed to marrying these men:

George O. Brown, Springfield, Mass., divorced.

Benjamin Hamlin, Patchogue, N. Y., divorced.

Fred Kniskern, Schoharie, N. Y., the man she forgot.

Harry R. Clinton, Camden, N. J.

The officer from New Jersey said she was indicted there for bigamy.

Columbus Police Do Not Believe Arrest In South Will Solve Sheatsley Mystery

Skeptical Regarding Birmingham, Ala., Prisoner's Story That he Murdered Woman and Shoveled Her Body in Furnace.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13.—County and police officials here today were disinclined to believe that solution of the mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. C. V. Sheatsley, wife of a local clergyman, whose charred remains were found in the basement furnace at the Sheatsley home November 17, last, is imminent.

Police officials who aided County Prosecutor King in his probe of the Sheatsley case were openly skeptical concerning the alleged confession of the man, detained at Birmingham, Ala., that he killed a woman and forced her body into the furnace in the basement of her home. While awaiting additional information from the Birmingham police, officials in the county prosecutor's office here declared they have nothing which would indicate that the Birmingham prisoner had anything to do with Mrs. Sheatsley's death.

Rev. Dr. Sheatsley said he would be very much interested in developments incident to the Birminghan arrest. While police officials expressed the opinion that the Birmingham prisoner is demented, they joined with Prosecutor King's office in asserting that careful consideration will be given to any official information they may receive from Birmingham.

May Be Victim of Amnesia.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 13—An unidentified man who declares he "remembers having murdered a preacher's wife and shoveled her body into a furnace," was held by police here today.

The man apparently about 30 years old, and well dressed, walked into police headquarters and requested that officers aid him in "finding himself."

He did not know his name nor where he was, he declared, but did have a hazy recollection of having burned a preacher's wife in a furnace.

"Something happened in the kitchen where the woman and I were," he told police. "I remember dragging a

129 ARE KILLED IN MINE BLAST

DORTMUND, Germany, Feb. 13.—Total deaths from German's worst mine disaster were placed at 129 this afternoon. This included bodies removed and eight dead miners still in the tunnels.

Chancellor Luther viewed the mine wreckage today and visited families of the victims. Luther cut short his vacation yesterday and hurried here to take charge of rescue work.

Flags were flying at half mast here and in many other cities of Germany as Dortmound counted its dead.

So far as known the accident was caused by a spark from an engine exploding "firedamp," a gas which collects in mines. The detonations shook the town like peals of thunder. All protective walls in the tunnels and shafts were said to have been thrown down, thus trapping the men.

CIRCUS TIGER KILLS GIRL IN MANILA TENT

PANIC FOLLOWS

Detective Kills Beast As it Leaps Into Midst of Crowd.

MANILA, Feb. 13.—Crashing through the steel bars that separated it from the girl performer who was putting the animal through its tricks, a circus tiger at a Manila carnival show this afternoon killed the young woman.

A quick minded Filipino detective in the audience shot and killed the blood-maddened jungle beast just as it was leaping from the stage on which it had ended teh girl's life into the midst of the crowded seats encircling the ringside.

So quickly did the killing occur that circus employees had no opportunity to come to the girl's rescue.

The shot felling the tiger as it hurtled through the air toward the audience quelled the panic which occurred.

Eddie Rickenbacker Ridicules Use of Anti-aircraft Guns

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Claims by general staff officers that anti-aircraft guns could properly portect the United States against enemy flyers were ridiculed today by witnesses appearing before the house committee investigating military aeronautics.

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 13.—Friends in the "life or death" shaft to rescue Floyd Collins from Sand cave shortly before 11 o'clock this morning sent word to doctors and nurses in the Red Cross tent "to be ready for anything."

The air was electric with expectancy but there was no formal word as to what was coming.

Telephone lines from Sand cave to Cave City buzzed and Lieut. Gov. H. H. Denhardt was called from his lunch and hurried by automobile to the cave.

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 13.—There is no short cut to Floyd Collins.

Long hours of drilling and of digging throughout the night disclosed today that no fissure will expedite the removel of the entombed cave explorer.

When the core drill, 15 feet from where the shaft was being sunk, reached 65 feet, a tunnel was disclosed. But the drill test in the bottom of the shaft revealed no such tunnel.

Workers Not Discouraged.

This means that tunnel drilled through hard lime-stone will have to be cut to the point where the test disclosed the fissure, so that it might be used as a starting point from which side-drifting will begin for the cavern where the entombed Floyd lies either dead or alive.

This will consume at least 48 hours.

"We are not discouraged by the drill test", H. T. Carmichael, director of the operations said, "Although it was a disappointment to us that no crevice was found similar to the one which the drill showed when we made the previous test about 15 feet southwest of the shaft. The results of this second test means that we will have to cut laterally in one and possible several directions when we get down to the level at which Collins is believed to be.

John McHenry, and his wife, Minnie, of 1002 Church street, were recovering in the City hospital today from minor injuries suffered shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when their automobile was struck by a C. & P. switching engine on the Horn switch at the foot of Jefferson street.

They were scratched, bruised and are suffering from shock, but sustained no broken bones. At the hospital they were attended by Dr. W. A. Hobbs.

McHenry, driving down the hill, failed to notice the approach of the engine which was backing down the grade with a box car. The body of the automobile, a sedan, was torn loose from the chassis by the force of the impact, the machine being a total wreck. McHenry and his wife were dragged from the wreckage by witnesses.

ORPHANS' CHIEF HOLDS POST

E. E. WEBB STANDS PAT WHEN FAIRMOUNT BOARD CALLS FOR RESIGNATION

Declaring he Had Been Advised by Governor Donahey to "Return and Continue my Good Work," Man Pardoned in Canton Flogging Case Declines to Heed Request to Quit His Position.

OFFICER IS UNDER CIVIL SERVICE REGULATIONS; MUST FILE CHARGES

Two Trustees, Who Submitted Their Resignations Last Week, Reconsider Their Action and Announce They Will Continue as Members, at Request of Commissioners of Columbiana and Stark Counties.

Declaring that he had been advised by Governor Donahey to 'return and continue my good work," E. E. Webb, superintendent of the Fairmount Children's home at Alliance, yesterday, refused to heed the unanimous request of the commissioners of Columbiana and Stark counties and the board of trustees of the institution for his resignation.

The joint meeting of the commissioners, held at the home, was called for the purpose of acting on the resignations of four members of the board of trustees, who quit as an aftermath of Governor Donahey's action in pardoning Webb from a 60-day workhouse sentence imposed upon him for his part in the flogging of a Canton man several months ago.

"In granting me a pardon, the governor urged me to return to the home, continue my good work and sin no more," Webb is said to have told the commissioners at their conference with the trustees. "I am acting upon his advice and refuse to resign."

Neither Webb nor his wife, who is matron at the home, would make any statement following the meeting.

Charges Unlikely To Be Filed.

Because of the death of Charles Y. Kay, of Alliance, chairman of the board of trustees, it is not likely that charges will be filed against Webb, at this time to force his removal, the Commissioners stated. As superintendent of the home, Webb is employed under civil service regulations and cannot be removed against his own wishes unless found guilty of incompetency or malfeasance in office.

At the request of the commissioners of the two counties, two of the trustees who submitted their resignations last week, reconsidered their actions and announced they would continue as members of the board for the present at least. They are F. W. Weidemayer, Leetonia, and Jacob Graze, Massillon.

The board at its morning session, Thursday selected H. J. Fraser, East Palestine to suceed Joseph Crist, Homeworth, who is said to have resigned because of ill health, and G. H. Cassidy, Canton as successor to W. C. Schick, Canton, whose resignation has been in the hands of the board for several months. A successor to Mr. Kay will not be named until after his

WOOSTER, Ohio, Feb. 13.—Friday, the thirteenth, was not an unlucky day for Joseph Marone, 25, for a verdict read in common pleas court at 9 A. M. found him not guilty of the murder of Edwin L. Vetter last August.

Vetter's body was found along a lonely road.

Fred Perrenod testified in the trial that he was sitting in an automobile nearby, with a young woman, and saw the crime committed. He identified Marone as one of the two men who killed Vetter.

D. W. JOHNSTON DIES IN WEST

Former Restauranteur Succumbs in Tucson, Arizona.

David W. Johnston, aged about 60, former East Liverpool restauranteur and latter identified with the William Erlanger Co., died yesterday in Tucson, Arizona, where he had gone in hopes of benefiting his health.

Mr. Johnston left here 10 years ago, going to Toledo, where he was associated with a traction company. For many years he was active in civic and labor movements here.

He leaves his wife, who was with him in Arizona, and two sisters, Mrs. J. Harmon Allison, of Chester, and Mrs. Wallace McElroy, of Youngstown.

The body will be brought to the home of a brother in law, M. J. O'Shea, of West Fifth street. Arrangements for the funeral, however, have not been completed.

OEDENBURG, Germany, Feb. 13.—The town story-teller, the children's friend and the man who kept Oedenburg's streets as cleanly swept as the proverbial pin, is dead. Plans were made today to erect a monument to his memory.

But, oddly, although almost everybody in Oedenburg knew the Street Sweeper and heard his stories very few could tell his name, and the newspapers in chronicling his death did not give it.

He asked no fee but the pleasure of his listeners. His folk lore is being compiled from those who heard it, to be published as "Tales of the Street Sweeper."

WATER IN CELLARS

Lowlands in Northside, Pittsburgh, are Inundated.

Reaching a crest of 28.9 feet at U. S. Government Lock No. 8, just below here, at 3 o'clock this morning, the Ohio river, which has been threatening a flood stage, is receding.

After remaining stationary a few hours, the water began falling. At 9 A. M., the stage was 28.6 feet, while it was receding at the rate one-twentieth of an inch an hour.

The danger mark is 35 feet.

There was no damage in the East Liverpool district.

Allegheny River Falling.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 13.—After rising to the 21.9 foot stage, the Allegheny river here remained stationary until midnight, and started to fall this morning, according to the local weather bureau.

Low lying sections in the Northside are flooded and water is entering many cellars. Work at the Baltimore & Ohio railroad siding along the Allegheny river is practically stopped.

The flood stage in this scetion is 22 feet. R. C. McCullough, superintnedent of locks and dams on the Allegheny and Ohio rivers, said the flood stage would not be reached on the Ohio river.

Cold Weather Welcomed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Cold weather was welcomed today by people in districts where floods are reaching over six eastern states, and menacing river districts in New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hempshire. A promised extension of the sharp drop in temperature held hope of relief from the high water stages.

In upper New York state, melting snows and the steady downpour which preceded the sharp return to winter weather last night have piled up huge property losses. Ice jams further aggravated the floods.

Schenectady streets along the Mohawk river front were flooded and trolley traffic to Saratoga was halted by a water stage of 14 feet above normal.

Streets in Albany also were covered with water.

In the remote country sections, farmers' families were marooned by the swollen rivers and row boats were being brought to their relief.

GIRL IS SLAIN; FARMER IS HELD

MIDLAND, Mich., Feb. 13—Victor Badgsley, 29, a farmer was held at the county jail in Bay City today as the slayer of Margaret Todd, 11, whose body was found last night in the woods north of Coleman, ich., near here. The child's throat had been cut.

Sheriff Thomas Bailey of Midland county said Badgsley admitted waylaying the girl as she returned home from school and dragging her into the woods where she was killed.

The body was hidden behind a stump in the second growth of cut overlands. Searching parties had started out when she failed to return home from school.

"Careless Little Bride" Will Face Charge of Bigamy

BENNINGTON, Vt., Feb. 13.—An officer from Camden, N. J., arrived here today with extradition papers for Mrs. Harry R. Clinton, 26, called by the police "the careless little bride."

She forgot all about the fourth husband when she married her fifth, she told the authorities.

"But I'll never marry another man as long as I live', she added.

"The careless little bride" is said by police to have confessed to marrying these men:

George O. Brown, Springfield, Mass., divorced.

Benjamin Hamlin, Patchogue, N. Y., divorced.

Fred Kniskern, Schoharie, N. Y., the man she forgot.

Harry R. Clinton, Camden, N. J.

The officer from New Jersey said she was indicted there for bigamy.

129 ARE KILLED IN MINE BLAST

DORTMUND, Germany, Feb. 13.—Total deaths from German's worst mine disaster were placed at 129 this afternoon. This included bodies removed and eight dead miners still in the tunnels.

Chancellor Luther viewed the mine wreckage today and visited families of the victims. Luther cut short his vacation yesterday and hurried here to take charge of rescue work.

Flags were flying at half mast here and in many other cities of Germany as Dortmound counted its dead.

So far as known the accident was caused by a spark from an engine exploding "firedamp," a gas which collects in mines. The detonations shook the town like peals of thunder. All protective walls in the tunnels and shafts were said to have been thrown down, thus trapping the men.

Skeptical Regarding Birmingham, Ala., Prisoner's Story That he Murdered Woman and Shoveled Her Body in Furnace.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13.—County and police officials here today were disinclined to believe that solution of the mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. C. V. Sheatsley, wife of a local clergyman, whose charred remains were found in the basement furnace at the Sheatsley home November 17, last, is imminent.

Police officials who aided County Prosecutor King in his probe of the Sheatsley case were openly skeptical concerning the alleged confession of the man, detained at Birmingham, Ala., that he killed a woman and forced her body into the furnace in the basement of her home. While awaiting additional information from the Birmingham police, officials in the county prosecutor's office here declared they have nothing which would indicate that the Birmingham prisoner had anything to do with Mrs. Sheatsley's death.

Rev. Dr. Sheatsley said he would be very much interested in developments incident to the Birmingham arrest. While police officials expressed the opinion that the Birmingham prisoner is demented, they joined with Prosecutor King's office in asserting that careful consideration will be given to any official information they may receive from Birmingham.

May Be Victim of Amnesia.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 13—An unidentified man who declares he "remembers having murdered a preacher's wife and shoveled her body into a furnace," was held by police here today.

The man apparently about 30 years old, and well dressed, walked into police headquarters and requested that officers aid him in "finding himself."

He did not know his name nor where he was, he declared, but did have a hazy recollection of having burned a preacher's wife in a furnace.

"Something happened in the kitchen where the woman and I were," he told police. "I remember dragging a

PANIC FOLLOWS

Detective Kills Beast As it Leaps Into Midst of Crowd.

MANILA, Feb. 13.—Crashing through the steel bars that separated it from the girl performer who was putting the animal through its tricks, a circus tiger at a Manila carnival show this afternoon killed the young woman.

A quick minded Filipino detective in the audience shot and killed the blood-maddened jungle beast just as it was leaping from the stage on which it had ended teh girl's life into the midst of the crowded seats encircling the ringside.

So quickly did the killing occur that circus employees had no opportunity to come to the girl's rescue.

The shot felling the tiger as it hurtled through the air toward the audience quelled the panic which occurred.

Eddie Rickenbacker Ridicules Use of Anti-aircraft Guns

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Claims by general staff officers that anti-aircraft guns could properly portect the United States against enemy flyers were ridiculed today by witnesses appearing before the house committee investigating military aeronautics.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, premier American ace of the A. E. F. who was officially credited with 26 enemy planes, told the committee this morning that the "chief pastime" of American flyers in the World war was going aloft and permitting the "Archies" to shoot at them.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

Woman's Eternal Hope.

It seems to be woman's nature to hope for the best in her husband even when experience has taught her that he is utterly worthless. An expression of regret and a promise to do better in the future has kept many a woman from the divorce courts, but she finds her life no brighter because of the empty words.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My husband and I separated two years ago. I sued for a divorce and then my husband came to me with promises to be different and persuaded me to withdraw my case. We have two boys; one is four and the other six years of age. I have always had the boys. I have a flat and he has a flat on the same street about two blocks away. Our trouble was over another woman. She is living with her husband and has three children, two in high school. She goes around telling people that he is going to get a divorce now that the two years are up and then they will be married. I suppose she figures that when he gets one her husband will get one too. What should I do? Keep on taking care of the boys while he runs around with her? Should I wait and see if he sues? I don't know what to do. I can see him go to her house and also see him come out.

DESERTED WIFE AND MOTHER.

As long as your husband has not kept his promise to be different and continues to see the other woman, apply again for a divorce. You have given him two years in which to prove himself worthy of you and the boys, and instead of doing so he has only shown you that family ties mean nothing to him. This time do not weaken and take him back only to be hurt against by his disloyty. I doubt if he will sue you. Take the matter in your own hands and don't wait to see.

Longing for Sympathy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman 36 years old. My husband does not seem to care very much for me any more. We have been married nine years and he was very good to me until about a year ago. I am sick most of the time but try to make my home happy. I never go any place and always try to have his meals ready when he comes in. It seems as if he chooses some one else for his company. I am not jealous and never throw such a thing up to him, but when he comes in he never asks me how I am or talks to me. It is more than I can stand for I love him. Please advise me what to do.

SNOW BALL.

Don't let yourself get hurt when your husband fails to inquire about the kind of day you have put in or the doctor's last report of your condition. Also refrain from mentioning the subject of your health to him. In case he should ask, be as cheerful and hopeful as possible, giving promise of better days ahead. It would be better for you to get away from home than to stay at home all the time to keep things up and have meals on time. You need to be refreshed by meeting people and attending amusements. If your husband will take you to a theatre or entertainment, go even if you are sick afterward. In the long run you will be better for the change. As it is your life is very monotonous and you have nothing to offer your husband in the way of conversation when he returns home. My advice isn't very consoling, but it is the only thing I can say.

Lonesome for Old Times.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 20 and away at school. I find it very hard to mingle with boys here and I always feel out of place in their presence. Before I came away I went "steady." I don't want to forget the boy at home, but I would like to be able to have good times like other college girls. I don't feel happy in the presence of boys. Please advise me how to overcome this awkward feeling. LONESOME SAL.

Don't shrink within yourself merely because it would be easier than to attend social functions. Force yourself to be alert and interested. At first it may be hard, but as time goes on you will feel less and less awkward and will make friends. I do not mean that you should do as the crowd does if that would be lowering your standards of right. You can be a good sport without being cheap. I am sure that all you need is practice in mingling.

Was She a Fool?

To satisfy her parents, Evelyn became engaged to Eugene. But she was not happy. In her eyes, Eugene was too perfect, too gentle and gravely correct. The ideal lover she dreamed of had in him something of the savage. She pictured him as big, virile, masterful, brave. Then in the black, frozen wastes of Alaska, a devil, disguised as Evelyn's ideal of a "man", came into her life. Followed a drama of elemental passion, fierce hate and fiercer love that was to test Eugene's manhood to the limit and try Evelyn's very soul. The outcome is as thrilling as it is unexpected. Evelyn tells the story under the title of "The Primitive Lover." Read it in True Story Magazine for March.

Surgeons, Physicians, Dentists Use Wonderful New Antiseptic

We are calling the attention of the good people of East Liverpool and vicinity of Kojene, the most powerful, non-poisonous, non-alcoholic, non-irritating Antiseptic known.

In this newspaper we will continue to tell the people, and especially the ailing people, to whom Kojene will prove a blessing, just exactly what physical ills it will help, and in spite of our enthusiasm for this wonderful antiseptic will stick to the truth in every statement we make.

We will not exaggerate—although some of the things we write may seem exaggerated.

Nothing equals Kojene for irrigation of the antrum; for Pyorrhea and Gingivitus; for Stomatitis, Trench Mouth, pus pockets and all cases of infection.

Kojene, so we will tell more people who need it, is four times as powerful as an antiseptic than Carbolic Acid. It is much more powerful than poisonous bichloride of mercury, and will not burn or even irritate the tenderest membrane.

We will tell the readers of this paper of its wonderful and quickly effective action in Tonsilitis and sore throat; of how completely it drives out the offensive mucus of catarrh and thoroughly cleans the entire nasal tract.

We will tell them of its remarkable success in the treatment of cankers in the mouth and how quickly it succeeds when used for Eczeme, itching skin, ulcers, boils and skin eruptions.

And last but by no means least, we will tell them that as a germ destroying mouth wash it is as far ahead of the highly flavored and bubbling kind as daylight is to candlelight and has no nasty, disagreeable taste.

It is seventy-five times as powerful as the weak kinds whose popularity seems to lie in their weakness and the ignorance of those who use them.

A sixty cent bottle (6 ounces) of Kojene, will make one-half gallon of a stronger, better and more efficient mouth wash than the high priced doubtful ones you buy ready made.

Medical men like to join in any effort to drive menacing poisons from the home and give their support to any great any worthy preparation that destroys pernicious germs and helps humanity—that is just what Kojene does.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Woman's Eternal Hope.

It seems to be woman's nature to hope for the best in her husband even when experience has taught her that he is utterly worthless. An expression of regret and a promise to do better in the future has kept many a woman from the divorce courts, but she finds her life no brighter because of the empty words.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My husband and I separated two years ago. I sued for a divorce and then my husband came to me with promises to be different and persuaded me to withdraw my case. We have two boys; one is four and the other six years of age. I have always had the boys. I have a flat and he has a flat on the same street about two blocks away. Our trouble was over another woman. She is living with her husband and has three children, two in high school. She goes around telling people that he is going to get a divorce now that the two years are up and then they will be married. I suppose she figures that when he gets one her husband will get one too. What should I do? Keep on taking care of the boys while he runs around with her? Should I wait and see if he sues? I don't know what to do. I can see him go to her house and also see him come out.

DESERTED WIFE AND MOTHER.

As long as your husband has not kept his promise to be different and continues to see the other woman, apply again for a divorce. You have given him two years in which to prove himself worthy of you and the boys, and instead of doing so he has only shown you that family ties mean nothing to him. This time do not weaken and take him back only to be hurt against by his disloyty. I doubt if he will sue you. Take the matter in your own hands and don't wait to see.

Longing for Sympathy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman 36 years old. My husband does not seem to care very much for me any more. We have been married nine years and he was very good to me until about a year ago. I am sick most of the time but try to make my home happy. I never go any place and always try to have his meals ready when he comes in. It seems as if he chooses some one else for his company. I am not jealous and never throw such a thing up to him, but when he comes in he never asks me how I am or talks to me. It is more than I can stand for I love him. Please advise me what to do.

SNOW BALL.

Don't let yourself get hurt when your husband fails to inquire about the kind of day you have put in or the doctor's last report of your condition. Also refrain from mentioning the subject of your health to him. In case he should ask, be as cheerful and hopeful as possible, giving promise of better days ahead. It would be better for you to get away from home than to stay at home all the time to keep things up and have meals on time. You need to be refreshed by meeting people and attending amusements. If your husband will take you to a theatre or entertainment, go even if you are sick afterward. In the long run you will be better for the change. As it is your life is very monotonous and you have nothing to offer your husband in the way of conversation when he returns home. My advice isn't very consoling, but it is the only thing I can say.

Lonesome for Old Times.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 20 and away at school. I find it very hard to mingle with boys here and I always feel out of place in their presence. Before I came away I went "steady." I don't want to forget the boy at home, but I would like to be able to have good times like other college girls. I don't feel happy in the presence of boys. Please advise me how to overcome this awkward feeling.

LONESOME SAL.

Don't shrink within yourself merely because it would be easier than to attend social functions. Force yourself to be alert and interested. At first it may be hard, but as time goes on you will feel less and less awkward and will make friends. I do not mean that you should do as the crowd does if that would be lowering your standards of right. You can be a good sport without being cheap. I am sure that all you need is practice in mingling.

Was She a Fool?

To satisfy her parents, Evelyn became engaged to Eugene. But she was not happy. In her eyes, Eugene was too perfect, too gentle and gravely correct. The ideal lover she dreamed of had in him something of the savage. She pictured him as big, virile, masterful, brave. Then in the black, frozen wastes of Alaska, a devil, disguised as Evelyn's ideal of a "man", came into her life. Followed a drama of elemental passion, fierce hate and fiercer love that was to test Eugene's manhood to the limit and try Evelyn's very soul. The outcome is as thrilling as it is unexpected. Evelyn tells the story under the title of "The Primitive Lover." Read it in True Story Magazine for March.

Surgeons, Physicians, Dentists Use Wonderful New Antiseptic

We are calling the attention of the good people of East Liverpool and vicinity of Kojene, the most powerful, non-poisonous, non-alcoholic, non-irritating Antiseptic known.

In this newspaper we will continue to tell the people, and especially the ailing people, to whom Kojene will prove a blessing, just exactly what physical ills it will help, and in spite of our enthusiasm for this wonderful antiseptic will stick to the truth in every statement we make.

We will not exaggerate—although some of the things we write may seem exaggerated.

Nothing equals Kojene for irrigation of the antrum; for Pyorrhea and Gingivitus; for Stomatitis, Trench Mouth, pus pockets and all cases of infection.

Kojene, so we will tell more people who need it, is four times as powerful as an antiseptic than Carbolic Acid. It is much more powerful than poisonous bichloride of mercury, and will not burn or even irritate the tenderest membrane.

We will tell the readers of this paper of its wonderful and quickly effective action in Tonsilitis and sore throat; of how completely it drives out the offensive mucus of catarrh and thoroughly cleans the entire nasal tract.

We will tell them of its remarkable success in the treatment of cankers in the mouth and how quickly it succeeds when used for Eczeme, itching skin, ulcers, boils and skin eruptions.

And last but by no means least, we will tell them that as a germ destroying mouth wash it is as far ahead of the highly flavored and bubbling kind as daylight is to candlelight and has no nasty, disagreeable taste.

It is seventy-five times as powerful as the weak kinds whose popularity seems to lie in their weakness and the ignorance of those who use them.

Medical men like to join in any effort to drive menacing poisons from the home and give their support to any great any worthy preparation that destroys pernicious germs and helps humanity—that is just what Kojene does.

In six ounce bottles at Carnahan's Drug Store, Jesse D. Holloway and Mathews Cut Rate Store and every progressive druggist in America. 60c with the understanding that money will be returned if any purchaser is dissatisfied. Complete and simple directions for treating various ailments with each bottle.

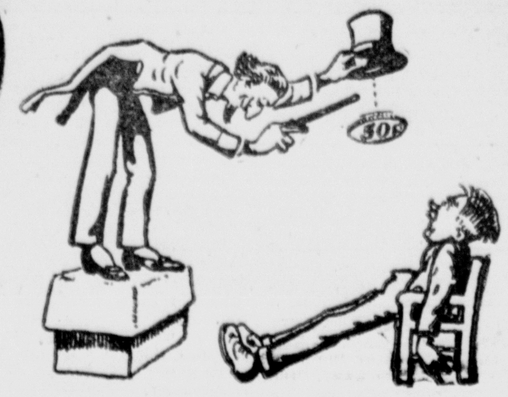
WASTED TAXES



Only fifty cents of the dollar you pay in taxes goes for schools, roads and other public improvements. The rest is waste and "gravy for the boys."

Governor Vic Donahey of Ohio says the taxpayer's dollar is never more than fifty per cent. potent—because of politics.

"It is hard to secure the enactment of any law that has no jobs attached and has nothing to recommend it except its merits," he asserts.

Because the voters liked his program of economy, Governor Donahey, a Democrat, was re-elected by 176,000 last November at the same time Ohio went for the Republican President by 700,000.

He has written an article for THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN that bristles with his fight against wasted taxes—waste that is rampant everywhere. Read Fifty-Cent Tax Dollars, in the February 14th issue now on sale.

Plunder Government

Herbert Quick says that the rotten spot in American politics is county government. County commissions and county courts spend millions and no taxpayer knows where the money goes. Maybe they're honest—surely they're wasteful.... THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is advocating reform in county government, with a paid county manager—a business man—in charge. Read The County Ring, in the February 28th issue.

Cow Country Romance

The days of romance and adventure in the Western cow country are gone but not forgotten. When the old trail drivers meet, they tell again the thrilling tales of the long drives from Texas to Montana, of fights with Indians and desperadoes, when a man had to be quick with his rope and quicker with his gun ..... In the February 14th issue of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN J. Frank Dobie tells some of the wild adventures of The Old Trail Drivers.

Sin of Home Missions

Competition in religion makes the country church the sore spot in American religious life. Too many churches, or no church at all—this is the story in thousands of communities. Why? Dr. Charles J. Galpin, sociologist of the Department of Agriculture, lays the blame squarely on the boards of Home Missions. His article, The Sin of the Home Missions, in the February 14th issue of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN, is brutally frank—but frankly true.

E. Phillips Oppenheim

You're not too late to begin E. Phillips Oppenheim's latest and greatest mystery story—Stolen Idols. It will be followed by Zane Grey's newest novel, The Deer Stalker, and other serials this year by Clarence Budington Kelland and Albert Payson Terhune. You can read them first in THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN .... There are two or three short stories each week besides—by such favorite authors as Edith Barnard Delano, Arthur B. Reeves (Craig Kennedy, detective), Konrad Bercovici and others.

A $1.00 Subscription brings All these Features—regularly

Articles and stories like those described on this page make up the regular content of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN. It offers big articles by big men; a weekly radio page; a new women's department (a complete magazine in itself); a new section on flower and vegetable gardening; a weekly page of laughs; dozens of short, snappy, practical farm articles in each issue. At least two short stories and part of a serial are offered every week. If you use NOW the coupon at the lower right, your subscription will include all of The Deer Stalker, a new novel by Zane Grey.

Radio Made Easy

A part of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN each week is a radio section, conducted by Henry M. Neely, that will help you to buy or make a set—diagnose your radio troubles and prescribe the remedy.

Another part of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is a women's department that is in itself a weekly women's magazine—with 10-cent patterns, home furnishing, new tested recipes, health and child welfare, and those little helps that make house-keeping easy.

Sin of Home Missions

Competition in religion makes the country church the sore spot in American religious life. Too many churches, or no church at all—this is the story in thousands of communities. Why? Dr. Charles J. Galpin, sociologist of the Department of Agriculture, lays the blame squarely on the boards of Home Missions. His article, The Sin of the Home Missions, in the February 14th issue of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN, is brutally frank—but frankly true.

Out of Debt

The United States government contemplates the full payment of the present public debt by 1967. Refunding plans are made with that end in view. It means carrying a big interest burden and at the same time paying off an average of $500,000,000 a year on the principal.

It is reassuring to know that the huge war debt is going to be wiped out eventually. But 42 years seem a long time. It might be shortened, with good luck, particularly by the full payment of American loans to allied countries. But that is hardly to be expected.

The saving fact is that such a burden, equalized over a long period of years, should grow lighter with the normal increase of national wealth. It's the first few years that are the hardest.

It should not be forgotten, however, that this plan is based on the expectation of peace. Another war, any time within those 42 years, would spoil everything and probably pile up a new debt far bigger than the old.

Risk or Safety

Even the driest government documents sometimes contain something that the public seek their fortune in fields of a highly specissued by the Canadian federal department of mines offers sound advice to persons menaced by the "get-rich-quick bug."

"In its early phases," says the report, "the mining industry is an extremely hazardous venture; in fact, mining in general is regarded as risky, and it is not an industry in which trust money should be placed. Prospectors and miners are inherently optimistic, and it is the element of risk that gives zest to their pursuits.

"The prospector may spend many of the best years of his life in the search for the elusive metal without striking anything of value. A thousand a mine of importance. Thus the gru -staking of even the most conscientious prospector is in itself a matclaims are staked for every one that develops into ter of great ris'."

The man whose spirit of adventure makes the game worth playing even if he loses in the end, the man who can afford to work and wait years for results, and the man who can afford to be one of the 999 who lose if he happens not to be the lucky thousandth, may see ktheir fortune in fields of a highly speculative and uncertain nature. Everybody else should stick to the slower but safer methods of getting ahead in worldly wealth.

Decorous Prosperity

Business conditions continue to improve steadily, though slowly.

This is morally a dull time of the year in many lines. Yet there is a persistent increase of industrial output, with a strengthening of prices, and car-loadings are at a high level. Evidently goods are being made, moved and sold in greater volume than for many months. The improvement is not uniform, yet it spreads pretty well through the industries and through the country.

Agriculture, naturally, is more cheerful than it has been for years.

A banker speaks of the improvement as "decorous." It is an odd but felicitous term. "Decorous" means "fitting" or "appropriate." That is what the country needs and wants. Experience in these latter hectic years shows that decorous prosperity, which knows what it is doing and stays within reasonable bounds, is far better than a roughhouse boom.

Delinquent Mothers

A woman supervisor of physical education who has been handling girls for 16 years finds that dancing, moving pictures, jazz, joy-rides and other emotional forms of present-day life are "robbing girls of their childhood and producing prematurely adult women who are over-stimulated and undernourished.

Moreover, she insists it is mostly the fault of the mothers.

She sent out recently more than 400 letters to parents of high school girls, asking them to co-operate in seeing that their children had proper sleep, exercise and food. At the bottom of every letter she wrote, "We are very much interested in your daughter and welcome a conference at any time."

How many mothers accepted that invitation and came in for a conference? "Not one!" says the supervisor. "There was not a single telephone call or a single letter of acknowledgment."

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

MOTOR TRAFFIC NOISE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Does the opera gentleman who signs the hotel register with a lourish demand nowadays, as he once did, an outside front room, not too high up—not above the third or fourth floor? He does not.

He asks for an inside room, as far back from the street as possible, and as near the sky as he can get without camping on the roof, stipulating only that the room be so situated that it will be light and afford ample ventilation.

There is a reason for this, of course, and if this were a cross-word puzzle it would be set forth that the reason is a five-letter word that explains why city folks are troubled with insomnia, and no one would have to look in the dictionary or rack his brain to get the word—noise.

And it's mainly motor traffic noise that has put the inside and rear rooms of hotels on the preferred list. The opulent gentleman who is accustomed to getting what he wants has learned that if he wants to sleep, or even be able to hear himself think, in his hotel room he must be as far as possible from the turmoil of the street. He must get away from the pumping whir of the self-starters, the roar of the engines, the back-fire explosions, the grinding of grears, the shrieking of brakes, the honking of horns and all the other noises that feature motor traffic.

It is no solution of the problem to build new hotels outside the congested districts. The modern caravansary with its thousands of rooms that will house the population of a small city takes congestion and traffic with it wherever it goes. Experts say there is no escaping it—the world of today is necessarily a noisy one and people must become inured to noise. Even the suggestion that hotels occupy only the upper portions of skyscraping structures, giving over the first eight or ten floors to business and office purposes, is dismissed as impracticable.

A CLUB PROBLEM, ALSO

City clubs are finding the noise problem affects them, too. Take the Cosmo club of Washington by way of illustration. The Cosmos is a sedate, dignified institution. Its personnel is made up largely of authors, scientists, artists, professors and the like, and the club atmosphere is fundamentally and distinctively subdued. It is said that the colored doorman had to produce a college degree before he could get his job, so it is readily comprehended what it takes to get one past him as a guest, to say nothing of what the requirements for membership must be.

Also there is the familiar story of the incident in a club lounge. Four members sat before the fireplace immersed in the silence of perfect fellowship. An hour passed. One member yawned and consulted his watch. The second looked at him inquiringly and he murmured gently, "Almost 9 o'clock." The third pulled out his timepiece and consulted it. "Only eight-fifty," he observed. Whereupon the fourth member arose and said, "I'm going to quit this club; it's getting too damned controversial and noisy."

That may have happened at the Cosmos, and again it may not. Anyhow the Cosmos is essentially a quiet place.

The club occupies the famous Dolly Madison house and adjacent properties at the northeast corner of Lafayette square, and for many years the location was regarded as an ideal one in every respect. It was in the heart of the city, but still well out of the congested sections and comparatively little traffic passed that way. Members living in the club who were able to get front rooms overlooking the park counted themselves extremely fortunate, and it was said of them that some died but none moved out.

Now, however, all downtown Washington is congested, there is a maximum of motor traffic everywhere and at all hours, and the Cosmos' corner has become one of the noisiest in the city. Members who occupied those desirable front rooms are now asking to be moved to the extreme rear of the club house, as far as possible from the street.

BUILD FACING BACKWARDS

Frank J. Warne, a well known economist, who lived in one of those front rooms for ten years, says the traffic noise finally got him. "I had to move or give up sleep entirely, and I preferred to move. I'm back on the alley now. I haven't much in the way of a view, but I am able to catch up on my sleep a little."

Having had the traffic noise problem brought home forcibly to him, Mr. Warne has given it some little thought, and he predicts that the not far distant future will see it solved, in part, at least, by a radical change in city building. Houses will be built facing backwards. What is now the front will be made the rear. Front yards will become back yards, and vice versa.

Garages will be built in the front, where, it is argued, they should be logically—as close to the street as possible, and easy of access and egress. Kitchens and storerooms, and such, will likewise be on the street end of dwellings, and the living apartments and sleeping quarters will be well in the rear. What are now the back yards will be given over to lawns, trees, shrubbery and flowers that now adorn front yards.

It is also suggested that there will be more group building—eight or 12 or 16 houses built in a hollow square, all fronting on an inner court which will be parked and beautified, affording a playground for children that will be at once attractive and safe. The garages, kitchens, etc., of such houses would all be on the street ends.

"People must get away from street noises or in a few generations this will be a world of nervous wrecks," says Mr. Warne. "This is a more serious matter than most of us realize now. Speed and noise will get anybody eventually, and the automobile gives us both to an alarming degree. What is it the physician says nine times out of ten when the human machine breaks down or gets out of kilter? 'You need rest and quiet,' is the almost invariable prescription, and I'm inclined to believe that the 'quiet' is the more important part of the prescription."

Motor traffic noise is by no means purely an urban problem. The automobile is ubiquitous, and it makes itself heard along country roads almost as much as along city streets, especially if those roads are main-traveled highways. People who are building in the country are becoming aware of this, and are learning to keep away from the roads, particularly near hills that are at all steep.

An army officer who is building a fine suburban home near Washington passed a wonderful hillcrest location to choose a site seemingly far less desirable and a friend questioned his judgment.

"Go over by that hillside," said the officer, "and see how many automobiles and trucks make the grade without shifting gears and doing everything else that can be done to get noise out of a motor, and then reflect that that road has a steady stream of traffic, almost day and night."

The friend did not have to try the experiment. He saw the point and was convinced at once.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—All Good Americans may not come to Paris when they die unless more burying grounds can be provided. Paris has a grim problem to solve—that of putting away her dead. She has to provide places for more than 40,000 interments a year and space is lacking. Land is already scarce and the absorption of precious ground for cemeteries cannot go on indefinitely. Ivry, Bayeux and Montparnasse have no more places to dispose of, but a plot of 100 hectares at Thiais, north of Paris, has been established to replace them.

An alternative solution is suggested in the resumption by the city after a period of 75 years of the 100-year burial plot concessions which have been abandoned. Out of 15,300 plots leased for more than 75 years in Pere Lachaise cemetery, 52 per cent have been abandoned. And statistics show that out of 166,683 perpetual concessions existing in the 19 burial grounds of Paris, 60 per cent are abandoned after 100 years. The depressing pictures of neglected graves could well be dispensed with.

To die is almost as dear as to live in the City of Light. Burial plots with perpetual care are extremely expensive and within reach of only the very wealthy or very thrifty. A bit of ground just large enough for one body costs much more than the average frugal family can save up. Luckily enough, it can be as deep as one wants, so the family is piled one on top of the other until all are under the sod.

A new American invasion is threatening France, and this time not of the usual spectacled tourists, but delicious little crayfish which have long made good eating on this side of the water. The old kind seems to be dying out, but this new and presumably harder species has been discovered in the waters of the Cher, near the little town of Vierzon. Professor Leger, of Grenoble, thinks that this new one is an American genus, probably the survival of some brought a long time ago from America when an attempt was made to acclimate them in French streams and rivers.

No pay, no enter—tramps in the future will be out of luck if they try to get a taxi ride without paying for it. A bill has just been tabled in the chamber of deputies which is intended for the protection of cab drivers. Until now anyone could jump into a cab and at the end of the journey announce that he had no money to pay for his ride and be none the worse off for it. The chauffeur was the only fellow who suffered. This new law makes swindles of this kind an offense and now persons without the price must either walk or be fined and jailed afterward. This legislation was much needed, it seems, for an increasingly large number of people are making a habit of taxi "fare dadging."

Small cigars threaten to take the place of cigarets for fair Parisiennes, according to the Intransigeant. In fashionable restaurants the waiters now serve the coffee, and without waiting to be asked pass around the box of cigars to feminine clients. They are usually very small ones, like those favored by the women of the northern countries, and of several brands, for every woman has her choice and insists upon getting it. The head attendant of a dining car on the Paris-Boulogne boat train, says that French women are fast taking up the English woman's hibit of smoking and that often the whole smoking compartment will be filled with fair ones, every one of them puffing.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

Sign in another bookshop says Michael Arlen's name is Dikran Kouyoumdjian. No wonder he changed it. Those tiny mustaches continue to sprout. New York needs a Bigger and Better Mustache League. Wonder if a bearded man sleeps with his beard inside or outside the covers.

A place where visitors may rent valets by the day. If I ever have one I'm going to call him Wilkins. High voltage ladies. Who weep over a cabaret mother song. Then pick your pocket. Arthur McKeogh, the magazine editor. Blackthorn cane. And yellow gloves.

That block of shady hotels in the Forties. Where life ambles crab-wise from nothing to nothing. Husks of beauty living on husks. All bluggy and stagnant. A group of Russian midgets seeing the town. They appear aloof and debonaire.

Messenger boys with gayly rocked tambourine caps. A barbershop advertises: "The world's fastest shave—and no conversation." The world is growing too hurried. A woman with a strangely lovely face and walking unsteadily.

The large and sedate man milliner. Who moves with such ponderous suavity. And probably is thinking of artificial flowers and tufts of silk. Bicycles for rent. Whatever became of the silhouette craze? Might as well blame it on the radio.

Nothing so dismal as a deserted stage. Green property crates. Banged-up trunks. And always a cat. A lone jolting cab following a white hearse. That is life—tossing and drifting to the grave. A flicker lit room with an old man playing a violin. A cafe flaunts a sign: "Soft Drinks with a Kick." Here's to loose moments! Ta! Ta!

They tell of a rather foppish young cinema actor who was engaged for a bull fight scene on one of the Long Island movie lots. There was a real bull and the script called for a moment when the beast was to corner the actor so that he must sprint for an especially build shield. The actor showed great timidity the moment the bull was let loose. The director was patient for a time but finally became firm. "Show some courage," he megaphoned.

"But what will I do if the bull gets too close?" shouted the actor.

"Moo like a cow and maybe it will kiss you," replied the director.

Perhaps—if one cared for punning, or do you?—one might call this movie actor a Manhattador.

A policeman stepped into a garage in the automobile district just as a violent explosion took place. He was knocked down and his hair and mustache singed. When he went back to the station to report he was asked what happened. He seemed dubious.

"Perhaps it was spontaneous combustion," said the desk lieutenant.

"That's it," said the cop. "I was there and saw it spontaine."

There is a man of my acquaintance who held the same job steadily for 20 years. Then he decided on a change. That was two years ago and he has had 14 different jobs since then, and each one worse than the preceding one. There's some sort of a moral somewhere, but don't know exactly what it is. TODAY

THE POWER OF OPIUM

Makers of ammunition, whose prosperity depends on war, have been credited with starting various international rows. And, according to Mo. Towala, representing Finland in the league of nations, the makers of arms and munitions are still stirring up trouble.

He demands that the league investigate, in connection with the opium traffic, the shipment of arms into the far east.

Most interesting is the charge declared by Lord Robert Cecil to be sound, that drug addicts are not alone back of China's traffic in opium.

Munitions men urge and finance the Chinese popy culture and opium traffic that the Chinese may have money to pay for the weapons they buy to blow off each other's heads.

That the fighting and the sale of weapons may continue not only the opium traffic, but the ambitions of the various Chinese brigand leaders are encouraged and financed.

That's a nice picture of civilization. Christian nations using one part of their money to send missionaries to China and another part of their money to stimulate the deadly opium traffic, that the heathen may be able to purchase weapons to kill each other.

IT STUPIFIES MEN, MAKES WAR

Christians, however, have no monopoly of the profitable trade. Figures supplied by the league of nations show that of all weapons shipped into China in two years Japan supplied 50 per cent.

Japan's motives are not necessarily as means or mercenary as those of other nations.

Japan is now the great power of Asia, and the only Asiatic world power recognized as such by other nations.

The Chinese are as intelligent as the Japanese, and nearly 10 times as numerous with natural wealth a hundred times greater than that of Japan. If they were united under sane leadership the Chinese would control Asia and Japan would have as much against China as Connecticut would have against the rest of the United States.

Japan is interested, therefore, in not having China too peaceful. Fighting in China means peace of mind in Japan.

The attitude of the Japanese prince regent, looking at the Chinese bandit leaders cutting each other's throats is like that of Louis XI watching his nobles killing each other. "The longer they fight, the stronger they make me, as king of France." However, China is in no hurry.

THE OLDEST ALLIGATOR

The intelligent colored caretaker of the alligators on Mr. Reddington's alligator farm at Anastasia island says, pointing to the oldest alligator, covered with green moss, "that alligator is 900 years old. But they live to be 1,800 years old, yes, sir; that's the amount of time an alligator has got to do everything that he's got to do. I'd stir him up for you and let you see him bite a piece out of this stick, but he's taken to biting pieces out of the fence lately and I have to mend it."

That old alligator was biting things 450 years before Columbus came to this alligator country. China had established a civilization 5,000 years before that date. She may wake up one of these days, if prodded too much and bite pieces out of the fence that Japan and western Europe are building around her.

ENGLAND'S WORRY

England's worry is about putting Europe back on a business basis, with all countries trading and England getting her share. While working at every task to insure her own safety, including the building of flying machines that will go five miles in one minute, England seeks to end the hatred and fear that separate France and Germany.

France lives in constant dread of German attack and Germany lives for the opportunity to wreak her bitter hatred on France. British statesmen feel there can be no such thing as permanent peace or normal conditions in Europe, while that lasts.

While this country was going through its violent fit of war sentimentality, distributing promises and billions abroad, the European plan was to have Uncle Sam guarantee France against German attack, pledging himself to send men and money to back up the guarantee on 24 hours notice.

But since that time Woodrow Wilson has passed on to his reward, and this nation has at least partially recovered its senses. France and England realize that there is not going to be any United States guaranteeing of anything in Europe, or any shipping of American soldiers to Europe for many years to come. Now the question confronting England is, how France can be made to fell safe so that she will allow Europe to get back to a business basis without any definite British guarantee.

While statesmen puzzle their brains, the answer to their question may be found in the high-powered airships that France and England are building. Gigantic armies and navies that cost hundreds of millions a year and necessary in old-style wars, are necessary no longer.

Her 4,000 airships mean more to France in the way of safety than a million of her bravest men in the old-fashioned army. France can say to any nation, "Strike at me, and I shall destroy every one of your big cities within the week." And she could make good the threat.

And the cost of maintaining 4,000 airships is less than the upkeep of one single army corps.

This country should build and maintain 10,000 fighting airplanes, useful in peace, paying their way if intelligently used. The total cost, under the worst conditions, would be less than that of four battleships, and such an air fleet would mean safety.

Italian newspapers discuss the war debts at least frankly. A Roman newspaper, "The National Idea," says that inter-allied war debts simply don't exist. England will not dare insist on payment, knowing the debts ought not to be paid, since without France and Italy the Germans would have conquered England.

And Italy, of course, should not pay any war debts. For without Italy's neutrality in the beginning, and her active help later, Germany would undoubtedly have beaten France, England and Belgium. That last statement is true. Italy's position in regard to the war debts is the strongest.

When, however, European nations suggest, as they all do, that they saved the United States from destruction at the hands of Germany and that they, therefore, ought not to pay what they owe the United States the story is different. The Germans, who could not even cross the channel to England, had about as much chance of invading this country as we should have of invading the planet Mars.

Now the flying machine, deadly gases and explosives have been perfected, now that Asia is only 60 hours and Paris only 20 hours by air from Washington, the story is different. Without an adequate air fleet this country is as defenseless as the Ruhr when France marched in, Germany and the United States are today the two countries without defense and that's dangerous for a nation as rich and tempting as this.

A woman supervisor of physical education who has been handling girls for 16 years finds that dancing, moving pictures, jazz, joy-rides and other emotional forms of present-day life are "robbing girls of their childhood and producing prematurely adult women who are over-stimulated and undernourished.

Moreover, she insists it is mostly the fault of the mothers.

She sent out recently more than 400 letters to parents of high school girls, asking them to co-operate in seeing that their children had proper sleep, exercise and food. At the bottom of every letter she wrote, "We are very much interested in your daughter and welcome a conference at any time."

How many mothers accepted that invitation and came in for a conference? "Not one!" says the supervisor. "There was not a single telephone call or a single letter of acknowledgment."

MOTOR TRAFFIC NOISE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Does the opulent gentleman who signs the hotel register with a flourish demand nowadays, as he once did, an outside front room, not too high up—not above the third or fourth floor? He does not.

He asks for an inside room, as far back from the street as possible, and as near the sky as he can get without camping on the roof, stipulating only that the room be so situated that it will be light and afford ample ventilation.

There is a reason for this, of course, and if this were a cross-word puzzle it would be set forth that the reason is a five-letter word that explains why city folks are troubled with insomnia, and no one would have to look in the dictionary or rack his brain to get the word—noise.

And it's mainly motor traffic noise that has put the inside and rear rooms of hotels on the preferred list. The opulent gentleman who is accustomed to getting what he wants has learned that if he wants to sleep, or even be able to hear himself think, in his hotel room he must be as far as possible from the turmoil of the street. He must get away from the pumping whir of the self-starters, the roar of the engines, the back-fire explosions, the grinding of grears, the shrieking of brakes, the honking of horns and all the other noises that feature motor traffic.

It is no solution of the problem to build new hotels outside the congested districts. The modern caravansary with its thousands of rooms that will house the population of a small city takes congestion and traffic with it wherever it goes. Experts say there is no escaping it—the world of today is necessarily a noisy one and people must become inured to noise. Even the suggestion that hotels occupy only the upper portions of skyscraping structures, giving over the first eight or ten floors to business and office purposes, is dismissed as impracticable.

A CLUB PROBLEM, ALSO

City clubs are finding the noise problem affects them, too. Take the Cosmo club of Washington by way of illustration. The Cosmos is a sedate, dignified institution. Its personnel is made up largely of authors, scientists, artists, professors and the like, and the club atmosphere is fundamentally and distinctively subdued. It is said that the colored doorman had to produce a college degree before he could get his job, so it is readily comprehended what it takes to get one past him as a guest, to say nothing of what the requirements for membership must be.

Also there is the familiar story of the incident in a club lounge. Four members sat before the fireplace immersed in the silence of perfect fellowship. An hour passed. One member yawned and consulted his watch. The second looked at him inquiringly and he murmured gently, "Almost 9 o'clock." The third pulled out his timepiece and consulted it. "Only eight-fifty," he observed. Whereupon the fourth member arose and said, "I'm going to quit this club; it's getting too damned controversial and noisy."

That may have happened at the Cosmos, and again it may not. Anyhow the Cosmos is essentially a quiet place.

The club occupies the famous Dolly Madison house and adjacent properties at the northeast corner of Lafayette square, and for many years the location was regarded as an ideal one in every respect. It was in the heart of the city, but still well out of the congested sections and comparatively little traffic passed that way. Members living in the club who were able to get front rooms overlooking the park counted themselves extremely fortunate, and it was said of them that some died but none moved out.

Now, however, all downtown Washington is congested, there is a maximum of motor traffic everywhere and at all hours, and the Cosmos' corner has become one of the noisiest in the city. Members who occupied those desirable front rooms are now asking to be moved to the extreme rear of the club house, as far as possible from the street.

BUILD FACING BACKWARDS

Frank J. Warne, a well known economist, who lived in one of those front rooms for ten years, says the traffic noise finally got him. "I had to move or give up sleep entirely, and I preferred to move. I'm back on the alley now. I haven't much in the way of a view, but I am able to catch up on my sleep a little."

Having had the traffic noise problem brought home forcibly to him, Mr. Warne has given it some little thought, and he predicts that the not far distant future will see it solved, in part, at least, by a radical change in city building. Houses will be built facing backwards. What is now the front will be made the rear. Front yards will become back yards, and vice versa.

Garages will be built in the front, where, it is argued, they should be logically—as close to the street as possible, and easy of access and egress. Kitchens and storerooms, and such, will likewise be on the street end of dwellings, and the living apartments and sleeping quarters will be well in the rear. What are now the back yards will be given over to lawns, trees, shrubbery and flowers that now adorn front yards.

It is also suggested that there will be more group building—eight or 12 or 16 houses built in a hollow square, all fronting on an inner court which will be parked and beautified, affording a playground for children that will be at once attractive and safe. The garages, kitchens, etc., of such houses would all be on the street ends.

"People must get away from street noises or in a few generations this will be a world of nervous wrecks," says Mr. Warne. "This is a more serious matter than most of us realize now. Speed and noise will get anybody eventually, and the automobile gives us both to an alarming degree. What is it the physician says nine times out of ten when the human machine breaks down or gets out of kilter? 'You need rest and quiet,' is the almost invariable prescription, and I'm inclined to believe that the 'quiet' is the more important part of the prescription."

Motor traffic noise is by no means purely an urban problem. The automobile is ubiquitous, and it makes itself heard along country roads almost as much as along city streets, especially if those roads are main-traveled highways. People who are building in the country are becoming aware of this, and are learning to keep away from the roads, particularly near hills that are at all steep.

An army officer who is building a fine suburban home near Washington passed a wonderful hillcrest location to choose a site seemingly far less desirable and a friend questioned his judgment.

"Go over by that hillside," said the officer, "and see how many automobiles and trucks make the grade without shifting gears and doing everything else that can be done to get noise out of a motor, and then reflect that that road has a steady stream of traffic, almost day and night."

The friend did not have to try the experiment. He saw the point and was convinced at once.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—All Good Americans may not come to Paris when they die unless more burying grounds can be provided. Paris has a grim problem to solve—that of putting away her dead. She has to provide places for more than 40,000 interments a year and space is lacking. Land is already scarce and the absorption of precious ground for cemeteries cannot go on indefinitely. Ivry, Bayeux and Montparnasse have no more places to dispose of, but a plot of 100 hectares at Thiais, north of Paris, has been established to replace them.

An alternative solution is suggested in the resumption by the city after a period of 75 years of the 100-year burial plot concessions which have been abandoned. Out of 15,300 plots leased for more than 75 years in Pere Lachaise cemetery, 52 per cent have been abandoned. And statistics show that out of 166,683 perpetual concessions existing in the 19 burial grounds of Paris, 60 per cent are abandoned after 100 years. The depressing pictures of neglected graves could well be dispensed with.

To die is almost as dear as to live in the City of Light. Burial plots with perpetual care are extremely expensive and within reach of only the very wealthy or very thrifty. A bit of ground just large enough for one body costs much more than the average frugal family can save up. Luckily enough, it can be as deep as one wants, so the family is piled one on top of the other until all are under the sod.

A new American invasion is threatening France, and this time not of the usual spectacled tourists, but delicious little crayfish which have long made good eating on this side of the water. The old kind seems to be dying out, but this new and presumably harder species has been discovered in the waters of the Cher, near the little town of Vierzon. Professor Leger, of Grenoble, thinks that this new one is an American genus, probably the survival of some brought a long time ago from America when an attempt was made to acclimate them in French streams and rivers.

No pay, no enter—tramps in the future will be out of luck if they try to get a taxi ride without paying for it. A bill has just been tabled in the chamber of deputies which is intended for the protection of cab drivers. Until now anyone could jump into a cab and at the end of the journey announce that he had no money to pay for his ride and be none the worse off for it. The chauffeur was the only fellow who suffered. This new law makes swindles of this kind an offense and now persons without the price must either walk or be fined and jailed afterward. This legislation was much needed, it seems, for an increasingly large number of people are making a habit of taxi "fare dadging."

Small cigars threaten to take the place of cigarets for fair Parisiennes, according to the Intransigeant. In fashionable restaurants the waiters now serve the coffee, and without waiting to be asked pass around the box of cigars to feminine clients. They are usually very small ones, like those favored by the women of the northern countries, and of several brands, for every woman has her choice and insists upon getting it. The head attendant of a dining car on the Paris-Boulogne boat train, says that French women are fast taking up the English woman's hibit of smoking and that often the whole smoking compartment will be filled with fair ones, every one of them puffing.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

Sign in another bookshop says Michael Arlen's name is Dikran Kouyoumdjian. No wonder he changed it. Those tiny mustaches continue to sprout. New York needs a Bigger and Better Mustache League. Wonder if a bearded man sleeps with his beard inside or outside the covers.

A place where visitors may rent valets by the day. If I ever have one I'm going to call him Wilkins. High voltage ladies. Who weep over a cabaret mother song. Then pick your pocket. Arthur McKeogh, the magazine editor. Blackthorn cane. And yellow gloves.

That block of shady hotels in the Forties. Where life ambles crab-wise from nothing to nothing. Husks of beauty living on husks. All bluggy and stagnant. A group of Russian midgets seeing the town. They appear aloof and debonaire.

Messenger boys with gayly rocked tambourine caps. A barbershop advertises: "The world's fastest shave—and no conversation." The world is growing too hurried. A woman with a strangely lovely face and walking unsteadily.

The large and sedate man milliner. Who moves with such ponderous suavity. And probably is thinking of artificial flowers and tufts of silk. Bicycles for rent. Whatever became of the silhouette craze? Might as well blame it on the radio.

Nothing so dismal as a deserted stage. Green property crates. Banged-up trunks. And always a cat. A lone jolting cab following a white hearse. That is life—tossing and drifting to the grave. A flicker lit room with an old man playing a violin. A cafe flaunts a sign: "Soft Drinks with a Kick." Here's to loose moments! Ta! Ta!

They tell of a rather foppish young cinema actor who was engaged for a bull fight scene on one of the Long Island movie lots. There was a real bull and the script called for a moment when the beast was to corner the actor so that he must sprint for an especially build shield. The actor showed great timidity the moment the bull was let loose. The director was patient for a time but finally became firm. "Show some courage," he megaphoned.

"But what will I do if the bull gets too close?" shouted the actor.

"Moo like a cow and maybe it will kiss you," replied the director.

Perhaps—if one cared for punning, or do you?—one might call this movie actor a Manhattador.

A policeman stepped into a garage in the automobile district just as a violent explosion took place. He was knocked down and his hair and mustache singed. When he went back to the station to report he was asked what happened. He seemed dubious.

"Perhaps it was spontaneous combustion," said the desk lieutenant.

"That's it," said the cop. "I was there and saw it spontaine."

There is a man of my acquaintance who held the same job steadily for 20 years. Then he decided on a change. That was two years ago and he has had 14 different jobs since then, and each one worse than the preceding one. There's some sort of a moral somewhere, but don't know exactly what it is.

A negro who had unwisely assimilated some alien chickens heard the sheriff was on the trail. Hastily he sought the agent of the railroad, asking for a ticket to the end of the line.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE POWER OF OPIUM

Makers of ammunition, whose prosperity depends on war, have been credited with starting various international rows. And, according to Mo. Towala, representing Finland in the league of nations, the makers of arms and munitions are still stirring up trouble.

He demands that the league investigate, in connection with the opium traffic, the shipment of arms into the far east.

Most interesting is the charge declared by Lord Robert Cecil to be sound, that drug addicts are not alone back of China's traffic in opium.

Munitions men urge and finance the Chinese popy culture and opium traffic that the Chinese may have money to pay for the weapons they buy to blow off each other's heads.

That the fighting and the sale of weapons may continue not only the opium traffic, but the ambitions of the various Chinese brigand leaders are encouraged and financed.

That's a nice picture of civilization. Christian nations using one part of their money to send missionaries to China and another part of their money to stimulate the deadly opium traffic, that the heathen may be able to purchase weapons to kill each other.

IT STUPIFIES MEN, MAKES WAR

Christians, however, have no monopoly of the profitable trade. Figures supplied by the league of nations show that of all weapons shipped into China in two years Japan supplied 50 per cent.

Japan's motives are not necessarily as means or mercenary, as those of other nations.

Japan is now the great power of Asia, and the only Asiatic world power recognized as such by other nations.

The Chinese are as intelligent as the Japanese, and nearly 10 times as numerous with natural wealth a hundred times greater than that of Japan. If they were united under sane leadership the Chinese would control Asia and Japan would have as much against China as Connecticut would have against the rest of the United States.

Japan is interested, therefore, in not having China too peaceful. Fighting in China means peace of mind in Japan.

The attitude of the Japanese prince regent, looking at the Chinese bandit leaders cutting each other's throats is like that of Louis XI watching his nobles killing each other. "The longer they fight, the stronger they make me, as king of France." However, China is in no hurry.

THE OLDEST ALLIGATOR

The intelligent colored caretaker of the alligators on Mr. Reddington's alligator farm at Anastasia island says, pointing to the oldest alligator, covered with green moss, "that alligator is 900 years old. But they live to be 1,800 years old, yes, sir; that's the amount of time an alligator has got to do everything that he's got to do. I'd stir him up for you and let you see him bite a piece out of this stick, but he's taken to biting pieces out of the fence lately and I have to mend it."

That old alligator was biting things 450 years before Columbus came to this alligator country. China had established a civilization 5,000 years before that date. She may wake up one of these days, if prodded too much and bite pieces out of the fence that Japan and western Europe are building around her.

ENGLAND'S WORRY

England's worry is about putting Europe back on a business basis, with all countries trading and England getting her share. While working at every task to insure her own safety, including the building of flying machines that will go five miles in one minute, England seeks to end the hatred and fear that separate France and Germany.

France lives in constant dread of German attack and Germany lives for the opportunity to wreak her bitter hatred on France. British statesmen feel there can be no such thing as permanent peace or normal conditions in Europe, while that lasts.

While this country was going through its violent fit of war sentimentality, distributing promises and billions abroad, the European plan was to have Uncle Sam guarantee France against German attack, pledging himself to send men and money to back up the guarantee on 24 hours notice.

But since that time Woodrow Wilson has passed on to his reward, and this nation has at least partially recovered its senses. France and England realize that there is not going to be any United States guaranteeing of anything in Europe, or any shipping of American soldiers to Europe for many years to come. Now the question confronting England is, how France can be made to fell safe so that she will allow Europe to get back to a business basis without any definite British guarantee.

While statesmen puzzle their brains, the answer to their question may be found in the high-powered airships that France and England are building. Gigantic armies and navies that cost hundreds of millions a year and necessary in old-style wars, are necessary no longer.

Her 4,000 airships mean more to France in the way of safety than a million of her bravest men in the old-fashioned army. France can say to any nation, "Strike at me, and I shall destroy every one of your big cities within the week." And she could make good the threat.

And the cost of maintaining 4,000 airships is less than the upkeep of one single army corps.

This country should build and maintain 10,000 fighting airplanes, useful in peace, paying their way if intelligently used. The total cost, under the worst conditions, would be less than that of four battleships, and such an air fleet would mean safety.

Italian newspapers discuss the war debts at least frankly. A Roman newspaper, "The National Idea," says that inter-allied war debts simply don't exist. England will not dare insist on payment, knowing the debts ought not to be paid, since without France and Italy the Germans would have conquered England.

And Italy, of course, should not pay any war debts. For without Italy's neutrality in the beginning, and her active help later, Germany would undoubtedly have beaten France, England and Belgium. That last statement is true. Italy's position in regard to the war debts is the strongest.

When, however, European nations suggest, as they all do, that they saved the United States from destruction at the hands of Germany and that they, therefore, ought not to pay what they owe the United States the story is different. The Germans, who could not even cross the channel to England, had about as much chance of invading this country as we should have of invading the planet Mars.

Now the flying machine, deadly gases and explosives have been perfected, now that Asia is only 60 hours and Paris only 20 hours by air from Washington, the story is different. Without an adequate air fleet this country is as defenseless as the Ruhr when France marched in, Germany and the United States are today the two countries without defense and that's dangerous for a nation as rich and tempting as this.

SEEK CRIMINAL IN DEATH QUIZ

O. S. U. Dean Says Poisoning Was Work of Murderer.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13—Ohio State University authorities are convinced that the deaths of two students from strychnine poisoning and the narrow escape of four other students were due to the work of a deliberate criminal, Dr. E. F. McCampbell, dean of the O. S. U. college of medicine, said today at noon. Dr. McCampbell is in charge of the renewed investigation into the poison mystery.

Dr. McCampbell refused to reveal the plans university authorities have la'd for their inquiry. He said he feared that such announcement would defeat their purpose.

Police Prosecutor Chester announced today he will issue his report covering the police investigation of the case Saturday. It will be filed with Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of the University, and Chief of Police French.

It is understood that university officials propose to question upper classmen of the college of pharmacy. As part of the investigation, Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of the university, who is expected to take an active part in the probe, will address a mass meeting of pharmacy students Saturday afternoon when he is expected to appeal for aid in solving the mystery.

University officials here for the present at least will not reopen the dispensary at the pharmacy college, where medicines have been issued at cost to students.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—Commercial failures in 1924 numbered 20,615 concerns and 757 banks, the Federal Reserve board announced today.

Liabilities involved totalled $543,-24,559, exclusive of banks, whose capital stock and surplus aggregated $46,642,000. Some of the banks will open without loss to creditors or are already reorganized.

Liabilities of commercial failures were slightly above the total for 1923, according to the board, and considerably higher than the level for years prior to 1920. In 1922 there were 23,676 commercial failures with $626,-896,000 liabilities, while 18,625 firms collapsed in 1921 with record liabilities of $627,402,000.

Kellogg would become secretary of state March 4, the date Charles E. Hughes leaves that office.

London has motor coach "saloon" omnibuses equipped with twenty-two rm chair seats.

DEATH ROLL

through limestone than through muck, it will be much easier in regard to the timbering and will save us considerable time'.

Ordered to Leave Pit

At 9:40 o'clock this morning everyone was ordered to leave the pit by Carmichael. The import of the order has not yet been determined. There still remains the possibility that a minor cavern may exist under another part of the shaft, but this, it was said, will be relatively unimportant so far as expediting digging is concerned.

The strong draft continues to be felt at the bottom and is believed to come from small fissures similar to those already encountered.

Friday the thirteenth brought its burden. Five deluges of earth were thrown on the shaft workers during the night and a fresh timbering crew this morning met similar conditions.

The weather continues cold.

Picks Strike Huge Boulders.

In the pit and shaft, men in mud-caked overalls worked grimily, silently. And among them strode "Dig and Dump" Carmichael fanning the flickering hope, cajoling here, rebuking there, that the work might go on and on and on.

The cold has brought an additional threat against the morale of the camp. The lower cliff, which only a few days ago radiated the heat of a summer-like sun, now mothers icicles hanging like huge stalachtites, some 14 inches in length. The creaking, complaining derrick is covered with a sheeting of glittering ice. Ice coats the timbers in the shaft and even the moisture in the limestone ledges at its bottom has been frozen.

Picks in the shaft today began striking large loose boulders and jutting rocks, hanging loosely among their fellows. It is the type of area which has been described as forming much of the passage to where Collins lies. Below this in the shaft is known to be a limestone ledge and there remains the hope that this ledge may form the roof of Collin's prison.

Military Court in Session.

At Cave City the military inquiry, sitting to hear testimony regarding the Sand Cave district, went into its fourth day's session. No list of witnesses had been announced and it was regarded as likely the session would be only a continuance of the automatic testimony of hill folk crowded into the record through the persistent questioning of the five officer-lawyers who compose the court.

That the shaft is the only feasible method of rescuing Collins, that the work of the troops here has been a matter for general commendation and that an acetylene torch could not have been used in effecting a rescue are the things the state of Kentucky is attempting to prove through its inquiry.

Lieut. Gov. H. H. Denhardt, presiding, said the court would continue sessions over Saturday at least.

Newspapermen Await Word

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 13—The flare of star-shells, the whine of radio, the staccato clik of morse, and buzz of telephones—these will carry to a waiting world the message "Floyd Collins lives," or "Floyd Collins is dead."

Be it night or day when the workers in the shaft reach the Sand Cave prisoner, nearly 100 newspapermen gathered here from all parts of the country have arranged to flash news from Sand Cave. Telegraph wires, linking Cave City with the news centers of the country, have been installed in the little Dixie hotel here. And in that hotel one group of reporters will await the word from their co-workers at Sand Cave nine miles away over the rutty rock-filled roads.

If Collins is found at night, a green star shell will emblazon its message of death in the sky. White will be the color of life.

One newspaper will crack out the news in Continental code by radio to its office 100 miles away.

In addition to this, airships, huge locusts in the fields nearby, awaiting the news when pictorial records of Collins' release from the shaft made by corps of photographers, is entrusted to their pilots for deliverance within a few hours to the nation's metropolitan dailies.

woman down some stairs into a cellar and throwing her, feet first, into a burning furnace, closing the door and walking back through the kitchen and into an alley.

Recalling the unsolved murder of Mrs. J. L. Sheatsley, wife of a Columbus, Ohio, minister, whose charred body was found in the furnace of the Sheatsley home, officers immediately communicated with Columbus authorities. It was remembered that officers investigating the Sheatsley murder had been told of an unidentified stranger having been seen loitering in the neighborhood of the parsonage.

Physicians who examined the man declared he apparently is a victim of Amnesia, but scouted his story of having thrown a woman into a furnace as a fabrication of a diseased mind.

funeral services, this appointment being up to the Stark county commissioners.

Weidemayer's Statement.

"We didn't resign because Governor Donahey pardoned Webb," declared Weidemayer at yesterday's session of the commissioners. "We quit because we didn't think Webb was a suitable man for the job and felt as though the trustees were being made the 'goat' of the whole proceedings."

"However, inasmuch as Mr. Webb has refused to quit, we will stay on the job, temporarily at least, to see how things will work out."

The commissioners of the two counties made an inspection of the home in connection with their meeting. The Stark county board was the first to arrive at the institution and had just completed a visit to the cattle barn when the Columbiana county delegation put in appearance.

"We must have harmony to make a success out of this institution," said Ned Perkins, a member of the Stark county board of commissioners as the meeting ended.

"We're here to make this the best institution of its kind in the state of Ohio," declared Webb. "We've been in the service for 29 years, you know."

Four Men In Flogging Case.

The commissioners expressed sympathy over the death of Mr. Kay. "We've lost a valued member of the board—one who had the interests of the institution at heart, just as we had," one member asserted.

Supt. Webb, his son and two other men were arrested several months ago, after they are alleged to have taken a Canton man to the country back of Canton and horsewhipped him for his friendliness toward the younger Webb's wife.

Workhouse sentences and fines were given Superintendent Webb and his son. Friends of the elder Webb immediately circulated a petition, asking that the governor pardon the home superintendent. Governor Donahey sent a personal representative to Alliance to make a thorough investigation and after his report was filed, pardoned Webb, telling him to "go and sin no more." Webb continued in charge of the children's home while the charges against him was pending in the courts.

Reappointment of Thomas J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, former president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, as a member of the state industrial commission, probably will be confirmed by the Ohio senate on Monday.

Republican members of the senate, at a caucus session yesterday afternoon, voted favorably on the confirmation of Duffy, who is now chairman of the board. The senate rules committee will report Duffy's name when the legislature reconvenes Monday. Three members of the senate opposed confirmation in caucus and will be permitted to vote nay upon roll call.

Duffy has been a member of the commission for 12 years, being named for the first term during the administration of Governor Harmon. He was reappointed by Governors Cox and Harmon.

SENATE FORCES AGAINST WARREN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—A careful check by administration leaders of the senate disclosed today that Charles B. Warren of Detroit, can not be confirmed as attorney general by the present senate, and that it is close enough to be doubtful whether his confirmation can be obtained in the new senate which convenes in special session on March 4.

The anti-Warren forces, who oppose his elevation to the attorney generalship because of his connection with sugar interests, claim to have 51 votes against confirmation in this seate, and to have nearly as many in the new senate.

Independent pools support the claims of the anti-Warren element in so far as the present senate is concerned, but in the new senate the issue appears doubtfully close, with confirmation or rejection hinging upon two or three votes either way.

Joseph Seep Co. Boosts Price of Oil Per Barrel

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 13.—The Joseph Seep company, purchasing agents for the Standard Oil company here, today announced increases of 25 cents a barrel in Cabell, Somerset Medium and Somerset Light and 10 cents a barrel in Ragland Oil.

The new prices are: Cabell, $2.20; Somerset Medium, $2.30; Somerset Light, $2.45, and Ragland, $1.30 a barrel.

Later in the day, the agency announced Corning grade oil would be advanced 30 cents to $2.25 a barrel. There will be no additional increases today, the agency stated.

Prices in other grades were unchanged.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Love at first sight is the best, asserted Doctor Charles Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university in a statement in the Harvard alumni bulletin today.

"It seems to me," he wrote, "that most happy marriages begin in some such way as that, in a sudden emotion which takes by surprise the person who feels it. Doubtless love also grows gradually between friends of long standing, but oftener in women than in men. Most of the unhappy marriages I have known about have taken place for social or pecuniary reasons, without love on the part of one or the other of the pair."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Under the stimulus of another general advance of crude oil prices since the closing of the market Wednesday, the oil stocks led a moderate rally in the early trading today. Prices of representative issues like Standard of New Jersey, Marland, California Petroleum, gained a point or more at the opening and trading in the oil stocks was the most conspicuous of this period.

A decline of about 1,000 barrels a day in crude oil production last week was reported by the American institute of petroleum. Large purchasers of crude oil pushed prices 10 to 40 cent a barrel, making the best grade of Mid Continental crude, $2.23 a barrel. This was apparently what the traders in oil stocks were waiting for and the oils were featured by them at the opening and afterwards. Skelly oil and independent oil and gas were the leaders in the forward movemnt in the low priced shares, Cosden, Pan Americans, Phillips, Shell Union, California, Pete and Pure ol were in good demand. General Petroleum was also a leader reaching new high ground at 54⅜.

Wheat snapped back from four to 9 cents a bushel in the Chicago and Winnipeg markets, following the debacle of the two pre-holiday sessions. Steel reports were favorable. Money was in good supply at call, at 3½ per cent.

Cast Iron Pipe took a secondary position in the specialty stock market. The price dropped ten points to 210 at the opening and declined on light selling at 206 for a drop of 44 points from Wednesday's high and advancing to 213. American Can was strong and active, reaching a new high for this year at 175¼, a gain of four points from Wednesday's close.

St. Paul stocks were under pressure in the second hour, the common declining to 13¾ and the preferred to 22½, near the low of the year. Selling was due to nervousness with respect to the 1925 bond maturity, the traffic reports of this road since the turn of the year being very favorable. Other rails were steady but not very active.

American Sumatra Tobacco, Cuban American Sugar, the shipping stocks and a few of the motors were in good form and sold fractionally higher. Profit-taking appeared in some of the industrial shares in the second hour and the market turned heavy.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

SEEK CRIMINAL IN DEATH QUIZ

O. S. U. Dean Says Poisoning Was Work of Murderer.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13—Ohio State University authorities are convinced that the deaths of two students from strychnine poisoning and the narrow escape of four other students were due to the work of a deliberate criminal, Dr. E. F. McCampbell, dean of the O. S. U. college of medicine, said today at noon. Dr. McCampbell is in charge of the renewed investigation into the poison mystery.

Dr. McCampbell refused to reveal the plans university authorities have la'd for their inquiry. He said he feared that such announcement would defeat their purpose.

Police Prosecutor Chester announced today he will issue his report covering the police investigation of the case Saturday. It will be filed with Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of the University, and Chief of Police French.

It is understood that university officials propose to question upper classmen of the college of pharmacy. As part of the investigation, Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of the university, who is expected to take an active part in the probe, will address a mass meeting of pharmacy students Saturday afternoon when he is expected to appeal for aid in solving the mystery.

University officials here for the present at least will not reopen the dispensary at the pharmacy college, where medicines have been issued at cost to students.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—Commercial failures in 1924 numbered 20,615 concerns and 757 banks, the Federal Reserve board announced today.

Liabilities involved totalled $543,24:559, exclusive of banks, whose capital stock and surplus aggregated $46,642,000. Some of the banks will open without loss to creditors or are already reorganized.

Liabilities of commercial failures were slightly above the total for 1923, according to the board, and considerably higher than the level for years prior to 1920. In 1922 there were 23,676 commercial failures with $626,896,000 liabilities, while 19,625 firms collapsed in 1921 with record liabilities of $627,402,000.

through limestone than through muck, it will be much easier in regard to the timbering and will save us considerable time'.

Ordered to Leave Pit

At 9:40 o'clock this morning everyone was ordered to leave the pit by Carmichael. The import of the order has not yet been determined. There still remains the possibility that a minor cavern may exist under another part of the shaft, but this, it was said, will be relatively unimportant so far as expediting digging is concerned.

The strong draft continues to be felt at the bottom and is believed to come from small fissures similar to those already encountered.

Friday the thirteenth brought its burden. Five deluges of earth were thrown on the shaft workers during the night and a fresh timbering crew this morning met similar conditions.

The weather continues cold.

Picks Strike Huge Boulders.

In the pit and shaft, men in mud-caked overalls worked grimly, silently. And among them strode "Dig and Dump' Carmichael fanning the flickering hope, cajoling here, rebuking there, that the work might go on and on and on.

The cold has brought an additional threat against the morale of the camp. The lower cliff, which only a few days ago radiated the heat of a summer-like sun, now mothers icicles hanging like huge stalachtites, some 14 inches in length. The creaking, complaining derrick is covered with a sheeting of glittering ice. Ice coats the timbers in the shaft and even the moisture in the limestone ledges at its bottom has been frozen.

Picks in the shaft today began striking large loose boulders and jutting rocks, hanging loosely among their fellows. It is the type of area which has been described as forming much of the passage to where Collins lies. Below this in the shaft is known to be a limestone ledge and there remains the hope that this ledge may form the roof of Collin's prison.

Military Court in Session.

At Cave City the military inquiry, sitting to hear testimony regarding the Sand Cave district, went into its fourth day's session. No list of witnesses had been announced and it was regarded as likely the session would be only a continuance of the automatic testimony of hill folk crowded into the record through the persistent questioning of the tive officer-lawyers who compose the court.

That the shaft is the only feasible method of rescuing Collins, that the work of the troops here has been a matter for general commendation and that an acetylene torch could not have been used in effecting a rescue are the things the state of Kentucky is attempting to prove through its inquiry.

Lieut. Gov. H. H. Denhardt, presiding, said the court would continue sessions over Saturday at least.

Newspapermen Await Word

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 13—The flare of star-shells, the whine of radio, the staccato clik of morse, and buzz of telephones—these will carry to a waiting world the message "Floyd Collins lives," or "Floyd Collins is dead."

Be it night or day when the workers in the shaft reach the Sand Cave prisoner, nearly 100 newspapermen gathered here from all parts of the country have arranged to flash news from Sand Cave. Telegraph wires, linking Cave City with the news centers of the country, have been installed in the little Dixie hotel here. And in that hotel one group of reporters will await the word from their co-workers at Sand Cave nine miles away over the rutty rock-filled roads.

If Collins is found at night, a green star shell will emblazon its message of death in the sky. White will be the color of life.

One newspaper will crack out the news in Continental code by radio to its office 100 miles away.

In addition to this, airships, huge locusts in the fields nearby, awaiting the news when pictorial records of Collins' release from the shaft made by corps of photographers, is entrusted to their pilots for deliverance within a few hours to the nation's metropolitan dailies.

woman down some stairs into a cellar and throwing her, feet first, into a burning furnace, closing the door and walking back through the kitchen and into an alley.

Recalling the unsolved murder of Mrs. J. L. Sheatsley, wife of a Columbus, Ohio, minister, whose charred body was found in the furnace of the Sheatsley home, officers immediately communicated with Columbus authorities. It was remembered that officers investigating the Sheatsley murder had been told of an unidentified stranger having been seen loitering in the neighborhood of the parsonage.

Physicians who examined the man declared he apparently is a victim of Amnesia, but scouted his story of having thrown a woman into a furnace as a fabrication of a diseased mind.

Weidemayer's Statement.

"We didn't resign because Governor Donahey pardoned Webb," declared Weidemayer at yesterday's session of the commissioners. "We quit because we didn't think Webb was a suitable man for the job and felt as though the trustees were being made the 'goat' of the whole proceedings."

"However, inasmuch as Mr. Webb has refused to quit, we will stay on the job, temporarily at least, to see how things will work out.'

The commissioners of the two counties made an inspection of the home in connection with their meeting. The Stark county board was the first to arrive at the institution and had just completed a visit to the cattle barn when the Columbiana county delegation put in appearance.

"We must have harmony to make a success out of this institution," said Ned Perkins, a member of the Stark county board of commissioners as the meeting ended.

"We're here to make this the best institution of its kind in the state of Ohio," declared Webb. "We've been in the service for 29 years, you know."

Four Men In Flogging Case.

The commissioners expressed sympathy over the death of Mr. Kay. "We've lost a valued member of the board—one who had the interests of the institution at heart, just as we had," one member asserted.

Supt. Webb, his son and two other men were arrested several months ago, after they are alleged to have taken a Canton man to the country back of Canton and horsewhipped him for his friendliness toward the younger Webb's wife.

Workhouse sentences and fines were given Superintendent Webb and his son. Friends of the elder Webb immediately circulated a petition, asking that the governor pardon the home superintendent. Governor Donahey sent a personal representative to Alliance to make a thorough investigation and after his report was filed, pardoned Webb, telling him to "go and sin no more." Webb continued in charge of the children's home while the charges against him was pending in the courts.

Reappointment of Thomas J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, former president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, as a member of the state industrial commission, probably will be confirmed by the Ohio senate on Monday.

Republican members of the senate, at a caucus session yesterday afternoon, voted favorably on the confirmation of Duffy, who is now chairman of the board. The senate rules committee will report Duffy's name when the legislature reconvenes Monday. Three members of the senate opposed confirmation in caucus and will be permitted to vote nay upon roll call.

Duffy has been a member of the commission for 12 years, being named for the first term during the administration of Governor Harmon. He was reappointed by Governors Cox and Harmon.

SENATE FORCES AGAINST WARREN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—A careful check by administration leaders of the senate disclosed today that Charles B. Warren of Detroit, can not be confirmed as attorney general by the present senate, and that it is close enough to be doubtful whether his confirmation can be obtained in the new senate which convenes in special session on March 4.

The anti-Warren forces, who oppose his elevation to the attorney generalship because of his connection with sugar interests, claim to have 51 votes against confirmation in this seate, and to have nearly as many in the new senate.

Independent pools support the claims of the anti-Warren element in so far as the present senate is concerned, but in the new senate the issue appears doubtfully close, with confirmation or rejection hinging upon two or three votes either way.

Joseph Seep Co. Boosts Price of Oil Per Barrel

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 13.—The Joseph Seep company, purchasing agents for the Standard Oil company here, today announced increases of 25 cents a barrel in Cabell, Somerset Medium and Somerset Light and 10 cents a barrel in Ragland Oil.

The new prices are: Cabell, $2.20; Somerset Medium, $2.30; Somerset Light, $2.45, and Ragland, $1.30 a barrel.

Later in the day, the agency announced Corning grade oil would be advanced 30 cents to $2.35 a barrel. There will be no additional increases today, the agency stated.

Prices in other grades were unchanged.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Love at first sight is the best, asserted Doctor Charles Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university in a statement in the Harvard alumni bulletin today.

"It seems to me," he wrote, "that most happy marriages begin in some such way as that, in a sudden emotion which takes by surprise the person who feels it. Doubtless love also grows gradually between friends of long standing, but oftener in women than in men. Most of the unhappy marriages I have known about have taken place for social or pecuniary reasons, without love on the part of one or the other of the pair."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Under the stimulus of another general advance of crude oil prices since the closing of the market Wednesday, the oil stocks led a moderate rally in the early trading today. Prices of representative issues like Standard of New Jersey, Marland, California Petroleum, gained a point or more at the opening and trading in the oil stocks was the most conspicuous of this period.

A decline of about 1,000 barrels a day in crude oil production last week was reported by the American institute of petroleum. Large purchasers of crude oil pushed prices 10 to 40 cent a barrel, making the best grade of Mid Continental crude, $2.23 a barrel .This was apparently what the traders in oil stocks were waiting for and the oils were featured by them at the opening and afterwards. Skelly oil and independent oil and gas were the leaders in the forward movemnt in the low priced shares, Cosden, Pan Americans, Phillips, Shell Union, California, Pete and Pure ol were in good demand. General Petroleum was also a leader reaching new high ground at 54⅛.

Wheat snapped back from four to 9 cents a bushel in the Chicago and Winnipeg markets, following the debacle of the two pre-holiday sessions. Steel reports were favorable. Money was in good supply at call, at 3½ per cent.

Cast Iron Pipe took a secondary position in the specialty stock market. The price dropped ten points to 210 at the opening and declined on light selling at 206 for a drop of 44 points from Wednesday's high and advancing to 218. American Can was strong and active, reaching a new high for this year at 175¼, a gain of four points from Wednesday's close.

St. Paul stocks were under pressure in the second hour, the common declining to 13¾ and the preferred to 22½, near the low of the year. Selling was due to nervousness with respect to the 1925 bond maturity, the traffic reports of this road since the turn of the year being very favorable. Other rails were steady but not very active.

American Sumatra Tobacco, Cuban American Sugar, the shipping stocks and a few of the motors were in good form and sold fractionally higher. Profit-taking appeared in some of the industrial shares in the second hour and the market turned heavy.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

river front in New Jersey have suffered considerable damage.

A drop in temperature and fair weather brought relief today to residents of some flood menaced areas. Rivers which have run over their banks in Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire, doing a heavy damage, began to subside.

Syracuse Suffers.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Scores of families today were rescued from their homes in the flooded sections of Syracuse, where suffering and hardship is being experienced as the result of the sudden overflowing of Heads on creek.

The relief work is being carried on by firemen and fellow townsmen of the flood victims. A coating of ice covers the Hood waters immersing a large section of the village.

Boats, rafts, ladders are being used to take people from houses, where they were marooned without heat and with their food supply running low.

Wouldn't Exchange With Millionaire

"After five years of suffering with stomach trouble I think I know all about it. But thanks to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, I am enjoying good health again. I know of a millionaire who is very bad with stomach trouble, but he won't take any patent medicine. In his present condition I wouldn't exchange with him." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and Druggists Everywhere.

First Salt Made in 1791.

Louisiana has for years been a source of salt in the United States, the first crude refining having been done on a small scale in 1791 from the salt water springs in that state. The Indians found their salt in this way, however, long before the advent of the white man. In 1812 a more successful method was worked out. In 1862, under the direction of pioneer troops of the Confederate army, rock salt was discovered at Avery Island, just fifteen feet beneath the surface of the ground.

GLORIA STARS IN 'LOVE STORY'

Gloria Swanson, in her latest Paramount picture, "Her Love Story," which is the attraction at the Ceramic theatre tonight, furnishes ample evidence that Kipling knew what he was talking about when he said: "The Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin." Only in Gloria's case it isn't a Colonel's lady but a Queen who shows us that under the thin veneer of royalty she is just a woman.

It may be somewhat of a shock to a good many ordinary folks to learn life isn't all a bed of roses even to a Queen. Of course, she lives in a beautiful place, she wears stunning clothes worth a king's ransom, she is surrounded by numerous servants who are ready to fulfill her slightest wish, but all these material luxuries mean nothing when she is separated from the one she loves.

"Her true Love Story," is based upon Mary Roberts Rinehart's absorbing story, "Her Majesty, the Queen," adapted to the screen by Frank Tuttle. Gloria has the role of a princess who secretly marries a brave young captain of the King's guards. Ter father disregards this marriage which was performed by a gypsy and forces her to marry the King. A son is born to her—the son of her guardsman-lover. She confesses to the King that the child is not his. The result is that she is banished, and the King proclaims the boy as his own.

How her overwhelming love for her boy leads to greater sacrifices, her desperate struggle for hapiness with the one man whom she has never ceased to love and the final thrilling and satisfying ending are grippingly portrayed in a series of tense dramatic situations that tug at the heart-strings.

Never has Gloria looked more beautiful or played her part with greater sympathy, sincereity and understanding. And that goes for the entire supporting cast which includes Ian Keith, George Fawcett, Mario Majeroni and many others. Allan Dwan has given the screenplay an extravagant production that is a delight to the eye. Such entertainment as "Her Love Story" affords is mighty rare and should not be missed.

Library Plan Successful.

BUCYRUS, Feb.—The barrel placed in front of the Bucyrus public library in which patrons might, without embarassment, drop library books long overdue, has proven to be such a success that it will be retained in its present position another week it was announced. During the past year, the library loaned 30,442 books, an increase of 1,412 over the preceding year, it was said.

What Did That Meal Cost?

Several dollars—not counting your time and labor—and it might have been ruined, all because of heavy bread or a soggy cake. GLORIA STARS IN 'LOVE STORY'

Gloria Swanson, in her latest Paramount picture, "Her Love Story," which is the attraction at the Ceramic theatre tonight, furnishes ample evidence that Kipling knew what he was talking about when he said: "The Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin." Only in Gloria's case it isn't a Colonel's lady but a Queen who shows us that under the thin veneer of royalty she is just a woman.

It may be somewhat of a shock to a good many ordinary folks to learn life isn't all a bed of roses even to a Queen. Of course, she lives in a beautiful place, she wears stunning clothes worth a king's ransom, she is surrounded by numerous servants who are ready to fulfill her slightest wish, but all these material luxuries mean nothing when she is separated from the one she loves.

"Her true Love Story," is based upon Mary Roberts Rinehart's absorbing story, "Her Majesty, the Queen," adapted to the screen by Frank Tuttle. Gloria has the role of a princess who secretly marries a brave young captain of the King's guards. Her father disregards this marriage which was performed by a gypsy and forces her to marry the King. A son is born to her—the son of her guardsman-lover. She confesses to the King that the child is not his. The result is that she is banished, and the King proclaims the boy as his own.

How her overwhelming love for her boy leads to greater sacrifices, her desperate struggle for happiness with the one man whom she has never ceased to love and the final thrilling and satisfying ending are grippingly portrayed in a series of tense dramatic situations that tug at the heart-strings.

Never has Gloria looked more beautiful or played her part with greater sympathy, sincerity and understanding. And that goes for the entire supporting cast which includes Ian Keith, George Fawcett, Mario Majeroni and many others. Allan Dwan has given the screenplay an extravagant production that is a delight to the eye. Such entertainment as "Her Love Story" affords is mighty rare and should not be missed.

Library Plan Successful.

BUCYRUS, Feb.—The barrel placed in front of the Bucyrus public library in which patrons might, without embarassment, drop library books long overdue, has proven to be such a success that it will be retained in its present position another week it was announced. During the past year, the library loaned 30,442 books, an increase of 1,412 over the preceding year, it was said.

What Did That Meal Cost?

Several dollars—not counting your time and labor—and it might have been ruined, all because of heavy bread or a soggy cake. You may have saved a fraction of a cent by using an unreliable baking powder—but you took the chance of ruining your baking—making a failure of your meal. Do you call that economy?

CALUMET

will make a success of any meal because it always produces perfect bakings—and that's what counts in the success or failure of a meal. No other baking powder is any better—regardless of the price you pay—none is any more economical in use; for Calumet has far greater leavening strength—it goes farther—lasts longer. The last spoonful is as good as the first. Millions of housewives use Calumet—so do the leading hotels, big railroads, renowned restaurants and good bakers.

START WORK ON RAILROAD "Y"

Tools and Supplies Begin to Arrive at Yellow Creek.

With the arrival at Yellow Creek of the first consignment of tools, equipment and materials of various kinds, the first actual steps toward the construction of the Pennsylvania Railroad "Y," which will connect the river road line to the main line, were taken this week, according to rail officials here.

The construction on the new railroad connection will be done by the H. E. Culbertson Construction Co., of Clevelend, whose represenatives have already arrived on the site of the work.

A small building erected on the northern end of the "Y," a short distance out on the main line, is the first actual physical sign of the improvement propect, which will link the main line with the river road and eliminate the necessity of a change-over in the Wellsville yards.

The small organization of workers now on the job will be augmented constantly as the work progresses.

A new right of way has been acquired by the company which will circle the western side of the Jefferson county children's home.

Jefferson county has deeded to the Pennsylvania railroad a new right of way and in return the railroad company trades to the county two and 601-1000 acres, gives the county $17,500 and agrees to build a new 20-foot macadam road to replace the road which will be vacated.

The present road is located on the plot which the county transferred to the railroad company and over which the new tracks will pass.

Severe weather, it is declared, has held up activities to a great extent up until the present time. Once well under way, however, the Culbertson company expects to rush the project as consistently as possible.

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Plans for the 1925 Redpath Chautauqua in this city have been tentatively announced by officers of the Wellsville Kiwanis club under whose auspices the institution will appear here.

Dates are still under consideration by the club committee.

Headline events of the 1925 Redpath chautauqua will include the comedy success, "Adam and Eve," with a cast of New York players; a lecture by Ruth Bryan Owen on "Modern Arabian Knights;" Gounod's celebrated grand opera, "Faust," as produced by Milton Abern; Jess Pugh, humorist, and Charles H. Brough, former governor of Arkansas.

A distinct departure from previous chautauqua offerings is a melody program by the Jackson Jubilee Singers—seven in number—under the direction of Robert Jackson of Western University of Kansas City. Another unusual specialty will be an illustrated discussion of landscape gardening by Edward A. Marshall of Chicago.

Extensive plans are being made for junior chautauquas. In addition to the organization of Junior Town, there will be a children's specialty on the closing afternoon, and the National Federation of Music Clubs will co-operate in the organization of a junior music club.

Chautauqua dates and further program information will be released by the local committee within the next few weeks.

START WORK ON RAILROAD "Y"

Tools and Supplies Begin to Arrive at Yellow Creek.

With the arrival at Yellow Creek of the first consignment of tools, equipment and materials of various kinds, the first actual steps toward the construction of the Pennsylvania Railroad "Y," which will connect the river road line to the main line, were taken this week, according to rail officials here.

The construction on the new railroad connection will be done by the H. E. Culbertson Construction Co., of Clevelend, whose represenatives have already arrived on the site of the work.

A small building erected on the northern end of the "Y," a short distance out on the main line, is the first actual physical sign of the improvement propect, which will link the main line with the river road and eliminate the necessity of a change over in the Wellsville yards.

The small organization of workers now on the job will be augmented constantly as the work progresses.

A new right of way has been acquired by the company which will circle the western side of the Jefferson county children's home.

Jefferson county has deeded to the Pennsylvania railroad a new right of way and in return the railroad company trades to the county two and 601-1000 acres, gives the county $17,500 and agrees to build a new 20-foot macadam road to replace the road which will be vacated.

The present road is located on the plot which the county transferred to the railroad company and over which the new tracks will pass.

Severe weather, it is declared, has held up activities to a great extent up until the present time. Once well under way, however, the Culbertson company expects to rush the project as consistently as possible.

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Plans for the 1925 Redpath Chautauqua in this city have been tentatively announced by officers of the Wellsville Kiwanis club under whose auspices the institution will appear here.

Dates are still under consideration by the club committee.

Headline events of the 1925 Redpath chautauqua will include the comedy success, "Adam and Eve," with a cast of New York players; a lecture by Ruth Bryan Owen on "Modern Arabian Knights;" Gounod's celebrated grand opera, "Faust," as produced by Milton Aborn; Jess Pugh, humorist, and Charles H. Brough, former governor of Arkansas.

A distinct departure from previous chautauqua offerings is a melody program by the Jackson Jubilee Singers—seven in number—under the direction of Robert Jackson of Western University of Kansas City. Another unusual specialty will be an illustrated discussion of landscape gardening by Edward A. Marshall of Chicago.

Extensive plans are being made for junior chautauquas. In addition to the organization of Junior Town, there will be a children's specialty on the closing afternoon, and the National Federation of Music Clubs will co-operate in the organization of a junior music club.

Chautauqua dates and further program information will be released by the local committee within the next few weeks.

MINGO PASSERS HERE SATURDAY

Zimmerman's Basketeers Prepare to Meet Old Rivals.

Coach Carl Zimmerman's high school basketeers are billed to take on an old athletic rival—Mingo Junction—Saturday night on the local court, instead of tonight, according to announcement today by school authorities.

The game will be the only contest for the Orange and Black five during the present week, according to the schedule, the next event being billed for February 21 at Shadyside.

The clash with the Mingo passers tomorrow will be the first of two engagements between the two teams. The second match is, at the present time, listed as the wind-up event on the card, March 27, at Mingo.

Coach Zimmerman will probably start C. Dickey and H. Dickey at forwards, Weekley on center, and Shea and Scholl or Pignatore at guards, although the definite selections will not be made until game time.

CAMP WORKMAN IS FOUND DEAD

Mike Marick, 50, Freezes to Death in Snow Near Weirton.

Mike Marick, 50 years old, employed by the T. J. Foley Construction company of Pittsburgh, Pa., was found dead along the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad in the vicinity of Weirton yesterday afternoon. The body was discovered in the snow by several mill employes.

Coroner George A. Arner was notified and after arriving at Weirton empaneled a jury which returned a verdict that death had been caused by freezing. How long the body had lain along the tracks was not determined. The remains were brought to the Arner funeral home, where they will be held for relatives who are now being sought.

The dead man, it is said, had been with the construction firm for a long time and was looked upon as a reliable workman and was not addicted to drink. No marks of violence were found on the body.

RURAL SECTIONS LACK PHYSICIANS

A survey of twenty-eight counties of West Virginia, recently made by State Health Commissioner Henshaw, shows the appalling lack of physicians in the rural sections of the state and reveals that the average age of doctors in the country communities is considerably more than fifty years. It further shows that the doctors are grouped, in most counties, in the larger towns, leaving the rest of the county a long way from medical aid. The survey stresses one of the state's greatest health problems; that of adequately protecting the health of the people in the country.

MINGO PASSERS HERE SATURDAY

Zimmerman's Basketeers Prepare to Meet Old Rivals.

Coach Carl Zimmerman's high school basketeers are billed to take on an old athletic rival—Mingo Junction—Saturday night on the local court, instead of tonight, according to announcement today by school authorities.

The game will be the only contest for the Orange and Black five during the present week, according to the schedule, the next event being billed for February 21 at Shadyside.

The clash with the Mingo passers tomorrow will be the first of two engagements between the two teams. The second match is, at the present time, listed as the wind-up event on the card, March 27, at Mingo.

Coach Zimmerman will probably start C. Dickey and H. Dickey at forwards, Weekley on center, and Shea and Scholl or Pignatore at guards, although the definite selections will not be made until game time.

RURAL SECTIONS LACK PHYSICIANS

A survey of twenty-eight counties of West Virginia, recently made by State Health Commissioner Henshaw, shows the appalling lack of physicians in the rural sections of the state and reveals that the average age of doctors in the country communities is considerably more than fifty years. It further shows that the doctors are grouped, in most counties, in the larger towns, leaving the rest of the county a long way from medical aid. The survey stresses one of the state's greatest health problems; that of adequately protecting the health of the people in the country.

YOUTHS BLAMED FOR ROBBERIES

The petty robberies and recent hold-ups in Lisbon has given rise to the thought that all of these offenses have been committed by the same crowd of young men.

The trio that held up William McCord, a driver for the Burnett Taxi service, secured but 50 cents, while the attempt to hold up a machine at the east end of the Canton bridge in Lisbon Tuesday night failed to get the robbers anything.

It is the opinion of some of the members of the Lisbon village council that two officers should be on duty instead of one, as is now the case. It has been proposed by some councilmen to have an officer to go on duty at 12 o'clock noon and work until in the night, and the another go on duty at 6 o'clock at night, remaining until 6 o'clock in the morning.

RUSH CONTINUES FOR DOG LICENSES

"It seems that owners of dogs are more prompt in taking out licenses than they were a few years ago, and it is well that they are," Mr. Hamilton said. "Dozens of arrests were made last year of people who failed to take out a dog license, and within a few weeks there will be a swing around the circuit to see who has failed to pay this year. We're not going to coax people to pay their dog license fee—the law does not require that. It's a case of pay for the license or have charges filed against those who fail to obey the law."

COAL MINE FIRE DAMAGES HOMES

The Beaver Coal & Clay company, operating near Coleman on the Erie railroad, northwest of Lisbon, has been notified by the county board of health, and through County Sanitary Officer Comer Lewis, to extinguish the fire that has been burning for about a week in refuse slate banks near the mine.

This sulphur fire has caused paint to peel from frame houses in the northwestern part of Lisbon. The company has put a number of men at work to extinguish the smouldering fire.

YOUTHS BLAMED FOR ROBBERIES

The petty robberies and recent hold-ups in Lisbon has given rise to the thought that all of these offenses have been committed by the same crowd of young men.

The trio that held up William McCord, a driver for the Burnett Taxi service, secured but 50 cents, while the attempt to hold up a machine at the east end of the Canton bridge in Lisbon Tuesday night failed to get the robbers anything.

It is the opinion of some of the members of the Lisbon village council that two officers should be on duty instead of one, as is now the case. It has been proposed by some councilmen to have an officer to go on duty at 12 o'clock noon and work until in the night, and the another go on duty at 6 o'clock at night, remaining until 6 o'clock in the morning.

RUSH CONTINUES FOR DOG LICENSES

"It seems that owners of dogs are more prompt in taking out licenses than they were a few years ago, and it is well that they are," Mr. Hamilton said. "Dozens of arrests were made last year of people who failed to take out a dog license, and within a few weeks there will be a swing around the circuit to see who has failed to pay this year. We're not going to coax people to pay their dog license fee—the law does not require that. It's a case of pay for the license or have charges filed against those who fail to obey the law."

COAL MINE FIRE DAMAGES HOMES

The Beaver Coal & Clay company, operating near Coleman on the Erie railroad, northwest of Lisbon, has been notified by the county board of health, and through County Sanitary Officer Gomer Lewis, to extinguish the fire that has been burning for about a week in refuse slate banks near the mine.

This sulphur fire has caused paint to peel from frame houses in the northwestern part of Lisbon. The company has put a number of men at work to extinguish the smouldering fire.

End of O'Connell Case Is Near

Landis Will Render Final Decision At Conference Sunday

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The skeleton in baseball's family closet will be tenderly laid to rest within the next 48 hours and thereafter will rattle no more. Judge Landis will officiate at the obsequies and they will be simple, affecting and final. He will arrive in this city on Sunday morning, and at the brief conference with the district attorney a decision will be reached as to whether Jimmy O'Connell shall be punished further for his part in the affair or permitted to go his future way unmolested.

Landis' attitude has been forecost as one of tolerence and clemency toward O'Connell, whose loss in honor has been deemed sufficient to cover his offense. If Landis says the word, the skeleton will have rattled its last.

As matters stand, the district attorney has let it be known that he will be guided by Landis in his future actions, if any. He stands ready to indict O'Connell before the grand jury and prosecute his extradition from California. But Landis will not say the word because the man he is after is not Jimmy O'Connell.

He is an unnamed and unidentified somebody who was so much smarter than O'Connell that he covered his trail perfectly, leaving James holding the well known bag. It seems unlikely that the man in question, if he exists at all, will ever be apprehended.

With the start of another season there will hardly be a headstone to mark the scandal's dishonored grave, unless Cozy Dolan revives the issue temporarily with a civil suit for reinstatement. I am pleased to doubt that he will.

Dolan, however, will make formal application to Landis for reinstatement but it is almost certain that he will be greeted with a refusal as flat as a tailor's iron. The district attorney did not give Cozy the clean bill of health he granted to Young, Frisch and Kelly, but contented himself with the rather pointed inference that Dolan's conduct during the first investigation had laid him open to a suspicion of guilt, which had not been removed in the meantime.

The judge, therefore, would have no reason to copper his own bet. It was his decision that Dolan was guilty and the judge is not one to admit an error while the official scorer happens to be scoring the play as a clean hit.

U. P. Quintet Winner Over Christians

First M. E. Passers Down Penn. Ave. M. E. Crew.

The First United Presbyterian passers of the Sunday school league did the unexpected last night, defeating the Christians on the M. P. court, by the score of 36 to 32.

The game was a hang-over from the first half of the season, having been postponed from an early date. Their victory gives the U. P's a tie for sixth place in the first half standing.

The First M. E. five downed the Penn Ave. M. E. quintet by the count of 44 to 18 while the U. P. lads were winning from the Christians.

Although the Presbyterians got away to a lead with field goals by Berg and Dickey, they failed to hold it, the Chistians being out in front, 8 to 7 when the quarter ended.

The lead changed hands again in the second period. The Presbyterians located the hoops and held a three-point margin when the half ended. The count was 20 to 17.

The Christians came back lustily in the third period and rolled up a seven-point lead before they were headed. But Berg, Dickey and Roberts began a bombardment of the enemy baskets which enabled them to tie the score and then to pass the Christians. The Presbyterians were ahead by the count of 28 to 27 at the end of the period. The Presbyterians held to their advantage in the final period and added a few points by way of good measure. Dickey and Berg were the leading scorers for the winners, contributing 31 of their team's points. Owens, Howard and Kilmer starred for the Christians.

The Methodist Episcopal passers had a comparatively easy evening with their East End opponents, clinching the contest in the first half when the count stood 31 to 10.

The East Enders played better basketball in the third period, scoring eight points and holding their opponents scoreless.

In the final stanza the down-town crew again flashed some of the basketball they displayed in the opening half, making 13 points while the Penn Avenue lads were at a standstill.

Bromby, Dorsey, Cunningham and Karns were the leading performers for the victors while McKim, Rose and Cook stood out for the East End quint.

Invitational Golf Tourney In Fifth City

Clevelanders Sponsor Plan to Attract Noted Players.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13.—Plans for a Cleveland invitational golf tournament of such proportions as to attract national attention are practically certain of success, according to the opinion of promoters.

The project has met with the approval of officers of the Cleveland District Golf association. The big feature of the tournament is to be a trophy, valued at $500, which will be put up for perpetual competition.

At the beginning those in charge of the tournament will confine their efforts simply to arousing enthusiasm in the region of the Great Lakes. A drag net of this proportion will include such well known golfers as Chick Evans, Bob Gardner, Dexter Cummings, Albert Seckel, Art Sweet, Burton Mudge, R. E. Knepper, Ira Couch and Capt. E. F. Carter of Chicago; W. Hamilton Gardner of Buffalo; H. R. Johnston, Minnesota and western amateur champion; Harold Weber of Toledo; W. L. Thompson of Toronto; James L. Standish, jr., of Detroit; Joe M. Wells of East Liverpool; R. L. Wintringer of Steubenville, and, of course, the leading players of the Cleveland district.

It is not the intention of the promoters of the classic to restrict the field to stars. Plans call for five flights, which will take in all those who have any license to enter tournament play. Later, stars from the east, south and far west will be urged to make Cleveland one of their stopping points. Clevelanders hope to make their fixture rival such invitation tournaments as are held annually at many other places.

ALLIANCE, Feb. 13. — Mount Union cage men engage Case Saturday night in Cleveland. With six straight wins and no defeat to the Purple's credit the Cleveland quintet has the worst of the prospects.

Coach Detrick's men, however, are not taking the clash lightly. They are working especially on field goal shooting, in which they made rather a poor showing in the Tuesday game with Kenyon.

Most of the Mount Union's games have been on the home floor so far. Of the remaining five scheduled, only one—Oberlin—will be in Alliance.

Slattery to Meet Delaney Tonight In Garden Arena

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Another sell-out was in prospect for Madison Square Garden tonight when Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., who knocked out victories over Paul Berlenbach and Tiger Flowers, will meet Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, in a return bout of six rounds. Slattery "took" Delaney the last time out, and the consensus today was that he would repeat, the distance being ideally suited to his great speed.

Delaney confined his attention to trying for a knockout in the first bout, but has trained for speed on this occasion in the execution of reversing the decision.

Buckeye Five Faces Second Half of Card

Minnesota and Michigan are Next Foes on Schedule.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13.—Starting the second half of their Big Ten campaign after a lay-off of nearly two weeks, Ohio State's basketeers will attempt to take two big bites in three days on their own court. Tomorrow night they will entertain Minnesota and on Monday night Michigan's quintet is due here.

The Buckeyes defeated the Gophers at Minneapolis on Feb. 2. But they have a score to settle with the Wolverines since the Michiganders are the only Conference quintet so far to upset the Ohioans' applecart. The Minnesota game will be the first here since January 24 when Northwestern was defeated.

At the half way mark of the 1925 Conference campaign the Buckeyes are in second place with a record of five victories and a single defeat. In their non-Conference engagements they have been successful in three out of four, losing only to Princeton, undefeated in the eastern intercollegiate league, by a slender margin.

Including the two contests to be played in the next three days the Ohioans have six games on their basket schedule. Four of these are at home and two will be played elsewhere.

Since their return from the long trip to Minnesota, Coach Olsen has given his hopefuls a respite from intensive training. As a result of the let-up, the Buckeyes hope to start the last lap of the campaign with renewed vigor.

But the Ohio Staters are not taking anything for granted. They remember, somewhat to their sorrow, that it was a defeat at the hands of Minnesota a year ago that cost the Buckeyes a tie for first place in the Big Ten standing in the closing days of the season. Minnesota previously had been beaten here.

Capacity crowds for both the Minnesota and Michigan games are in prospect. And there is even a possibility that one or the other, or even both occasions may see a new Conference basketball attendance mark established. The "S. R. O." sign has been ready for the past 24 hours to hang out at a moment's notice.

Nurmi and Ritola Shatter Records In Buffalo Meet

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Paavo Nurmi shattered three world records—not merely broke them by fractions of seconds, but shattered them by many full seconds in his special event of a meet staged last night by the 106th Field Artillery Athletic association.

The records were the 2,000 yard mark, which he reduced from 5:00 4-5 to 4:53 3-5 seconds, the 2,000 meter mark which he cut from 5:33 to 5:22 2-5 and the mile and a quarter mark which he dragged from 5:30 1-5 to 5:23 3-5, six and two fifths seconds faster than it had ever been run before.

But a short half hour after Nurmi's great run, Willie Ritola, his greatest rival and a countryman, broke all marks for the two miles, running the distance in 9:03 4-5, shattering the time made by Nurmi only last Saturday at th Wilso games in Brooklyn by the wide margin of four and one fifth seconds.

Tex Rickard Denies Guarantee to Champ For go With Wills

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Tex Rickard today denied a report that he had made Jack Dempsey a flat offer of $750,000 to meet Harry Wills in a heavyweight championship bout next summer.

"I would be crazy to make such an offer," Rickard declared. "If Dempsey boxes for me, it will be on a percentage basis. Jack Kearns and the champion understand this perfectly."

Last Night's Fights

"Y" Basketball Games.

The "Y" Industrial Basketball league contests are scheduled for tonight: day at the Wilso games in Brooklyn Hall China (first game at 7:30).

Worse Than Lewis

But why pick on Lewis? We have seen worse wrestlers than Lewis who should have been thrown out of the ring the first time they appeared in it.

Highs Tackle E. Palestine On Saturday

Although the greater part of their attention is centered on the clash tonight with New Philadelphio high on the local school court, Coach O. V. Boone's cagers are not forgetting their engagement for Saturday night which will take them to East Palestine for their only game of the season with the North countains.

A feeling of intense rivalry exists between the two schools and the contest will likely be productive of more thrills than might be expected at first glance.

A mix-up in scheduling last spring, when dates offered by the locals were at first not approved by the East Palestine school is said to have made the north countias even more determined than might have been anticipated ordinarily. Consequently the Blue and White is preparing for a warm battle.

Both the girls' and the boys' teams will be in action tonight here, with New Philadelphia high school the opponent.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Trail blazers for the main detachment of players, who, later, will go to St. Petersburg, Fla., a party of five Yankee ball tossers will leave today to join Babe Ruth for the annual boiling out at Hot Springs. The party will include Everett Scott, Wally Schang, Sam Jones, Steve O'Neill and Urban Shocker. The last two named were added to the roster during the off season. O'Neill being obtained from Boston and Shocker from St. Louis.

Uhle and Shaute on Way to Hot Springs To Start Training

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13.—Pitchers George Uhle and Joe Shaute of the Cleveland pitching staff, accompanied by Coach Jack McAllister, were on their way to Hot Springs today for a preliminary workout. They will be joined there by pitchers Jim Edwards, Sherrod Smith, Ben Karr, Garland Buckeye and catcher Allie Walters.

Bike Riders Thrill Fans.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—More thrills were furnished bike fans at the six-day bicycle race during the night when the American team of Reggie McNamara and Bobby Walthour lapped the field and took undisputed possession of first place. The team of Stockelynch and Goosens is one lap behind, while the other teams are from two to five laps in the rear. The racing during the night was the wildest this week, jams followed each other with such frequency that the nerves of the fans were on edge continually.

The batting average of Cotton Tierney for last season does not indicate much batting strength. The infielder just traded to the Dodgers by the Braves hit but .259. However, the slugging averages, figured on total bases hit for, give him a much sweeter average of 31.

Many of these extra base wallops came at opportune moments, when hits meant something besides fatter batting averages. So Tierney really adds some real batting strength to the Brooklyn team.

End of O'Connell Case Is Near

Landis Will Render Final Decision At Conference Sunday

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The skeleton in baseball's family closet will be tenderly laid to rest within the next 48 hours and thereafter will rattle no more. Judge Landis will officiate at the obsequies and they will be simple, affecting and final. He will arrive in this city on Sunday morning, and at the brief conference with the district attorney a decision will be reached as to whether Jimmy O'Connell shall be punished further for his part in the affair or permitted to go his future way unmolested.

Landis' attitude has been forecost as one of tolerence and clemency toward O'Connell, whose loss in honor has been deemed sufficient to cover his offense. If Landis says the word, the skeleton will have rattled its last.

As matters stand, the district attorney has let it be known that he will be guided by Landis in his future actions, if any. He stands ready to indict O'Connell before the grand jury and prosecute his extradition from California. But Landis will not say the word because the man he is after is not Jimmy O'Connell.

He is an unnamed and unidentified somebody who was so much smarter than O'Connell that he covered his trail perfectly, leaving James holding the well known bag. It seems unlikely that the man in question, if he exists at all, will ever be apprehended.

With the start of another season there will hardly be a headstone to mark the scandal's dishonored grave, unless Cozy Dolan revives the issue temporarily with a civil suit for reinstatement. I am pleased to doubt that he will.

Dolan, however, will make formal application to Landis for reinstatement but it is almost certain that he will be greeted with a refusal as flat as a tailor's iron. The district attorney did not give Cozy the clean bill of health he granted to Young, Frisch and Kelly, but contented himself with the rather pointed inference that Dolan's conduct during the first investigation had laid him open to a suspicion of guilt, which had not been removed in the meantime.

The judge, therefore, would have no reason to copper his own bet. It was his decision that Dolan was guilty and the judge is not one to admit an error while the official scorer happens to be scoring the play as a clean hit.

U. P. Quintet Winner Over Christians

First M. E. Passers Down Penn. Ave. M. E. Crew.

The First United Presbyterian passers of the Sunday school league did the unexpected last night, defeating the Christians on the M. P. court, by the score of 36 to 32.

The game was a hang-over from the first half of the season having been postponed from an early date. Their victory gives the U. P's a tie for sixth place in the first half standing.

The First M. E. five downed the Penn Ave. M. E. quintet by the count of 44 to 18 while the U. P. lads were winning from the Christians.

Although the Presbyterians got away to a lead with field goals by Berg and Dickey, they failed to hold it, the Chistians being out in front, 8 to 7 when the quarter ended.

The lead changed hands again in the second period. The Presbyterians located the hoops and held a three-point margin when the half ended. The count was 20 to 17.

The Christians came back lustily in the third period and rolled up a seven-point lead before they were headed. But Berg, Dickey and Roberts began a bombardment of the enemy basket which enabled them to tie the score and then to pass the Christians. The Presbyterians were ahead by the count of 28 to 27 at the end of the period. The Presbyterians held to their advantage in the final period and added a few points by way of good measure. Dickey and Berg were the leading scorers for the winners, contributing 31 of their team's points. Owens, Howard and Kilmer starred for the Christians.

The Methodist Episcopal passers had a comparatively easy evening with their East End opponents, clinching the contest in the first half when the count stood 31 to 10.

The East Enders played better basketball in the third period, scoring eight points and holding their opponents scoreless.

In the final stanza the down-town crew again flashed some of the basketball they displayed in the opening half, making 13 points while the Penn Avenue lads were at a standstill.

Bromby, Dorsey, Cunningham and Karns were the leading performers for the victors while McKim, Rose and Cook stood out for the East End quint.

Vance's Silent Partner.

Dazzy Vance's silent partner in his strikeout act has signed up for the coming season with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Meaning Hank De Berry, the demon catcher.

Vance himself is frank enough to state that De Berry's capable receiving played an important part in the dazzling one's work last season, which won him the honor of being judged the most valuable man to his team in the National League.

Invitational Golf Tourney In Fifth City

Clevelanders Sponsor Plan to Attract Noted Players.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13.—Plans for a Cleveland invitational golf tournament of such proportions as to attract national attention are practically certain of success, according to the opinion of promoters.

The project has met with the approval of officers of the Cleveland District Golf association. The big feature of the tournament is to be a trophy, valued at $500, which will be put up for perpetual competition.

At the beginning those in charge of the tournament will confine their efforts simply to arousing enthusiasm in the region of the Great Lakes. A drag net of this proportion will include such well known golfers as Chick Evans, Bob Gardner, Dexter Cummings, Albert Seckel, Art Sweet, Burton Mudge, R. E. Knepper, Ira Couch and Capt. E. F. Carter of Chicago; W. Hamilton Gardner of Buffalo; H. R. Johnston, Minnesota and western amateur champion; Harold Weber of Toledo; W. L. Thompson of Toronto; James L. Standish, jr., of Detroit; Joe M. Wells of East Liverpool; R. L. Wintringer of Steubenville, and, of course, the leading players of the Cleveland district.

It is not the intention of the promoters of the classic to restrict the field to stars. Plans call for five flights, which will take in all those who have any license to enter tournament play. Later, stars from the east, south and far west will be urged to make Cleveland one of their stopping points. Clevelanders hope to make their fixture rival such invitation tournaments as are held annually at many other places.

Detrick's Mt. Union Cagers are Favored To Beat Case Squad

ALLIANCE, Feb. 13. — Mount Union cage men engage Case Saturday night in Cleveland. With six straight wins and no defeat to the Purple's credit the Cleveland quintet has the worst of the prospects.

Coach Detrick's men, however, are not taking the clash lightly. They are working especially on field goal shooting, in which they made rather a poor showing in the Tuesday game with Kenyon.

Most of the Mount Union's games have been on the home floor so far. Of the remaining five scheduled, only one—Oberlin—will be in Alliance.

Slattery to Meet Delaney Tonight In Garden Arena

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Another sell-out was in prospect for Madison Square Garden tonight when Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., who knocked out victories over Paul Berlenbach and Tiger Flowers, will meet Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, in a return bout of six rounds. Slattery "took" Delaney the last time out, and the consensus today was that he would repeat, the distance being ideally suited to his great speed.

Delaney confined his attention to trying for a knockout in the first bout, but has trained for speed on this occasion in the execution of reversing the decision.

Buckeye Five Faces Second Half of Card

Minnesota and Michigan are Next Foes on Schedule.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13.—Starting the second half of their Big Ten campaign after a lay-off of nearly two weeks, Ohio State's basketeers will attempt to take two big bites in three days on their own court. Tomorrow night they will entertain Minnesota and on Monday night Michigan's quintet is due here.

The Buckeyes defeated the Gophers at Minneapolis on Feb. 2. But they have a score to settle with the Wolverines since the Michiganders are the only Confereace quintet so far to upset the Ohioans' applecart. The Minnesota game will be the first here since January 24 when Northwestern was defeated.

At the half way mark of the 1925 Conference campaign the Buckeyes are in second place with a record of five victories and a single defeat. In their non-Conference engagements they have been successful in three out of four, losing only to Princeton, undefeated in the eastern intercollegiate league, by a slender margin.

Including the two contests to be played in the next three days the Ohioans have six games on their basket schedule. Four of these are at home and two will be played elsewhere.

Since their return from the long trip to Minnesota, Coach Olsen has given his hopefuls a respite from intensive training. As a result of the let-up, the Buckeyes hope to start the last lap of the campaign with renewed vigor.

But the Ohio Staters are not taking anything for granted. They remember, somewhat to their sorrow, that it was a defeat at the hands of Minnesota a year ago that cost the Buckeyes a tie for first place in the Big Ten standing in the closing days of the season. Minnesota previously had been beaten here.

Capacity crowds for both the Minnesota and Michigan games are in prospect. And there is even a possibility that one or the other, or even both occasions may see a new Conference basketball attendance mark established. The "S. R. O." sign has been ready for the past 24 hours to hang out at a moment's notice.

Nurmi and Ritola Shatter Records In Buffalo Meet

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Paavo Nurmi shattered three world records—not merely broke them by fractions of seconds, but shattered them by many full seconds in his special event of a meet staged last night by the 106th Field Artillery Athletic association.

The records were the 2,000 yard mark, which he reduced from 5:00 4-5 to 4:58 3-5 seconds, the 2,000 meter mark which he cut from 5:33 to 5:22 2-5 and the mile and a quarter mark which he dragged from 5:30 1-5 to 5:23 3-5, six and two fifths seconds faster than it had ever been run before.

But a short half hour after Nurmi's great run, Willie Ritola, his greatest rival and a countryman, broke all marks for the two miles, running the distance in 9:03 4-5, shattering the time made by Nurmi only last Saturday at th Wilso games in Brooklyn by the wide margin of four and one fifth seconds.

Tex Rickard Denies Guarantee to Champ For go With Wills

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Tex Rickard today denied a report that he had made Jack Dempsey a flat offer of $750,000 to meet Harry Wills in a heavyweight championship bout next summer.

"I would be crazy to make such an offer," Rickard declared. "If Dempsey boxes for me, it will be on a percentage basis. Jack Kearns and the champion understand this perfectly."

Last Night's Fights

"Y" Basketball Games.

The "Y" Industrial Basketball league contests are scheduled for tonight: day at the Wilso games in Brooklyn Hall China (first game at 7:30).

Worse Than Lewis

But why pick on Lewis? We have seen worse wrestlers than Lewis who should have been thrown out of the ring the first time they appeared in it.

Highs Tackle E. Palestine On Saturday

Although the greater part of their attention is centered on the clash tonight with New Philadelphio high on the local school court, Coach O. V. Boone's cagers are not forgetting their engagement for Saturday night which will take them to East Palestine for their only game of the season with the North countains.

A feeling of intense rivalry exists between the two schools and the contest will likely be productive of more thrills than might be expected at first glance.

A mix-up in scheduling last spring, when dates offered by the locals were at first not approved by the East Palestine school is said to have made the north countias even more determined than might have been anticipated ordinarily. Consequently the Blue and White is preparing for a warm battle.

Both the girls' and the boys' teams will be in action tonight here, with New Philadelphia high school the opponent.

Five Yank Players Starting Today for St. Petersburg, Fla.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Trail blazers for the main detachment of players, who, later, will go to St. Petersburg, Fla., a party of five Yankee ball tossers will leave today to join Babe Ruth for the annual boiling out at Hot Springs. The party will include Everett Scott, Wally Schang, Sam Jones, Steve O'Neill and Urban Shocker. The last two named were added to the roster during the off season. O'Neill being obtained from Boston and Shocker from St. Louis.

Uhle and Shaute on Way to Hot Springs To Start Training

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13.—Pitchers George Uhle and Joe Shaute of the Cleveland pitching staff, accompanied by Coach Jack McAllister, were on their way to Hot Springs today for a preliminary workout. They will be joined there by pitchers Jim Edwards, Sherrod Smith, Ben Karr, Garland Buckeye and catcher Allie Walters.

Bike Riders Thrill Fans.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—More thrills were furnished bike fans at the six-day bicycle race during the night when the American team of Reggie McNamara and Bobby Walthour lapped the field and took undisputed possession of first place. The team of Stockelynch and Goosens is one lap behind, while the other teams are from two to five laps in the rear. The racing during the night was the wildest this week, jams followed each other with such frequency that the nerves of the fans were on edge continually.

Babe Ruth says the Yankees have a better ball club than the Senators. Huggins has strengthened the club. Yank fans have reason to believe that the new material will make its presence felt. But what will help the Yanks and the other clubs most in their efforts to dislodge the American League champions will be a non-combatant, Mr. Psychology.

The Senators will be playing next season under the strain of being champions. Last year they had nothing to lose and everything to gain. They were in the chase to turn back the Yanks.

Wedded 60 Years, Urges Hard Work For Happiness

CHICAGO, Feb. — "There's no excuse for so many unhappy marriages! If our young people would try harder they could get along. Plenty of hard work will save the modern home." This is the philosophy of Mrs. August Juers, who celebrated her marriage anniversary 60 years ago.

Famous Families In Sport.

Families in sport are quite common. The O'Neill's, the Delehanty's, the Sewells, the Highs and many others have drawn much attention in their day. In these cases however, the athletic prowess has been confined to the male members of the families.

We present today the Tunney family, heretofore represented solely by Gene, light heavyweight fighter, but now boasting also Miss Marge Tunney, his sister.

Miss Tunney isn't following her husky brother's footsteps, however. She goes in for basketball and other sports in which girls and women find more appeal. She is a star now of a New York girl's basketball squad and is winning much attention in the east.

Babe Ruth says the Yankees have a better ball club than the Senators. Huggins has strengthened the club. Yank fans have reason to believe that the new material will make its presence felt. But what will help the Yanks and the other clubs most in their efforts to dislodge the American League champions will be a non-combatant, Mr. Psychology.

The Senators will be playing next season under the strain of being champions. Last year they had nothing to lose and everything to gain. They were in the chase to turn back the Yanks.

Wedded 60 Years, Urges Hard Work For Happiness

CHICAGO, Feb. — "There's no excuse for so many unhappy marriages! If our young people would try harder they could get along.

Plenty of hard work will save the modern home." This is the philosophy of Mrs. August Juers, who celebrated her marriage anniversary 60 years ago.

Famous Families In Sport.

Families in sport are quite common. The O'Neill's, the Delehanty's, the Sewells, the Highs and many others have drawn much attention in their day. In these cases however, the athletic prowess has been confined to the male members of the families.

We present today the Tunney family, heretofore represented solely by Gene, light heavyweight fighter, but now boasting also Miss Marge Tunney, his sister.

Miss Tunney isn't following her husky brother's footsteps, however. She goes in for basketball and other sports in which girls and women find more appeal. She is a star now of a New York girl's basketball squad and is winning much attention in the east.

Attend Revival Meet.

Large delegation from the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ attended revival services last evening at the First Christian church of Wellsville. Rev. Thomas B. Shearer, pastor of the church, delivered the sermon.

Snow White Horses Very Rare.

Snow white horses are very rare animals. This was demonstrated when an Italian commission visited the leading farms in Hungary in an effort to obtain six snow white horses to draw the Pope's carriage in the 1925 Holy Year celebration. Count Esterhazy's farm finally was selected to produce the six horses. There were many animals inspected, which on first sight seemed to be pure white, but in each case some dark speck was detected in the coat. Count Esterhazy was the only one who owned snow white horses.

East End Girl Awarded Honor at Aberdeen, Wash.

Miss Ida L. Ramsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Ramsey, 1009 High street, teacher in the high school at Aberdeen, Washington, has been awarded a master of arts degree at the University of Washington, Eugene, Wash., according to word received by her parents.

Tonight Rev. Culp has chosen for his subject, "The Church of God." There will be no services tomorrow evening.

Attend Revival Meet.

Snow White Horses Very Rare.

Snow white horses are very rare animals. This was demonstrated when an Italian commission visited the leading farms in Hungary in an effort to obtain six snow white horses to draw the Pope's carriage in the 1925 Holy Year celebration. Count Esterhazy's farm finally was selected to produce the six horses. There were many animals inspected, which on first sight seemed to be pure white, but in each case some dark speck was detected in the coat. Count Esterhazy was the only one who owned snow white horses.

83-YEAR-OLD LONDON AUCTIONEER SOLD KING CHARLES' BLOODY VEST

LONDON, Feb.—Claiming to be the oldest auctioneer in the world, Henry J. Stephens is still carrying on his work as head of a big London auctioneer's office, despite his eight-three years.

During his sixty-two years' service as an auctioneer Stephens has sold practically everything salable, including some of the weirdest things ever offered from an auctioneer's rostrum.

Among these was the blood-stained vest taken from the body of King Charles I, after his execution; eggs of the prehistoric great auk, stuffed human skulls and bodies, Paul Kruger's hat, and all kinds of weird insects and animals.

Stephens is still vigorous, and he can strike as hard a bargain today as in his earlier years. He works six hours a day and spends the rest of his time gardening and carpentering.

Jamaica has plenty of them, and shipped 12,500,000 bunches of bananas within the last year.

UNUSUAL CHARGE AGAINST WOMAN

Mrs. Tenio Legario, 26 years old, was arrested yesterday in Weirton on complaint of a store proprietor who claimed that the woman entered his place of business and proceeded to take charge of the place. The woman, it is alleged, had acted in a like manner in other stores.

Questioned by the police she attributed her strange actions to the hypnotic power her Spanish husband wields over her. Weirton authorities will have her examined by physicians to test her sanity.

Weirton's Smallpox Situation

Forty cases of smallpox are reported from the colored section of Weirton, an increase of 15 since last week. County health officials are assisting the fight to prevent further spread of the disease.

Beauty Spot Origin Sought.

The origin of the custom among women of decorating the face or back with a black courtplaster design, called the "beauty spot," is being sought by European beauty experts as a means of enriching the history of the beauty parlor. The Dutch claim the honor of having originated the idea nearly five centuries ago when plasters were put on the head to cure headache. Women quickly saw the advantage of using a dark patch to contrast with a fair skin, while others used it to hide a blemish in an artistic fashion. These patches were cut in many artistic shapes.

BEAUTY NEEDS INSIDE HELP

The glorious beauty of the rose is hidden in the cold black earth—in the roots of the bush. They must be nourished if the rose is to bloom in all its beauty. So is it with human systems. Thin, pale, worn-out, sallow women need a stimulant for the source of all health and beauty — the blood, heart, stomach and nerves. Earle's Hypo-Cod is rich in Cod Liver Oil, the greatest of all known system stimulants. By eliminating its terrible fishy taste in Hypo-Cod, medical science has made it as easy to take as rare wine or as pleasant-tasting cordial.

Earle's Hypo-Cod also contains other proven health and body builders which create appetite, put on flesh and give a glow of real health to the cheeks. It can be had at all good drug stores in liquid or tablet form at $1.00 per bottle. Heartily recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews Cut Rate, Economy Drug Store, Bulger's Pharmacy, Gamble's Drug Store, McCutcheon's Pharmacy and Huff's Drug Store in Chester.

Young Ohio Elopers Arrested; Freed by Judge and Warned

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. — John Salus and Mildred Dumsek, 14, of Girard, O., on an order by Judge Edwin O. Lewis, in quarter sessions court, were released from custody and permitted to complete their elopement to this city to be married.

Salus lived on a farm adjoining the girl's father's home in Ohio. They came to this city on January 12 to be married. When they applied for a marriage license, however, and the girl's age was revealed, the license was refused. Later in the day they were eating in a restaurant when a waitress, who had overheard their conversation and noted the youthfulness of the girl, called a policeman, and they were arrested.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Chinese Justice Unique

Chinese justice in modern times is as odd as in the days of Confucius. Recently, a large number of prisoners, including murderers, robbers and those convicted of arson, were freed because the prisons in which they had been detained, were found insanitary and overcrowded. Another instance was instructions to a troop of soldiers to apprehend four bandit soldiers, failure of which on the part of the soldiers, thus detailed, was to mean execution of the troop's commander.

GARDNER HOME WILL OPEN AS BOSTON MUSEUM

Art Loving Public Will Benefit From Fenway Court.

TAXES ARE LOST

Charge Fee During Week; No Admission on Sunday.

BOSTON—Boston's art loving public will derive a great benefit from the addition of Fenway Court, the sumptuous home of the late Mrs. John Gardner, containing many masterpieces of art of ancient and modern times, to the city's various art museums.

The opening of this beautiful Venetian palace, located in splendid surroundings in the Back Bay fens and considered the most famous and beautiful private art palace in the country, was brought about recently by Mayor Curley, following a conference with the special administrators of the estate.

Forthwith the buildings and their contents will be exempt from taxation, a loss to the city of more than $7,000, but in the opinion of the Mayor Curley a great gain in educational and inspirational advantages to the public and lovers of the rare and beautiful.

The museum will open its doors soon. Several slight changes will be made about the buildings to provide for the large number who will visit the estate. The construction of cloak rooms and the like will be made, but no great structural change that will tend to mar the beauty of the buildings.

During week days a small fee will be charged, but on Sunday admission will be free. In the charging of the week day fee the executors of the estate are but following the injunction of Mrs. Gardner, who expressed the opinion that a small admission fee would produce the greatest good for the community in that something paid for was more appreciated. When living Mrs. Gardner occasionally opened her home to the public and charged a fee.

The paintings, furniture, sculpture and other bric-a-brac were accumulated years ago by the Gardners at an estimated cost of over $1,000,000. At present, however, the works are appraised at $8,000,000.

NEW LIFE IS PUT INTO EVERY ORGAN OF A MAN'S BODY

LEO P. SINGER

Mr. Leo P. Singer, operator of an electric crane at the plant of the Sharpville, Pa., furnace, is a happy man. He has reason to rejoice, from the fact that, where a few weeks ago his condition was such that he had cause to complain, he is, today, according to his statement, enjoying the best of health. Mr. Singer resides on Mercer Ave.

He complained of a general run-down condition, nerves shattered, and he looked around for something which he thought might "brace nim up." He ran into Ka-di-ok, the most wonderful herbal tonic and system builder of the present day. He got well acquainted with Ka-di-ok, and today, he and Ka-di-ok are mighty good friends.

It was through hearing good reports from people who had used Ka-di-ok that he secured the introduction. Right from the start, according to Mr. Singer's statement to a Ka-di-ok representative, Ka-di-ok began working on him. There were no-upper-cuts, side-swings, short-arm jabs or punches, no nauseating doses, no knock-out drops; simply a pleasant, soothing method Ka-di-ok usually has of meeting ailing folks and making them feel better.

After becoming thoroughly acquainted with Ka-di-ok, Mr. Singer voiced his sentiments in these few terse words:

"The results I received from Ka-di-ok were the very best. It filled me full of pep and put new life into every organ of my body. I now feel fine."

And the beautiful part of it is, the results usually achieved by Ka-di-ok are lasting. Buy a bottle, read what is claimed for it on the label, and act accordingly. Meet Ka-di-ok; he's a real friend.

Ka-di-ok is sold and recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews' Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 W. Sixth Street.

"POOR MUSICIAN, PADEREWSKI," OFFERED JOB IN SWITZERLAND

GENEVA, Jan.—All Switzerland is laughing at a joke played upon the dance committee of a smal village in the Canton of Vaud.

The committee was unable to obtain a pianist for the village's annual New Year's ball, and, this fact becoming known, a practical joker wrote to the committee saying that "theer is a man named Paderewiski, who plays the piano and is out of work, and he would like a job this winter. He lives at Morges, near Lausanne."

It seems strange that Paderewski should have been unknown to the committee, but the fact remains that it immediately wrote to him offering him a small sum, plus refreshments, for his services.

The famous pianist, entering into the joke, wrote a charming letter in reply "sincerely regretting that he was unable to accept the flattering invitation."

Building Castles.

MIDDLEPORT, Feb.—A number of Meigs countians claim that they will profit heavily financially, if the claims of the Edwards family to valuable real estate in New York City is sustained. Several people here claim direct descent from the original owner of the land.

Alimony Taxed Wife Faces Prison Term; Ex-husband in Want

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Feb.—Mrs. Frank Meiser, the only woman whom Iowa courts have ever decreed should pay her divorced husband alimony, was married in Chicago two months after she was divorced. Her husband, minus the $1,500-a-year alimony he had been receiving, is sleeping nights in police headquarters, a homeless man. Mrs. Meiser was married to G. P. Givens, a roomer in her hotel at the time of her divorce.

If the bride returns to Iowa she will face a term in jail for remarrying without the consent of the court. She tried to obtain this consent before going to Chicago, but the court refused to grant it.

GARDNER HOME WILL OPEN AS BOSTON MUSEUM

Art Loving Public Will Benefit From Fenway Court.

TAXES ARE LOST

Charge Fee During Week; No Admission on Sunday.

BOSTON—Boston's art loving public will derive a great benefit from the addition of Fenway Court, the sumptuous home of the late Mrs. John Gardner, containing many masterpieces of art of ancient and modern times, to the city's various art museums.

The opening of this beautiful Venetian palace, located in splendid surroundings in the Back Bay fens and considered the most famous and beautiful private art palace in the country, was brought about recently by Mayor Curley, following a conference with the special administrators of the estate.

Forthwith the buildings and their contents will be exempt from taxation, a loss to the city of more than $7,000, but in the opinion of the Mayor Curley a great gain in educational and inspirational advantages to the public and lovers of the rare and beautiful.

The museum will open its doors soon. Several slight changes will be made about the buildings to provide for the large number who will visit the estate. The construction of cloak rooms and the like will be made, but no great structural change that will tend to mar the beauty of the buildings.

During week days a small fee will be charged, but on Sunday admission will be free. In the charging of the week day fee the executors of the estate are but following the injunction of Mrs. Gardner, who expressed the opinion that a small admission fee would produce the greatest good for the community in that something paid for was more appreciated. When living Mrs. Gardner occasionally opened her home to the public and charged a fee.

The paintings, furniture, sculpture and other bric-a-brac were accumulated years ago by the Gardners at an estimated cost of over $1,000,000. At present, however, the works are appraised at $8,000,000.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

"She's afraid of every man, Clarice, particularly if he looks big and strong. I think it was some big brutal-looking man who took her from Crisomby Lakes. It's not safe for her to see your father now—it might bring on one of those fearful attacks. Some way, you and I must get her to the hospital, and I suggested a plan to your father, but it all depends on your skill. You can go in and lie down on my bed and seem as unconscious as when she first saw you. With her, impressions fade very quickly, but she still remembers you. I can bring her in and she want to nurse you, as she did before. Then you can get better and she will be happy over it. You can spend most of the day with her and your own tact will tell you how to act and what to say to her—nothing that seems to distress her. Talk to her about her canary—she loves it. This evening you can feel much better and you can tell her that you are going clear into the city to stay; and you can ask her, in my presence, whether she will come and take care of you if you should be ill again, and I shall say that we will both of us come right away, if you need us. Then, as soon as your father has made arrangements, I shall get a message that you need us and I'll say that we will go early in the morning, in a carriage with horses—she is not afraid of horses—she loves animals. We will take the canary with us and start early in the morning, while it's dark. In that way we shall avoid her being frightened by automobiles and pedestrians. Your father will get a carriage and a woman driver and we will get to the hospital before people are about. You will be there in bed and she will begin to nurse you. Then a nurse will appear—you will be supposed to be staying at her house—she will be the lady of the house. You can get better then, and, without her knowing it, she will have a nurse and you can stay with your mother. They will know at the hospital how to manage after that. Can you do it?"

"Indeed I will. And you thought of all that! I'll do anything you tell me."

"Madame Navarre says you can act—do it now, to the best of your ability."

"I will." A fleck of color showed in Clarice's cheeks. "I asked father, and he told me to ask you—will you tell Mr. Rossiter that—that he thought all wrong about father? Father said he didn't mind Mr. Rossiter's knowing about mamma. It's just that I want him to know. I'm going to stay with mamma always, but I want him to know."

"So she has made her sacrifice, too!" Karesia thought. "She thinks she is going to give up her career. But even in her trouble, she doesn't forget the man she loves."

Karesia wanted to say, "You know, Rand and I are only friends now, there is nothing between us," but she did not. It would be apparent enough to Clarice in time. "I will, Clarice," she promised. "Rand will think well of you for what you are doing. Everyone will, when they know."

XXXVIII

Karesia Kaime's double house was empty; no Mary Bliss, empty silence next door, no Takimoto moving about the place, no Clarice whirring her car into action in the garage below, no Dascome striding along the gallery, then his ring sounding through her house. A great emptiness after days of stir and anxiety.

They had taken Elaine Dascome away early in the morning of the second day after Karesia had made her discovery. Her plan had succeeded, Clarice had played her part well, and the drive to the hospital had been accomplished without any mishap to Elaine, though most of the time she had clung to Karesia in terror. The strangeness of it all had distressed her; the occasional automobiles that had whirred by them in the darkness had frightened her, and the huge building into which Karesia had taken her was bewildering. They had climbed so many stairs and had walked along such long halls. Karesia had told her that this was a large house in which "the pretty girl" was staying; if Karesia had told her that it was a hospital, Elaine would not have understood, but she knew the meaning of "doctor;" a doctor was one of her terrors, and Karesia had been careful not to suggest anything of that kind. The presence of the canary was a great help; in her anxiety over the tiny bird, Elaine had forgotten some of her fear.

Karesia had acquainted herself beforehand with the side entrance and the side stairway and the exact location of the big sunny room which Dascome had secured, and when, finally, the canary cage under one arm and Elaine clinging to the other, she came into the room and saw her charge go directly to the bed on which Clarice lay, Karesia felt ready to collapse. The perspiration of strain and anxiety had stood in drops on her forehead and the palms of her hands had been moist. It had been a terrible undertaking; she had been responsible for the plan. She had been too terribly anxious to think of the strangeness of it, she with her arms about Dascome's wife, soothing and talking to her throughout that long drive, and Elaine's pitiful clinging to her. little child-woman had an immense faith in Karesia Kaime; Clairce needed her care and protection, but Karesia was the great protector of them all, of Clarice, of the canary, and of herself. And now they were safely here.

Karesia had found a spot for the canary cage, and then a chair for herself, and through a mist she had heard Elaine's whisper, "I think she is very ill again—she doesn't wake up. I think I had better bathe her face."

"Yes," Karesia had said, looking at her through the mist. "Do whatever you think will be good for her. Then I'll find the nice woman who is taking care of her and bring her here."

Karesia had found her way through the fog and out into the hall. Then she had felt better; she had never fainted in her life, but she had been near to it. She had been on such a strain these last few days.

The nurse was out there and evidently she had been carefully instructed. "I saw you coming with her and kept out of the way. Is everything all right?" she had asked.

"I will." A fleck of color showed in Clarice's cheeks. "I asked father, and he told me to ask you—will you tell Mr. Rossiter that—that he thought all wrong about father? Father said he didn't mind Mr. Rossiter's knowing about mamma. It's just that I want him to know. I'm going to stay with mamma always, but I want him to know."

"So she has made her sacrifice, too!" Karesia thought. "She thinks she is going to give up her career. But even in her trouble, she doesn't forget the man she loves."

Karesia wanted to say, "You know, Rand and I are only friends now, there is nothing between us," but she did not. It would be apparent enough to Clarice in time. "I will, Clarice," she promised. "Rand will think well of you for what you are doing. Everyone will, when they know."

XXXVIII

Karesia Kaime's double house was empty; no Mary Bliss, empty silence next door, no Takimoto moving about the place, no Clarice whirring her car into action in the garage below, no Dascome striding along the gallery, then his ring sounding through her house. A great emptiness after days of stir and anxiety.

They had taken Elaine Dascome away early in the morning of the second day after Karesia had made her discovery. Her plan had succeeded, Clarice had played her part well, and the drive to the hospital had been accomplished without any mishap to Elaine, though most of the time she had clung to Karesia in terror. The strangeness of it all had distressed her; the occasional automobiles that had whirred by them in the darkness had frightened her, and the huge building into which Karesia had taken her was bewildering. They had climbed so many stairs and had walked along such long halls. Karesia had told her that this was a large house in which "the pretty girl" was staying; if Karesia had told her that it was a hospital, Elaine would not have understood, but she knew the meaning of "doctor;" a doctor was one of her terrors, and Karesia had been careful not to suggest anything of that kind. The presence of the canary was a great help; in her anxiety over the tiny bird, Elaine had forgotten some of her fear.

Karesia had acquainted herself beforehand with the side entrance and the side stairway and the exact location of the big sunny room which Dascome had secured, and when, finally, the canary cage under one arm and Elaine clinging to the other, she came into the room and saw her charge go directly to the bed on which Clarice lay, Karesia felt ready to collapse. The perspiration of strain and anxiety had stood in drops on her forehead and the palms of her hands had been moist. It had been a terrible undertaking; she had been responsible for the plan. She had been too terribly anxious to think of the strangeness of it, she with her arms about Dascome's wife, soothing and talking to her throughout that long drive, and Elaine's pitiful clinging to her. little child-woman had an immense faith in Karesia Kaime; Clarice needed her care and protection, but Karesia was the great protector of them all, of Clarice, of the canary, and of herself. And now they were safely here.

Karesia had found a spot for the canary cage, and then a chair for herself, and through a mist she had heard Elaine's whisper, "I think she is very ill again—she doesn't wake up. I think I had better bathe her face."

"Yes," Karesia had said, looking at her through the mist. "Do whatever you think will be good for her. Then I'll find the nice woman who is taking care of her and bring her here."

Karesia had found her way through the fog and out into the hall. Then she had felt better; she had never fainted in her life, but she had been near to it. She had been on such a strain these last few days.

The nurse was out there and evidently she had been carefully instructed. "I saw you coming with her and kept out of the way. Is everything all right?" she had asked.

MOST BRITISH DIVORCES OCCUR IN FAMILIES WITH FEW CHILDREN

LONDON, Jan. — Of 2,834 divorce suits brought in Great Britain last year 1,166 of the couples concerned were childless, according to statistics recently issued here.

Supporting the argument that childless marriages are more often than not the cause of unhappiness in the home, the statistics show that there were 896 divorce cases brought in which there was one child, 444 cases in which the parties had two children and 310 cases in which there were three to six children. There were only thirteen cases in which the parties had over six children.

The statistics also show that most divorces are brought after from five to ten years. There were only sixteen suits brought where the parties had been married under one year and only 321 after twenty years.

English Women Seeking Divorce Under New Law

LONDON, Feb. — More and more English women are now petitioning for divorces as the result of recent legislation placing wives and husbands on an equal plane as regards divorce.

Much Gold Used in Arts

Annually, there is about $80,000,000 worth of gold used in arts. It goes into jewelry, gilding, as fillings for teeth and in similar work in the fine and liberal arts. Some of them ost skilled workers of any crafts are employed for this work and great precaution has to be taken to account for the material, in some instances the drains of the workers' washrooms being so perfect that gold dust washed from their hands can be reclaimed. This alone amounts to many thousands of dollars in a year.

BOY MURDERERS ARE SENTENCED TO HANG ON FRIDAY, FEB. 13

BUTLER, Ga., an.—Willie Jones and Gervais Bloodworth are in custody of Sheriff R. A. McGriffin, here awaiting death on the gallows, Friday, February 13.

The boys walked through the gallows pen, unconcernedly, on their way to the court house, where Judge W. J. H. Searcy, of Griffin, Ga., sentenced them to hang on "hoodoo" day. They showed no emotion as the death sentence was imposed.

The youths—they are hardly more than children—were convicted of murdering and robbing Howard F. Underwood, a prosperous neighbor, on December 3, 1923.

Desperate efforts have been made to save their lives. Once, when an injunction prevented their execution, the novel plea was set up that being alive on the day set for their death, they could never thereafter be legally executed. The courts brushed aside all these technicalities.

If we'd think about posterity as much as we do about prosperity, succeeding generations would be born healthier and wealthier.

Twelfth Night, a King Idea

Since the days of King Alfred, Twelfth Night (the twelfth night after Christmas), January 6, has been celebrated as a holiday and while it was originally, like Christmas, sacred, it has become a time for frolicking and costume merrymaking. It was supposed to commemorate the visit of the Magi to the manger of Christ. A cake is usually cut and the man finding a bean in his piece is made King and the girl who finds a pea in her slice, is hailed Queen of the party.

Eel grass, a variety of seaweed that grows in Newfoundland, is being used as a substitute for horsehair or feathers in stuffing cushions, mattresses and other upholstered articles.

Taking Insects Unawares.

Insects which spread disease to humans and crops, or otherwise are pests, will be killed in a new way by the U. S. Department of Agriculture whose chemistry experts are concocting bait which contains the odors most attractive to the insects, but into which have been fused poisons deadly to them. The chemists are extracting the scents from the insects' favorite foods and these will then be made synthetically in the laboratory. Boll Weevils have already been fought in this way, the poison being used with cotton bolls.

BOY MURDERERS ARE SENTENCED TO HANG ON FRIDAY, FEB. 13

BUTLER, Ga., an.—Willie Jones and Gervais Bloodworth are in custody of Sheriff R. A. McGriffin, here awaiting death on the gallows, Friday, February 13.

The boys walked through the gallows pen, unconcernedly, on their way to the court house, where Judge W. J. H. Searcy, of Griffin, Ga., sentenced them to hang on "hoodoo" day. They showed no emotion as the death sentence was imposed.

The youths—they are hardly more than children—were convicted of murdering and robbing Howard F. Underwood, a prosperous neighbor, on December 3, 1923.

Desperate efforts have been made to save their lives. Once, when an injunction prevented their execution, the novel plea was set up that being alive on the day set for their death, they could never thereafter be legally executed. The courts brushed aside all these technicalities.

If we'd think about posterity as much as we do about prosperity, succeeding generations would be born healthier and wealthier.

LONDON, Feb. — London has one saloon to every 1,500 inhabitants, according to a recent census.

Twelfth Night, a King Idea

Since the days of King Alfred, Twelfth Night (the twelfth night after Christmas), January 6, has been celebrated as a holiday and while it was originally, like Christmas, sacred, it has become a time for frolicking and costume merrymaking. It was supposed to commemorate the visit of the Magi to the manger of Christ. A cake is usually cut and the man finding a bean in his piece is made King and the girl who finds a pea in her slice, is hailed Queen of the party.

Eel grass, a variety of seaweed that grows in Newfoundland, is being used as a substitute for horsehair or feathers in stuffing cushions, mattresses and other upholstered articles.

Taking Insects Unawares.

Insects which spread disease to humans and crops, or otherwise are pests, will be killed in a new way by the U. S. Department of Agriculture whose chemistry experts are concocting bait which contains the odors most attractive to the insects, but into which have been fused poisons deadly to them. The chemists are extracting the scents from the insects' favorite foods and these will then be made synthetically in the laboratory. Boll Weevils have already been fought in this way, the poison being used with cotton bolls.

Woman Probate Judge

MIDDLEPORT, Feb.—Meigs county now has its first woman county official. Mrs. Cora Roberts, former school teacher, has just taken office as probate judge. She is the mother of several children and is credited with having conducted a clever campaign against several men who were candidates last fall for the probate judgeship.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"Hellenism Has Played Vital Part in Christianity's Progress," Says Greek Minister.

Charalambous Simopoulos, the Greek minister to the United States, addressing the Washington Classical Club recently, said the strength of Hellenism throughout the ages had been due to the fact that Greece has always been not merely a country but also, and above all, an "idea."

"The advent of Christianity," he said, "found no other civilization as well prepared to receive the teachings of our Lord, as the Hellenic civilization. Hellenism, with the teachings of Socrates and Plato, had foreseen that a new world was about to be born and shortly after our Lord had spoken, Hellenism realized that the teachings of Jesus Christ were destined to bring a world wide transformation and without the slightest hesitation offered its help.

"Without Hellenism the propogation of Christianity would have been a much more difficult task. Without the advent of Christianity the Greek people would never have survived. Christianity used the civilized organizations which had been established by Hellenism in the ancient institutions which were dying, Christian institutions rapidly began to flourish.

"Greece had been reborn in allying herself with Philip and Alexander, and now she allied herself with Christianity which was teaching the most noble ideals. Hellenism, through its language, dominated the Near East, and thus controlled its organization.

"At this time Constantine the Great appeared and realized the fact that the ancient world was in its last agony, that a new world was ready to succeed that that this new world was beginning to prosper in the Near East. Then he abandoned Rome and founded a new capital on the shores of the Bosphorus, which since that time has borne his name and which became the seat of Christian Hellenism."

The medieval age of Hellenism produced a new civilization. The byzantine court was one of the most brilliant in the medieval age. Greek churchmen, orators, generals and artists illuminated all this period of the Greek Empire and the Church of St. Sofia, the Church of the Wisdom of God, is the result of Greek genius equally with the Parthenon at Athens."

The "long Turkish night," the speaker called the period which followed the fall of Constantinople, which heeled up through the dissensions between the Christians of the East and of the West during the crusades tracing the path of the Byzantine Empire.

"Hellenism fell but was not lost under the barbarian yoke," he declared, "as even when falling it rendered its greatest service to humanity. The small number of the elite among the Greeks who had escaped the massacre were scattered throughout Europe, especially in nearby Italy, carrying with them their manuscripts, their science, their philosophy. They were received in the different Italian courts and greatly contributed to the Italian renaissance, propagating the Greek language, Greek works and classics of which they were the pious guardians.

"Those who remained in what now became the Turkish empire gathered themselves around the chief of their church. Under the terror of the Turkish yoke they jealously maintained the religion and language of their ancient traditions and above all the sentiment of their nationality. At the heart of the oppressor they developed themselves as a state within a state. The Patriarch, supreme head of the church, was also the head of the nation aided by a devoted clergy in all of the provinces. This was the dawn of Modern Hellenism which has grown out of such unprecedented slavery."

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"Hellenism Has Played Vital Part in Christianity's Progress," Says Greek Minister.

Charalambous Simopoulos, the Greek minister to the United States, addressing the Washington Classical Club recently, said the strength of Hellenism throughout the ages had been due to the fact that Greece has always been not merely a country but also, and above all, an "idea."

"The advent of Christianity," he said, "found no other civilization as well prepared to receive the teachings of our Lord, as the Hellenic civilization. Hellenism, with the teachings of Socrates and Plato, had foreseen that a new world was about to be born and shortly after our Lord had spoken, Hellenism realized that the teachings of Jesus Christ were destined to bring a world wide transformation and without the slightest hesitation offered its help.

"Without Hellenism the propogation of Christianity would have been a much more difficult task. Without the advent of Christianity the Greek people would never have survived. Christianity used the civilized organizations which had been established by Hellenism in the ancient institutions which were dying. Christian institutions rapidly began to flourish.

"Greece had been reborn in allying herself with Philip and Alexander, and now she allied herself with Christianity which was teaching the most noble ideals. Hellenism, through its language, dominated the Near East, and thus controlled its organization.

"At this time Constantine the Great appeared and realized the fact that the ancient world was in its last agony, that a new world was ready to succeed that that this new world was beginning to prosper in the Near East. Then he abandoned Rome and founded a new capital on the shores of the Bosphorus, which since that time has borne his name and which became the seat of Christian Hellenism."

The medieval age of Hellenism produced a line of kings and created a new civilization. The byzantine court was one of the most brilliant in the medieval age. Greek churchmen, orators, generals and artists illuminated all this period of the Greek Empire and the Church of St. Sofia, the Church of the Wisdom of God, is the result of Greek genius equally with the Parthenon at Athens."

The "long Turkish night," the speaker called the period which followed the fall of Constantinople, which heeled up through the dissensions between the Christians of the East and of the West during the crusades tracing the path of the Byzantine Empire.

"Hellenism fell but was not lost under the barbarian yoke," he declared, "as even when falling it rendered its greatest service to humanity. The small number of the elite among the Greeks who had escaped the massacre were scattered throughout Europe, especially in nearby Italy, carrying with them their manuscripts, their science, their philosophy. They were received in the different Italian courts and greatly contributed to the Italian renaissance, propagating the Greek language, Greek works and classics of which they were the pious guardians.

"Those who remained in what now became the Turkish empire gathered themselves around the chief of their church. Under the terror of the Turkish yoke they jealously maintained the religion and language of their ancient traditions and above all the sentiment of their nationality. At the heart of the oppressor they developed themselves as a state within a state. The Patriarch, supreme head of the church, was also the head of the nation aided by a devoted clergy in all of the provinces. This was the dawn of Modern Hellenism which has grown out of such unprecedented slavery."
